NORTH DAKOTA

POPULATION—NORTH DAKOTA

NUMBER AND DISTRIBUTION OF INHABITANTS

Population of the State.—North Dakota, with boundaries as at present, was organized as a State from a part of Dakota Territory, and was admitted to the Union in November, 1889. Its population on April 1, 1930, according to the Fifteenth Census, was 680,845, which represents an increase of 33,973, or 5.3 per cent, as compared with its population on January 1, 1920. The total land area of the State, as shown in Table 3, is 70,183 square miles. The average number of inhabitants per square mile in 1930 was 9.7, as compared with 9.2 in 1920.

Table 1 shows the population of North Dakota from 1890, the year of its first enumeration, to 1930, together with the increase during each decade. The population of that part of Dakota Territory which now constitutes the State of North Dakota was 36,909 in 1880 and 2,405 in 1870.

Counties and minor civil divisions.—In the tables which follow (Tables 2 to 6) the population of North Dakota is shown by counties, townships, cities, and villages, with some comparative figures from previous censuses.

Cities of 10,000 or more.—There are four cities in North Dakota which had a population of 10,000 or more in 1930. Table 2 shows for these cities the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the increase during each decade. Fargo, the largest city, had a population of 28,619, which represents an increase of 6,658, or 30.3 per cent, over its population in 1920. Grand Forks, the second city in the State, had 17,112 inhabitants, and Minot, the third city, had a population of 16,099. Bismarck, the capital, first attained a population of 10,000 between 1920 and 1930.

Counties.—Table 3 shows the population of the 53 counties of North Dakota from 1890 to 1930, together with the land area of each county and its population per square mile in 1930. Of these counties, 35 increased in population between 1920 and 1930, while 18 show decreases. No new counties have been organized and there have been no changes in county boundaries since 1920.

<sup>22</sup> PIERCE.—Returned by civil and school townships in 1920. Alexander township organized in 1926 and Balta township in 1925, from unorganized territory. Rosedale township (township 153, range 72) disorganized in 1927; and Girard (township 153, range 73) in 1923. Township 157, range 69, and township 158, range 69, returned in 1920 as Hurricane Lake and Union townships (school), respectively.

<sup>23</sup> RAMSEY.—Chain Lakes township organized from Irvine township (school) in 1923. Part of Creef township annexed to Devils Lake city in 1920. Edmore village incorporated as a city in 1921. North Dakota School for the Deaf (population 130 in 1920; 84 in 1910) incorrectly reported in 1920 as in Devils Lake city instead of Creef township; figures for each have been corrected. Name of Creef township changed from Lake, Hammer from Bergen, Harding from Cleveland, Highland Center from Highland, Klingstrup from Pleasant, Nixon from Hope, and Pelican from Norway, in 1921.

POPULATION—OHIO

NUMBER AND DISTRIBUTION OF INHABITANTS

Population of the State.—Ohio was admitted to the Union as the seventeenth State in February, 1803. Its population on April 1, 1930, according to the Fifteenth Census, was 6,646,697; which represents an increase of 887,303, or 15.4 per cent, as compared with the population on January 1, 1920. The total land area of the State, as shown in Table 3, is 40,740 square miles. The average number of inhabitants per square mile in 1930 was 163.1, as compared with 141.4 in 1920.

Table 1 shows the population of Ohio from 1800, the year in which its area was first separately enumerated, to 1930, together with the increase during each decade.

Counties and minor civil divisions.—In the tables which follow (Tables 2 to 6) the population of Ohio is shown by counties, townships, cities, and villages, with some comparative figures from previous censuses.

