New Newspaper Has Been Established at Fleischmanns— Events at Many Hotels Saturday Night— Sunday Baseball.

We have a new paper published Fridays by Rutherford H. Brown and Sydney Plisser. While the paper may not be pretentious it is very creditable. Both men are practical printers or at least familiar with the printing business.

A kiddies masquerade was held at the Palace hotel last Friday evening. The evening was very pleasantly passed, the proprietor donating appropriate prizes.

The management of the Brepzy Hill will give a farewell dance Saturday evening, and an enjoyable occasion is assured.

M. Looman is no longer conducting a chop suey restaurant and cabaret at Samoth's cation, but there are still nightly dances there.

An affair of unusual character will be held at the La Savoy Hotel Saturday night. It is to be given by the boys in the La Savoy band. Max D. Bellin, the violinist, will give a solo and Irving Epstein, known as "Eppy," on the stage, a Keith artist, will appear. Many other interesting features will be presented.

There will be a big affair at the Hotel Washington, on Sunday, following the midnight supper. There will be a beauty contest which will probably prove interesting, a pie eating contest and a lucky number dance. Local talent will appear. There will also be singing and artistic dancing.

Mrs. Otis Todd and some friends have been touring for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Darling and Mrs. S. Mayes visited relatives and friends at Sanitary Springs, Johnson City and Binghamton for the first half of the week.

Frank Henry and family have been out camping for a week.

Otto Grimm of New York has been visiting his family here for a few days.

Fred Darling and family of South Gilboa visited friends and relatives in Fleischmanns, Sunday.

The Catskill Mountain All Stars, a ball team composed of choice Margaretville, Roxbury and Arena players, will play the Ulen Construction Company, at Fleischmanns field Sunday, September 3.

School opens September 11, with a new corps of teachers.

SPECIAL PICTURES FOR ONE WEEK

Paramount Week Will be Celebrated by Local Theatre—Several Big Pictures for Coming 10 Days

The coming week is known in the Motion Picture World as Paramount Week. The Galli Curci Theatre here will celebrate it in common with hundreds of other theatres throughout the land. The following is the program and will give us pictures nearly every night.

Tomorrow, Saturday, "The Mystery Road." This is not a special picture, but is a good program number. In addition there will be a Hal Roach comedy, a Pathe News reel and a Sport Review. Come and see the wonderful projection in the new theatre.

Monday evening a special picture, William S. Hart in "Whistle." This is the first Hart picture we have had in some weeks and needs no further mention. Also two reels of "Sherlock Holmes."

Tuesday evening, Wallace Reid in "Too Much Speed." This is another big picture. Reid is too well liked here for further comment.

Thursday evening Ethel Clayton in "Wealth."

Pictures start at 8:10 o'clock. First reels run again for benefit of those who come late. Cars parked free on lot opposite Sanford & Jenkins garage.

Work Electrical Plant Delayed

From our Halcyottville correspondent

Owing to the inclemency of the weather but little work has been done on the electric light plant. The Kelly Brothers hoped to put in a little concrete last week, but the heavy rains of the latter part of the week made this absolutely out of the question, as the water raised very rapidly back to its old level. At present writing the water in the lake is again receding to its former low level, and it is thought some work can be done this week.

afternoon Roxbury and Arena played five innings, but were compelled to stop by the hard rain. Score 5 to 4 in favor of Arena. All were looking forward to a hot game between Margaretville and Downsville, but were sorely disappointed that they were unable to play on account of the shower. The Margaretville band furnished excellent music during the

Mrs. James Francisco was a Kingston and West Hurley visitor over the week-end.

Harry Becker of White Plains was the guest of Margaretville friends early in the week.

Miss Agnes Scott is confined to her room at the home of D. Mead with acute stomach trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. John Blakeslee of Smithville spent Sunday with their son John and family at Oneonta.

The New York Times of last Sunday published a three-column rotogravure of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. J. Gould honeymooning at Deauville, France.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hoffman of Washington, D. C., who have been spending some days at the home of his mother, returned home on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kent and little son, Mrs. E. F. Tuttle and Mrs. Carmie Rocks and son, all of Oneonta, visited Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sperry.

