HATE CRIME STATISTICS

1996

Uniform Crime Reports

FOREWORD

Since the passage of the 1990 Hate Crime Statistics Act which mandated FBI collection of hate crime data as part of the Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program, law enforcement agencies across the Nation have continued to make impressive efforts to meet FBI reporting standards. The task has not been easy. Defined as crime motivated by preformed, negative bias against persons, property, or organizations based solely on race, religion, ethnicity/national origin, sexual orientation, or disability, hate crime is by its very nature often difficult to identify; the toll on its victims immeasurable. Yet the collection of data concerning hate crime, now permanently integrated into the FBI UCR Program, provides an invaluable tool in attaining the knowledge requisite to developing strategies for addressing bias-motivated crime.

The data presented in this volume are evidence of the commitment of the law enforcement community to actively identify, compile, and submit hate crime statistics. Program participation by local, state, and federal law enforcement agencies, key to the success of the FBI UCR hate crime data collection, has increased by more than 18 percent over 1995 participation, and the goal of obtaining a thorough and comprehensive hate crime data set is ever nearer.

Efforts to establish law enforcement participation in FBI UCR hate crime data collection warrant both acknowledgment and appreciation. While the recently publicized images of burning churches serve as reminders that bias-motivated crime is ever-present and challenge law enforcement to respond, the submission of these data indicate that law enforcement across the Nation is forcefully meeting that challenge.

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION

In response to the passage of the Hate Crime Statistics Act of 1990, the Attorney General designated the FBI's Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program to develop and implement a data collection system for its nearly 17,000 voluntary law enforcement agency participants. With the cooperation and assistance of several local and state law enforcement agencies already experienced in the investigation of hate crimes and the collection of related information, comprehensive guidelines for the compilation of hate crime data were established.

The Hate Crime Statistics Act was amended by the Violent Crime and Law Enforcement Act of 1994 to include crimes motivated by a bias against persons with disabilities. In order to comply with this amendment, the FBI began collecting data on disability bias crimes on January 1, 1997. Also, the Church Arson Prevention Act, signed into law in July 1996, amended the Hate Crime Statistics Act by permanently extending the data collection mandate. The removal of the sunset clause from the original statute reinforces the FBI's commitment to making hate crime data collection a permanent part of the UCR Program.

Collection Design

The data collection effort is designed to capture information about the type of bias serving as the motivating factor, the nature of the offense, and the characteristics of victims and offenders. When developing a reporting program, planners considered many factors. For example, they recognized that hate crimes are not separate, distinct crimes, but rather traditional offenses motivated by the offender's bias. An offender, for example, may commit an assault because of his/her bias against the victim's race, religion, sexual orientation, ethnicity/national origin, or disability. It was, therefore, not necessary to create new crime categories. To the contrary, hate crime data could be obtained by collecting additional information about crimes currently being reported to the UCR Program. The bias motivations reported would be those specifically addressed by the Hate Crime Statistics Act, i.e., prejudice against a race, religion, sexual orientation, or ethnicity/national origin. Because of the difficulty of determining an offender's subjective motivation in the commission of a crime, bias would be reported only after law enforcement investigation revealed sufficient evidence that the offender's actions were motivated, in whole or in part, by bias.

The Hate Crime Statistics Program has been endorsed by the International Association of Chiefs of Police, the National Sheriffs' Association, the former UCR Data Providers' Advisory Policy Board (now part of the Criminal Justice Information Services Advisory Policy Board), the International Association of Directors of Law Enforcement Standards and Training, and the Association of State Uniform Crime Reporting Programs. These endorsements were crucial to the successful implementation of the program, for without law enforcement's voluntary data collection and support, any effort would be futile.

Training

Since the development of the hate crime data collection program, UCR staff members have provided training to law enforcement personnel in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and U.S. Territories. Personnel from state-level UCR Programs also conduct training in their respective states. Periodic training sessions continue to focus on the standard methodology used to investigate, recognize, and report hate crime.

Participation

In 1996, the FBI received hate crime data submissions from 11,354 law enforcement agencies in 49 states and the District of Columbia. Summary and incident-based data are sent to the FBI either through state-level UCR Programs (see Appendix) or directly from individual agencies in states without Programs. It is important to note that the agencies participating in the hate crime data collection program in 1996 represented 223 million United States inhabitants or 84 percent of the population. This represents an increase of more than 18 percent over the 1995 participation level. Although not sufficient to allow valid national or regional measures of the volume and types of hate crimes, these data offer perspectives on the general nature of hate crime occurrences.

The collection of hate crime statistics at the national level will increase awareness and understanding of the problem. This effort will enable law enforcement agencies to better quantify their resource needs and allocate them to the areas in which they are most essential. Law enforcement agencies have historically demonstrated progressive, professional competence in approaching criminal problems. Their response to the hate crime legislation is no exception, and participating law enforcement agencies are to be commended for their efforts in addressing this issue.

METHODOLOGY

Presented throughout this publication are tables and narrative comments addressing the volume and types of bias-motivated criminal incidents reported to the FBI in 1996. The bias categories listed in the Hate Crime Statistics Act are race, religion, sexual orientation, and ethnicity/national origin. (As previously stated, data collection on disability bias crimes began on January 1, 1997. These statistics will be addressed in the 1997 publication.)

Criminal incidents can involve more than one offense, victim, or offender. For counting purposes, one offense is counted for each victim of a crime against person. One offense is counted for each distinct operation of crime against property and crime against society, regardless of the number of victims. The total number of victims in a given incident is the sum of victims associated with each offense that took place within the incident.

The 11 traditional offense categories included in the collection of hate crime data are murder and nonnegligent manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny-theft, motor vehicle theft, arson, simple assault, intimidation, and destruction/damage/vandalism of property.