Cities of 10,000 or more.—There are 55 cities and 4 villages in Ohio which had a population of 10,000 or more in 1930. Table 2 shows for these places the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the increase or decrease during each decade. Cleveland, the largest city in the State, had a population of 900,429, which represents an increase of 103,588, or 13.0 per cent, over its population in 1920. Cincinnati, the second city in the State, had 451,160 inhabitants. The next four cities in the State, all with populations between 200,000 and 300,000, are Toledo, Columbus, Akron, and Dayton. Youngstown, with 170,002 inhabitants, and Canton, with 104,906 inhabitants, are the seventh and eighth cities, respectively. Four other cities, Lakewood, Springfield, Hamilton, and Cleveland Heights, are in the population class between 50,000 and 100,000.

Minor civil divisions.—The primary divisions of the counties of Ohio are the townships and independent cities and villages. The townships include the secondary divisions which are incorporated as cities and villages. The laws of the State provide that all incorporated places with a population of 5,000 or more shall be classed as cities. Several places which attained this population between 1920 and 1930 are shown in this bulletin as villages, because that was their legal status at the date of the enumeration. Table 4 shows the population of each county by townships, cities, and villages for the last three censuses. The population of the secondary divisions is shown in italics under the population of the townships in which they are respectively situated. Several of the cities and villages are coextensive with the townships in which they are located, and some of the cities and villages comprise parts of two or more townships. Where an incorporated place occupies parts of two or more townships, the total population of the place is given in connection with the presentation for the first township.

Changes in the boundaries of townships and incorporated places between 1920 and 1930 are indicated by footnotes on Table 4; for changes between 1910 and 1920, reference may be made to the Reports of the Fourteenth Census (1920), Volume I, Table 53.

POPULATION—OKLAHOMA

NUMBER AND DISTRIBUTION OF INHABITANTS

Population of the State.—The Territory of Oklahoma was organized in 1890 from the western part of Indian Territory; in 1893 its boundaries were extended, and in November, 1907, Oklahoma Territory and Indian Territory were combined and admitted to the Union as the State of Oklahoma (the forty-sixth State) with boundaries substantially as at present. The population of the State on April 1, 1930, according to the Fifteenth Census, was 2,396,040, which represents an increase of 367,757, or 18.1 per cent, as compared with the population on January 1, 1920. The total land area of the State, as shown in Table 3, is 69,414 square miles. The average number of inhabitants per square mile in 1930 was 34.5, as compared with 29.2 in 1920.

Table 1 shows the population of Oklahoma from 1890, the year in which the Territory of Oklahoma was first separately enumerated, to 1930, together with the increase during each decade. This table also presents the population of Oklahoma and Indian Territory at the special census taken as of July 1, 1907, shortly before the State of Oklahoma was admitted to the Union.

<sup>2</sup> Special census of Oklahoma and Indian Territory, taken as of July 1, 1907, by order of the President.

Counties and minor civil divisions.—In the tables which follow (Tables 2 to 6) the population of Oklahoma is shown by counties, townships, cities, and incorporated towns, with some comparative figures from previous censuses.

Cities of 10,000 or more.—There are 16 cities in Oklahoma which had a population of 10,000 or more in 1930. Table 2 shows for these cities the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the increase during each decade. Oklahoma City, the capital and largest city, had a population of 185,389, which represents an increase of 94,094, or 103.1 per cent, since 1920. Tulsa, the second largest city, had a population of 141,258, representing an increase of 69,183, or 96 per cent, over its population in 1920. The next five cities in the State in the order of their population are Muskogee, Enid, Shawnee, Okmulgee, and Ponca City. Of the cities in this group, Ponca City, Lawton, Seminole, Ada, and Wewoka first attained a population of 10,000 between 1920 and 1930.

TABLE 2.—POPULATION OF PRINCIPAL CITIES FROM EARLIEST CENSUS TO 1930
 (Figures for 1907 are derived from a special census of Oklahoma and Indian Territory, taken as of July 1, 1907, by order of the President)

Counties.—Table 3 shows the population of the 77 counties in Oklahoma, at the special census of 1907, and from 1910 to 1930, together with the land area of each county and its population per square mile in 1930. Of these counties, 50 show an increase between 1920 and 1930, while 27 show decreases in population. No new counties have been organized since 1920, but in this period there have been several minor changes in county boundaries, which are indicated in the footnotes on Table 3.