Lloyd Mann of Arena, class of '22, Margaretville high school, has completed the summer course at the Oneonta normal and was calling on friends here Tuesday. Mr. Mann will teach the Belleayre school, beginning Tuesday next.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Methodist parsonage Friday, when Margaret M. Ballard of Fleischmanns and Harvey Loren of this village were united in marriage by Rev. E. C. Tamblyn. The ring ceremony was witnessed by Miss Margaret Glaus and Mr. and Mrs. R. Keator.

George Denton of Newark, N. J., a former employee of the Delaware and Northern, is spending a part of his vacation with Margaretville friends.

James Coulter, for some years a resident of this village and a former resident of Bovina, was in town the latter part of the week renewing many friendships and acquaintances here. Mr. Coulter built the local high school.

The local coal situation is a constant source of conversation. And while we watch the daily newspapers for reports on the strike, a reasonable view seems to be that the men of affairs in this nation are not going to let us freeze. We got coal in war times, we got coal in the other big strike and we are going to get coal this time. The price may be a little stiff, but there will be coal.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Johnson of Kingston were guests of Mrs. Johnson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Anderson, over Sunday. Monday they went to South Kortright to call on relatives and friends and will tour the Catskills and other points of interest, returning here before going home. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are accompanied on the vacation trip by E. Bachelet, well known among master electricians as the inventor of approved electrical appliances for medical use.

Prof. Moore of the Delhi Agricultural School will give a demonstration of the approved manner of selecting poultry that are best layers at the poultry yard of D. Mead on Friday, September 8, at 2 p. m. From birds selected at random from Mr. Mead's flock, Prof. Moore will show from points and physical markings which hens are or are destined to be profitable layers. He will make it reasonably plain to any intelligent observer the rules to follow, allowing them to eliminate unprofitable birds from a flock. The public are cordially invited, particularly those keeping a few hens for family eggs, as well as those keeping pretentious henries.

While feeding her chickens Monday morning, Mrs. J. M. Sanford, of the Stone School house neighborhood, fell and broke her hip. She caught her foot on a board that was loose on the ground and fell heavily. Mr. Sanford, just about to start away from home, heard her cries and with the aid of some railroad men who were working on the track nearby, carried her into the house. Dr. Keator was summoned and found that the ball which fits into the hip socket was broken. She has been made as comfortable as possible, but will undergo considerable suffering. In addition to the pain from the hip, she has a severe attack of neuritis.

Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Hess were business callers in Kingston last Saturday. The riverside on George Purcell's farm seems a favorite camping ground with tourists.

Miss Lillian Powell of Camp Delaware had a recent guests Mr. and Mrs. Fred Abel of New York.

A Gold of Fleischmanns has purchased the P. A. Cramer building on Main street and will open a plumbing shop therein. He will enlarge the building.

The Walton fair, which this year advertises many attractions, some out of the ordinary, comes Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. The exhibition will draw many from this section.

Mrs. Elizabeth Smith and Miss Madeline Henshaw of Elizabeth, N. J., and Master Arnold Hill of New Brunswick, N. J., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Polley. Mrs. Smith is a sister of Mrs. Polley.

Pasco Dillelo has been out-of-town for several weeks, he having been with his daughter, Mrs. Gerow Quick of Walden, to be nearer New York, where he has been receiving hospital treatment at Bellevue.

Mrs. Mabel Hess of the Kingston City Hospital staff, accompanied by Miss Octavia Pouze, graduate nurse of the hospital, and Miss Carrie Veldan of Union Hill, N. J., visited Miss Hess' parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Hess, over the week-end.

Edward Muller set a wire rat trap by the edge of the Binakill in the rear of his store before the recent heavy rain and Wednesday thought the water must have receded enough for him to recover the snare. Locating the trap partially under water he was surprised to find that it contained seven good sized bullheads, each as lively as any fish of the species could well be.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Akerly and daughter are stopping at the Grant cottage. Mr. Akerly is the representative of the Prudential Insurance Company for the Baltimore, Md., district, his home. Mr. Akerly is another of the Margaretville boys who has succeeded, being remembered as a son of Landlord Akerly, who built the hotel bearing his name on the site of the present Pocantico.

