Former Gt. Neck Woman Shoots Son

Mrs. Jesse Livermore To Be Held In Jail For Wounding Youth Of 16

FATHER AT BEDSIDE

Jesse, Jr., Pleads For Girl Friend; Gallantly Defends Mother's Act

Santa Barbara, Calif., Nov. 30.—(UP)—In a critical condition from a bullet wound inflicted by his mother, Jesse Livermore, Jr., 16, son of the stock market operator, could forget his pain today to be gallant. He gasped again and again that "mother didn't mean to shoot me."

The 6-foot prep school athlete and favored child of the picturesque Wall Street figure was bleeding internally from a bullet fired into his body by twice-divorced Dorothea Wendt Livermore Longcope as an aftermath to a drinking bout early yesterday.

The bullet had lodged in his liver and physicians expected him to pass the "critical stage" within the next 12 hours.

A few doors away in the same hospital, Mrs. Livermore, recovering from opiates administered when she was taken from her home screaming, "I've shot my boy, I've killed my boy."

Father Arrives

The youth's father arrived here shortly after 4 a. m. (7 a. m. EST). He came by airplane from St. Louis and went immediately to the hospital.

Dr. Neville Usher told him the boy was "holding his own" and escorted him into his son's room.

"His condition is very critical, the small bore bullet having entered the lower right area of the chest and probably penetrated the liver," Dr. Usher said.

Mrs. Livermore was lecturing her son on the evils of drink after a gray evening at their home.

The boy grabbed a quart of whiskey and tilted it to his mouth.

"I'll show you," he shouted, according to Neville.

Slapping the bottle from his lips, Mrs. Livermore cried: "I'd rather see you dead than drinking that way."

Young Livermore marched from the room, returning a few seconds later with a small-bore shotgun.

"You haven't the nerve to shoot me," he said, handing his mother the weapon.

Neville said he rushed over, took the gun away from the boy and carried it back to a bedroom.

As the youth was carried from the 14-room mansion in an ambulance, he muttered, "It's all right. It's nothing. Don't blame mother."

Physicians said both young Livermore and his mother were "intoxicated."

Motorist Killed, 3 Hurt In Auto Crash At Westbury

Condition Of Victims Reported As Serious; Machines Are Wrecked

One person was killed and 3 others seriously injured at 8:45 p. m. yesterday when cars collided at the intersection of School street and Old Country road, Westbury.

William Liddle, 62, of Prospect avenue, East Meadow, operator of one of the cars, received a fractured skull and several broken ribs.

Anna Liddle, 18, same address, sustained contusions of both legs, a laceration on the left side of the face and ear and a possible fracture of the skull, police report.

Henry Challen, 21, of 146 Duffy avenue, Hicksville, and his brother Martin, 16, both suffered lacerations of the scalp. The 3 injured persons were also brought to the Meadowbrook hospital.

According to police, Liddle was driving a car southbound on School street and Stinik was proceeding west on Old Country road when the accident occurred.

Another accident occurred in Westbury yesterday according to police, when William Jenkins Jr. of Hempstead, while operating a car west on Union and Kuno, 32 of 105 Station road, Great Neck, lost control of the steering wheel, mounted the curb and struck a pole.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown with a lace veil terminating in a train. She carried white roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridegroom's best man, Alfred Lombardi, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Croo, the bridegroom's niece, and Miss Eleanor Fogel of Manhasset, both of whom wore dresses of peach and brown and carried yellow tea roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Roslyn Restaurant on Northern boulevard, Roslyn, for the immediate families and intimate friends.

Registration of theatre workers for the Federal Theatre Project in Westchester and Nassau and Suffolk Counties will close in a few days, it was announced today by Philip W. Barber, Regional Administrator of the Federal Theatre Project for New York State.

A sufficient number of theatre workers have already registered for the Westchester and Nassau-Suffolk drama projects to form two playing units for each section.

Registration of theatre workers from other classifications of workers to the drama project is proceeding at a rapid pace.

Mr. Barber urged again that every professional theatre worker, if eligible under relief requirements, no matter what function he performs in the theatre, re-register at once under his proper classification.

Registration for the Nassau-Suffolk Federal Theatre Project now takes place on the 3rd floor of the Nassau Collegiate Center.

The hours have been changed and are now from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. daily, except Saturday and Sunday, instead of from 2 to 4 the same days.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON By Ray Tucker

APPETITE Some business men are beginning to suspect that they have overplayed their hand against the New Deal. They like Mr. Roosevelt no more than they ever did, but they fear that they themselves may be holding back a full return of public confidence.

This note has been struck at recent meetings of top-notchers at Boston, New York and Chicago. Several speakers suggested a more discriminating and selective attack upon the administration.

Several speakers suggested a more discriminating and selective attack upon the administration. Although delimiting Mr. Roosevelt's fundamental program, they praised such by-products as corporate refunding, an embryo building boom, elimination of farm surpluses through the AAA, increased public confidence in banks because of the guarantee of deposits.

In plain words, they are suspicious of the ingredients but they have an appetite for the pudding. The same difficulty besets the GOP as it prepares to detail its indictment of FDR for 1936.

So Mr. Roosevelt has drafted J. D. Ross as head of a secret squad of investigation. Mr. Ross used to head Mr. Ickes' power division but he was named to the Securities Exchange Commission when the holding company bill was enacted.

ALIBI The inside story of the purchase of German steel for PWA projects indicates that certain administrationites are playing a dangerous game. They seem to think they can win more votes by charging a "collusion" against the steel manufacturers than they may lose by alienating anti-Nazi elements—Jewish and Catholic voters.

HUGHES The Supreme Court still snubs all efforts of radio interests to put them on the air when they approve or dissent the New Deal "experiments." The President, Congress and Cabinet members have succumbed to the broadcasters, but the court stands 6 to 3 against serial publicity.

CUTTING REP. Jack Cochran's one-man campaign for reduction of federal expenditures is bearing fruit. Although the Missouri Congressman has no real power departmental heads are breaking their necks to supply him with information on the cost and number of personnel.

RIDDLE New York sharpens its attempt to enforce the Guffey Act by providing that holders of government contracts shall buy coal only from companies which have signed up for the new code which breed more headaches in Washington than the collective Sunday hangover of all the football crowds in the country.

JUDGES New York conservatives are keeping a careful eye on changes in the federal judiciary. Judge Hamilton's decision in favor of the Guffey Act—with its eloquent reasoning on behalf of the broad federal powers under the Constitution—was a sharp reminder that their well-laid plans to abolish the New Deal via the courts may go awry where the President has named 53 federal circuit and district judges out of a total of less than 200.
