Mr. Sam McKinney Lecture

Mr. Sam McKinney
Maritime Museum
Vancouver

will be addressing the Vancouver Institute on September 25 at 8:15 p.m. in Lecture Hall No. 2 in the Woodward Instructional Resources Centre, University of British Columbia.

Our West Coast Heritage: Captains Cook, Vancouver, and Bligh

Formerly coordinator of the Columbia River Heritage Program in Portland, Oregon, Mr. McKinney earned his credentials as a maritime historian the hard way, "by first-hand, wet and cold voyages that retrace the routes of various explorations." Twice, by small boat, he traced George Vancouver's 1792 circumnavigation around Vancouver Island, and completed a 5,200 mile boat voyage across North America that traced the Lewis and Clark homeward bound trek of 1806. His publications include Bligh, A True Account of the Mutiny Aboard HMS Bounty and Reach of Tide, Ring of History, a narrative history of the Columbia River. Mr. McKinney's lecture coincides with the visit of a replica of Captain Cook's ship HMS Endeavour to Vancouver this fall.

CECIL AND IDA GREEN LECTURE

History and Cinema: Imagining Britain's Past

Educated at Sussex and Oxford University, Professor Eley taught at Cambridge before joining the faculty at the University of Michigan in 1979. He is one of the most prominent, influential and controversial specialists on the history of modern Germany, having authored 11 books and over 200 scholarly articles and reviews on this subject and related historical issues. Professor Eley has recently broadened his scope of research and intellectual inquiry to focus on the nature of social and cultural history and the role of the media, including film, in shaping and perpetuating knowledge and images of the past.

Dean Daniel Muzyka
Faculty of Commerce
University of British Columbia

will be addressing the Vancouver Institute on October 23 at 8:15 p.m. in Lecture Hall No. 2 in the Woodward Instructional Resources Centre, University of British Columbia.

Building the Adaptive Corporation

UBC's new Dean of Commerce, Dr. Daniel Muzyka, was educated at Wharton and the Harvard Business School. A passionate believer in a strong and mutually productive dialogue between academics and business people, he has roots in both communities, having worked for G.E. and more recently as associate dean of the MBA program at INSEAD, one of Europe's most prestigious business schools. Dr. Muzyka has devoted his research to the study of entrepreneurship - the prime moving force behind all economic activity. Dr. Muzyka's research has focused on how companies can maintain the entrepreneurial spirit throughout their evolution and how to help the corporation adapt better in the modern, dynamic and highly competitive global environment.

Nobel Laureate in Physics
Department of Physics
Massachusetts Institute of Technology

will be addressing the Vancouver Institute on November 20 at 8:15 p.m. in Lecture Hall No. 2 in the Woodward Instructional Resources Centre, University of British Columbia.

The Search For Antimatter in Space

One of the most exciting physicists active today, Dr. Ting was raised in mainland China and Taiwan and, at the age of 20, emigrated to the U.S. He received his doctorate from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. Dr. Ting won the Nobel prize for the discovery of the charmed quark, one of Nature's basic building blocks. He is the leader of the largest experiment -- involving an international team of about 500 physicists -- at CERN, the European laboratory for particle physics in Geneva, Switzerland. He is also the leader of a novel experiment which placed a large magnet in orbit around the earth. This experiment has just produced its first results in the search for anti-matter and other particles beyond the earth's atmosphere.