Robert Marshall of Brooklyn, who with his family are guests at the Iris cottage, is given to outdoor sports and is so hard ought to be a fairly well trained specimen of physical manhood after 25 years service on the Metropolitan police force. To give vent to his pent up energy he arranged a ball game between the married and "single" men on J. W. Moseman's recently mown meadow. Now not one of the "single" men have ever felt steel on his cheek and they all as yet render obedience to the curfew. The game was played and the "single" men won by the score of 17 to 13. Nothing astounding about the score—spectators expected it. But Marshall—now wearing an old slipper, an ankle bound with a remnant of discarded underwear and swabbed with arnica, a discoloration on the chin, unnatural stomach and wry head, feels "bully." There is no accounting for taste.

Baseball Saturday and Monday

The Margaretville boys play Shaft 1 at the playgrounds Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The shafts recently defeated Arena two games, but both by the close scores of 4 to 3.

Monday, Labor Day, the Margaretville team will play two games with Arena, the morning game at Arena and the afternoon game on the home grounds at 3 o'clock.

This is the only observance of the holiday here and will very likely call more than the regular quota of devotees to the playgrounds.

An Unusual Event.

All those who attended the wonderful pageant presented at the Galli Curci theatre on Saturday afternoon went away filled with admiration and compliment for the children of Camp DeLa-Wanda.

The spectacle was one that would be difficult for more experienced artists to excel. The acting, singing and dancing were in every way splendid. The result reflected also the ability and careful training of all the directors. The work of Miss Oppenheim, Miss Hoffman and Miss Lurie should receive especial mention.

The local playground people are very grateful, indeed, for the proceeds of this magnificent contribution by Mr. Horowitz and his happy band of performers.

It is with regret that we learn that we have seen them in their showy splendor for the last time. We understand they will locate near the Berkshires the coming year.

Guests at Keeney's Meadow Brook Miss Jose Virginia Edwards and Mrs. Lillian Wescott of Brooklyn and Miss Maud Brawley of New York city are visitors at Keeney's Meadow Brook.

Harold Lapham of Brooklyn is a week-end guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Lapham of Brooklyn are visiting her mother, Mrs. Eugene W. Keeney.

GALLI CURCI THEATRE HAS NOTABLE NIGHT

Gifted Woman in whose Honor the Community House is Named Endears Herself to Audience by Presence and Voice.

ESTELLE LIEBLING ENRAPTURES HEARERS

Hon. L. R. Long Presides—Owner and Manager Makes Statement Covering Policy of the Playhouse.

By Clarke A. Sanford

When I first began the construction of a theatre in Margaretville nearly a year ago I began to look forward to the day when it would be completed and to wonder what we might have for an opening night that would give the people of this section a real treat and be an event that would linger long in the memories of us all.

I thought of some great motion picture, of some home talent play and community gathering, of securing some of the many artists who spend the summer in this section and of various other ways to make a memorable entertainment. And when I found that Galli Curci, the greatest singer in the world, was building a beautiful castle on a high point between Dry Brook and Highmount and was drawing sand from the same sand bank that my building was being built from it occurred to me that it would be very appropriate and fitting to name the theatre in her honor, for it is not every day that we people of the mountains are honored by so great a neighbor. She gave me the permission and said that she would come to the opening night.

Then came Estelle Liebling, our own Mrs. Mosler, a prima donna of national reputation and a great future, who said that she would furnish us with a song recital the equal of that which she has been giving to the big theatres of New York, Detroit, St. Louis and other large cities. My fondest hopes were realized and the good fortune seemed too good to be true.

Here in a little mountain town of less than a thousand population were to appear two women whose presence would have struck you to the heart of the biggest theatre manager in America. It seemed beyond belief, it was impossible to convince the public that it was true. Bets were freely offered that I was bluffing in an effort to secure a big attendance for the opening night. But enough belief to purchase tickets to fill the house and the curtains parted for the opening.