In the National Incident-Based Reporting System (NIBRS), the enhanced UCR Program, the hate crime data element applies to all 46 Group "A" Offenses, which include the 11 traditional offense categories. The sum of the 35 Group "A" Offenses not listed are combined and reported in this document as other or as crimes against society.

Hate crime data are submitted to the UCR Program by city, county, and state law enforcement agencies in various ways. For example, data are received on a hard copy Quarterly Hate Crime Report which consists of a quarterly summary and an incident report for each bias incident. Individual agencies or state UCR Programs using personal computers for data collection and storage may submit hate crime data on floppy disks. Agencies participating in NIBRS are able to include the hate crime data element in their submissions via magnetic tape.

Hate crime data supplied by the 11,354 law enforcement agencies in 1996 represented over 223 million United States inhabitants. The table on the following page shows the number of agencies represented within each population group and the extent of population coverage.

[2] Includes state police agencies to which no population is attributed.

Section I contains tables showing totals for the 11,354 agencies supplying hate crime data in 1996. The total number of hate crime incidents reported to the FBI in 1996 was 8,759. (See Table 1.)

Section II contains tables showing the levels of state participation, the popula-tion represented, the number of agencies submitting incident reports, and the total number of incidents reported. (See Table 12.) This Section also lists the counts of hate crime incidents reported by each individual law enforcement agency across the country. (See Tables 13-18.) To be included in these tables, law enforcement agencies must have submitted data for at least one quarter of calendar year 1996. The figures, therefore, do not represent complete 12-month totals for every agency listed. Caution should be exercised in attempting direct comparisons of hate crime totals among agencies due to the many variables affecting the volume and type of crime from place to place.

SECTION I

Hate Crime Statistics, 1996

During 1996, 8,759 bias-motivated criminal incidents were reported to the FBI by 11,354 law enforcement agencies in 49 states and the District of Columbia. Of the 8,759 incidents, 5,396 were motivated by racial bias; 1,401 by religious bias; 1,016 by sexual-orientation bias; 940 by ethnicity/ national origin bias; and 6 by multiple biases.

The 8,759 incidents involved 10,706 separate offenses, 11,039 victims, and 8,935 known offenders. (See Table 1.) Sixty-nine percent of the incidents involved only one individual (person) victim, while 94 percent involved a single offense type.

Offenses

Crimes against persons composed 69 percent of the 10,706 offenses reported. Intimidation was the single most frequently reported hate crime among all offenses measured, accounting for 39 percent of the total. Following were destruction/damage/vandalism of property, 27 percent; simple assault, 16 percent; and aggravated assault, 13 percent. (See Table 3.)

Twelve persons were murdered in 1996 in incidents motivated by hate. Racial bias motivated the highest number of these murders, 8. Bias against Hispanics served as the motivation for 2 of the 12 homicides, while sexual-orientation bias motivated the remaining 2. (See Table 4.)

When examining incidents of racial bias, 2,647 of the 4,469 anti-black offenses involved white offenders, while 818 of the 1,384 anti-white offenses involved black offenders. (See Table 5.)

Victims

Eight of every 10 of the 11,039 reported hate crime victims were individuals (people), while the remaining were businesses, religious organizations, or various other targets.

In 1996, 67 percent of the 11,039 victims were targets of crimes against persons. (See Table 3.) Six of every 10 victims were attacked because of their race, with bias against blacks accounting for 42 percent of the total. (See Table 1.) Of the total number of victims of religious bias crimes, 66 percent of victims were targets of crimes against property. (See Table 9.) Hate crimes committed because of religious bias are more likely to be against property rather than against persons.

Offenders

Law enforcement agencies reported 8,935 known offenders to be associated with the 8,759 incidents recorded in 1996. Of the known offenders, 66 percent were white and 20 percent were black. (See Table 11.)

Unlike victims and/or witnesses of crimes against property, those who witness or are victimized by crimes against persons are frequently able to assist with identifying the offenders. Thirty-eight percent of the known offenders were reported in connection with the offense of intimidation. (See Table 3, footnote 1.) Offenders were unknown for 3,490 or 40 percent of the incidents.

Offenders of religious bias crimes are difficult to identify because most of the crimes they commit are against property. Clearance rates are historically low for these types of crimes. Law enforcement identified only 523 offenders in connection with 1,401 religious bias incidents in 1996. (See Table 1.)

Locations

In 1996, the majority of hate crime incidents, 31 percent, occurred in/on residential properties. Following closely were incidents perpetrated on highways/roads/alleys/streets, accounting for 21 percent, while 9 percent occurred at schools/colleges. The remaining incidents were widely distributed among various locations. (See Table 2.)

SECTION II
Jurisdictional Hate Crime Statistics, 1996

Nearly 11,400 law enforcement agencies provided 1 to 12 months of hate crime reports during 1996 to the FBI's UCR Program. The number of reporting agencies by state, along with the corresponding population coverage, is shown in Table 12. Also indicated is the number of agencies recording hate crimes during 1996, as well as the number of incidents reported by those jurisdictions.

The individual jurisdictional figures are presented in six tables delineating city, rural county, suburban county, universities and colleges, state law enforcement agencies, and other agencies. The tables give the number of reported crimes motivated by bias against race, ethnicity, religion, and sexual orientation. Of the agencies that participated in the hate crime program, 16 percent reported that at least one hate crime occurred in their jurisdiction, while the other 84 percent reported that none occurred.

Due to the many factors affecting the nature and volume of crime, care must be exercised in making any comparisons among agencies, even where agencies reported for similar timeframes. All factors must be considered before valid comparisons can be achieved.