Minor civil divisions.—The primary divisions of the counties in Oklahoma are the townships, cities, and towns. There are no real secondary divisions (that is, cities or towns incorporated within the townships), but there are three cities which are coextensive with townships.

Changes in the boundaries of townships and incorporated places between 1920 and 1930 are indicated by footnotes on Table 4; for changes between 1910 and 1920, reference may be made to the Reports of the Fourteenth Census (1920), Volume I, Table 53.

OREGON

POPULATION—OREGON

NUMBER AND DISTRIBUTION OF INHABITANTS

Population of the State.—Oregon was organized as a Territory in 1848 and admitted to the Union as the thirty-third State in February, 1859. Its population on April 1, 1930, according to the Fifteenth Census, was 953,786, which represents an increase of 170,397, or 21.8 per cent, as compared with its population on January 1, 1920. The total land area of the State, as shown in Table 3, is 95,607 square miles. The average number of inhabitants per square mile in 1930 was 10.0 as compared with 8.2 in 1920.

Table 1 shows the population of Oregon from 1850, the year in which the Territory of Oregon was first separately enumerated, to 1930, together with the increase during each decade.

† Includes population (1,201) of part taken to form part of Washington Territory in 1853.

Counties and minor civil divisions.—In the tables which follow (Tables 2 to 6) the population of Oregon is shown by counties, election precincts, cities, and towns, with some comparative figures from previous censuses.

Cities of 10,000 or more.—There are six cities in the State which had a population of 10,000 or more in 1930. Table 2 shows for these cities the population at each census for which figures are available, together with the increase during each decade. Portland, the largest city, has a population of 301,815, which represents an increase of 43,527, or 16.9 per cent, over its population in 1920. Salem, the capital, is the second city in the State, with 26,266 inhabitants. The remaining cities in this group, in the order of their population, are Eugene, Klamath Falls, Medford, and Astoria. The cities of Klamath Falls and Medford first attained a population of 10,000 between 1920 and 1930.

Counties.—Table 3 shows the population of the 36 counties of Oregon from 1890 to 1930, together with the land area of each county and its population per square mile in 1930. Of the counties of Oregon, 26 have increased in population since 1920 and 10 have decreased. No new counties have been organized but the boundary between Lincoln and Polk Counties was changed in 1925.

Minor civil divisions.—The primary divisions of the counties of Oregon are the election precincts. These election precincts include the secondary divisions, which are incorporated as cities and towns. Table 4 shows the population of each county by election precincts, cities, and towns for 1930, and for the two preceding censuses when available. The population of the secondary divisions is shown in italics under the population of the precincts in which they are respectively situated. Where an incorporated place occupies parts of two or more precincts the total population of the place is given in connection with the presentation for the first precinct. The population of the 495 precincts included in the city of Portland is presented in a separate table on pages 922-924. The population of the larger cities, each of which includes several precincts or parts of precincts, is presented in roman type followed by the precinct population in italic type.

Changes in the boundaries of precincts and incorporated places between 1920 and 1930 are indicated by footnotes on Table 4; for changes between 1910 and 1920, reference may be made to the Reports of the Fourteenth Census (1920), Volume I, Table 53.

TABLE 4.—POPULATION OF COUNTIES BY MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS: 1930, 1920, AND 1910

[The "precincts" shown in the table are election precincts. Areas in which no population has been reported at any of the last three censuses are not shown. For changes in boundaries, etc., between 1920 and 1930 see footnotes. No comparative figures for precincts in 1910 are available; see Reports of the Fourteenth Census (1920), Vol. I, Table 53]

Incorporated places.—Table 5 shows the population of the incorporated places (cities and towns) in Oregon in 1930 and 1920. In this table the places are arranged in alphabetical order, each followed by the name of the county in which the city or town is located. In Table 6 the population of the more important places is presented by wards, and in Table 7 the population of Portland city by precincts.