The program started with an introduction by the best man in Delaware county, the Hon. Lincoln R. Long of New Kingston, who said some very complimentary things of the new building. Estelle Liebling then appeared and as the opening notes of her beautiful voice echoed through the auditorium everybody knew at once that the opening was a success. She was making it so. Five hundred people sat enraptured and encore after encore told of their appreciation of the Song Recital. At the end of part three Mr. Long came on the stage again and said that we had a new neighbor in this section, that he had met her and found her wholesome and genuine and like the home folks. He told of her beautiful home now under construction and was about to pronounce her name when the audience took it from him and shouted Galli Curci, Galli Curci, Galli Curci. The great singer arose in her seat and the audience was on its feet at once still shouting. It was an unusual demonstration and Madam Galli Curci went to the stage at once and said that she would like to make a speech but was not much of a speaker. If they wanted her to she would try to sing. After another demonstration she lifted her voice and sang two numbers that repaid the months' of anxiety and labor and worry and financial discouragement coincident with the erection of the theatre.

Her husband, Homer Samuels, was the accompanist of the evening and his masterful touch was another musical treat for those fortunate to be present.

So the house was opened with a program that the Capitol in New York or the California in San Francisco might have been proud of. I shall use my best endeavors to keep the high standard of the first evening the criterion of evenings to come. There will be pictures that everybody will like and some that will not be so popular for it is not possible to have every picture a best one. But they will be clean and wholesome as it is

COMMUNITY ANNIVERSARY SATURDAY

Residents of the District and Interested Friends to Hold Fete Day at Stone School House

On this coming Saturday afternoon the one hundred and second anniversary of the Stone School House will be held at Dunraven. A fine program has been prepared which will begin at 10 a. m. under the direction of Frank Mead, president of the Centennial Association.

The first speaker will be W. W. Dimmick of New York, who will take for his subject, "The Influence of the Stone School House in the Community." He will also give thought to the question of terminal markets in the city and warehouses in the country for farm products, to give the farmer and the consumer a square deal. Mr. Dimmick will be followed by Rev. G. Cranston of Kingston.

The following committees have been appointed to care for the activities of the day. There is a combination of Sunday School picnic and anniversary celebration:

Decorations, Mrs. J. McMurray and Emma Freer; tables, E. A. Harrington, J. McMurray, G. McMurray, J. M. Sanford, S. R. Tait, A. H. Freer, M. H. Sanford, Harold Mead and F. Mead; captains of baseball teams, J. McMurray and A. D. Keator; ice cream, R. Sanford, Emma Freer, Edna Freer and Mrs. S. R. Tait.

There will also be athletic events for all who attend. It is expected that this will be one of the largest attended gatherings of the kind that this section has ever seen.

Margaretville Red Cross Supper

Save your appetites and a little cash for the big Red Cross supper to be held at the home of Mrs. G. C. Grant, Thursday evening, September 21.

All those interested in the bedspread to be sold at that time may inspect it at Gorsch's furniture store, where it is on exhibition. Great credit is due Mrs. Hugo Gorsch and Mrs. D. L. Stewart for perfecting the plans and making a success of the undertaking. The bedspread, or quilt, speaks for itself. It represents many hours of hard work on the part of each member of the society with few exceptions.

The contributions that are being gratefully received are a part of the reward.

Presbyterian Sunday School Picnic

Tuesday occurred the annual picnic of the Presbyterian Sunday School. About a hundred members and friends of the school gathered at Sanford's grove, along the Dry Brook valley, for six hours of good times. There was no rigid schedule, except that all were given an even start on the dinner at noon, the ladies of the church dispensing the good things that all had brought together.

During the morning and afternoon various groups found their own ways of enjoying the place and the fellowship. The primary children, and the sedate adults, children again for the day, played circle games and skipped rope. A bunch of boys discovered a good swimming hole, and cooled themselves in it. Later there was a ball game for all and sundry, especially sunny.

When the autos and Mr. Dugan's truck moved homeward the general thought was that another happy memory had been added to the history of the Sunday School.

possible to purchase. There will be other entertainments than pictures during the year for we have the room and the stage and the machinery for some big stuff.

