What is the City of Buffalo Common Council?

The City of Buffalo Common Council is the legislative branch of city government. There are nine council members, each elected by their own district. The Common Council has existed in some form since the incorporation of Buffalo in 1832.

What powers does the Common Council have?

The Common Council has all the legislative powers of the city and the power to confirm the mayor's major administrative appointments.<sup>1</sup> It is also responsible for adopting the city's annual operating and capital budgets, as well as the city's four-year capital program.<sup>2</sup>

The Common Council has the power to:

- Enact local laws and ordinances;<sup>3</sup>
- Adopt resolutions, rules, and regulations;<sup>4</sup>
- Authorize the borrowing of funds by the city;<sup>5</sup>
- Impose taxes and special assessments;<sup>6</sup>
- Acquire by purchase, gift, or eminent domain any interest in real and/or personal property for any city purpose or as by law;<sup>7</sup>
- Dispose of any real or personal property of the city;<sup>8</sup>
- Appoint local officers such as a city clerk and other staff to the Common Council as deemed necessary for the proper functioning of the Council;<sup>9</sup>
- Fix the salary and compensation of every officer and employee of the city except as may be otherwise provided by law;<sup>10</sup>
- Investigate and inquire into all matters of concern to the city and its inhabitants and require and enforce by subpoena the attendance of witnesses or the production of documents at such investigations.<sup>11</sup>

This fact sheet was drafted by PPG interns Alana Barrington Dye and Schyler Norton. It updates a 2009 version by Edward Hawthorne, a University at Buffalo School of Law student.

It outlines the powers and responsibilities of the Buffalo Common Council and includes contact details and brief background information for the nine sitting council members.

The fact sheet also lists the current committees and subcommittees of the Common Council, and where and when meetings are held.

Read additional fact sheets on government entities in Western New York in the Buffalo Commons library, at ppgbuffalo.org.

What are the key limits to the Common Council’s power?

The mayor is responsible for all executive and administrative functions and controls the day-to-day affairs of the City. Under the City Charter the mayor may veto actions taken by the Council. The Council may override the mayor’s veto with a vote of six of the nine members.<sup>12</sup>

How are council members elected?

A Council Member is elected when they receive a majority of the vote from the district in which they are seeking to serve. Council members may serve in certain leadership positions in the Common Council: President, President Pro Tempore, and Majority and Minority Leaders. These positions are selected by the council members, and each leadership position has a two year term.<sup>13</sup>

How long is a council member’s term of office?

Common Council Members serve four year terms of office. All current council members are serving a term of office beginning January 1, 2016 and ending December 31, 2019.<sup>14</sup>

What are Buffalo’s Common Council districts?

The City of Buffalo is made up of nine Common Council districts: Delaware, Ellicott, Fillmore, Lovejoy, Masten, Niagara, North, South, and University (pictured at right).<sup>15</sup> Fact sheets on each of the nine districts are available at ppgbuffalo.org.

Does my council member have a duty to address my concerns?

One of the main responsibilities of a council member is constituent service. The city charter mandates that a council member consider and address in a timely and thorough manner any concerns regarding the affairs of the city that are communicated to him or her by residents of or visitors to Buffalo.<sup>17</sup>

What are the Common Council Committees and Subcommittees, and who are their respective members?<sup>18</sup>

PAST COUNCIL MEMBER SPOTLIGHT

Cora P. Maloney

Council Member Maloney was the first woman and first African-American woman to serve on the Common Council. She was elected in 1957 and served two terms for the Masten District until her death in 1961.

Maloney became involved with the Democratic Party in Buffalo after moving to the city in 1945. Her experience fundraising and ringing doorbells for community organizations led her to consider running for office.

In 1959, Maloney refused to attend the U.S.

Conference of Mayors in New Orleans. Due to segregation, she would not have been allowed to stay at the same hotel as the other delegates. Mayor Frank A. Sedita stood by her and also refused to attend the conference.

Maloney expressed her political ideology as such: "I'm a feminist. Women are the watchdogs of civilization. It's always a feminine voice which cries for better government and better social laws."<sup>24</sup>

LEGISLATION COMMITTEE addresses local laws, ordinances, and general legislation except those that are referred to the Committee on Civil Service.