The building is for the community. True, it must give me a financial return, but bigger than that it is a play house where I want everybody to feel at home and comfortable. The lobby can be used for various kind of small meetings, the house is free for gatherings of the nature of a Community Sing, Commencement, free lectures for public welfare and similar occasions. There is already scheduled a lecture course of four numbers and an entertainment in connection with the church celebration soon to take place.

To Madam Galli Curci, Estelle Liebling, Homer Samuels and Lincoln R. Long I feel under a deep obligation.

SPECIAL SCHOOL MEETING TO-NIGHT

Mr. and Mrs. Fairbairn Given 20th Anniversary Surprise—Personal Mention of Many

Mrs. Melissa Mead is recovering from her recent severe illness.

Emil Kilquist of New Jersey is visiting his sister, Mrs. H. E. Ganung. Layman Snyder and Zelah Eighty have returned from a visit with relatives in Oneonta.

Special school meeting tonight (Friday evening) for the purpose of voting for a new school house and site for the same. The old building and grounds having been condemned some time ago.

Mrs. George VanValkenburg of New York city, after spending a short vacation at her brother-in-law, Henry VanValkenburg's, returned home on Tuesday.

Little Leah Mead, the three-year-old daughter of Charles Mead, narrowly escaped being seriously injured Saturday when she attempted to cross the road in front of an auto. Fortunately the driver saw her in time to swerve his car so only the fender touched her lightly, but knocked her down and bruised her some.

The Misses Blanche and Pauline Christain of Schenectady, who have been visiting friends and relatives in this place, went home Saturday.

The Women's Home Missionary society is planning, if the weather is favorable, to hold a bake sale and bazaar on S. B. George's lawn today (Friday). Fourteen new members were added to the society recently.

Mrs. Burton Todd of Oneonta is spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Seager. Mrs. Seager's health does not improve as fast as friends wish it would.

Charles Warren and sister of Pepacton are visiting relatives in this place. William Germond has purchased an Elcar auto of his brother Iretus of Oneonta.

A. B. Germond is preparing to move his home to a new foundation and add a new kitchen, making a fine improvement to his place.

The Muller Allaben Tent of the Maccabees plan to hold a basket picnic on the State camp grounds at Shandaken the 23rd of September. The members and their families of the Stamford, Halcyottville, Arena and Chichester tents and lady Maccabees of this place have been invited to join with them and have a general good time.

Among recent visitors in town we notice the following: William Conerly and family of Phoenixia, Mrs. DeWitt Whitney of Kingston, O. A. Redmond of Schenectady, George Gabriel and Thomas Webb of Delhi.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Bazette of Yorklyn, Del., were recent guests at M. K. VanWagenen's.

Carl Harrington has gone to Scranton, Pa., to resume school duties at that place.

Rev. J. W. McCall's mother returned to her home in Philadelphia Monday.

Miss Flanigan, who has been sojourning in Arkville for several weeks, returned Tuesday to her home at the Murray Hill Hotel, New York city. Miss Flanigan's first visit to the Catskill Mountains impressed her so favorably she is seriously considering purchasing a summer home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fairbairn of the Arkville hotel recently celebrated their twentieth wedding anniversary at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Hull of Hubbell Hill. Mrs. Hull, invited them to dinner, where twenty guests awaited them. Beautiful gifts of china and cut glass were presented to the principals of the occasion.

Mrs. E. P. Pierce and son George of Jersey City, Miss H. Madison of Poughkeepsie, Miss Agnes A. Henahan of Hollis, L. I., and Herman Hill of New York enjoyed a stop over at The Arkville Hotel, while waiting for a gear with which to repair their auto. They spent almost a week here and will visit Niagara and Canada before the return.

To Lose Esteemed Resident

From our New Kingston correspondent.

Alva Craft and children, John and Effie, who moved from their farm here to Margaretville last spring, have now purchased a house in Roxbury village and will remove there soon. This is really one way of going back home, as their farm here was in the township of Roxbury.
