

OREN KOULES

Oren Koules is the co-founder, with Mark Burg, of the production company Twisted Pictures, formed in 2004, and the management/production company Evolution Entertainment, formed in 1998. As partners, Messrs. Koules and Burg have compiled an impressive track record of hits, including the powerhouse horror franchise “Saw” and the Emmy Award-nominated CBS series “Two and a Half Men,” the top-rated sitcom on television.

Mr. Koules began his film career in the mid-1990s, when he partnered with Dale Pollock in Peak Productions. Their credits include two hit films, the thriller “Set It Off”, with Jada Pinkett-Smith and Queen Latifah, and the comedy/drama “Mrs. Winterbourne”, starring Shirley MacLaine, Brendan Fraser and Ricki Lake. He subsequently served for two years as Senior Vice-President of Production with Paramount Pictures.

Since launching Evolution with Burg in 1998, Mr. Koules’s producing credits include the dramatic thriller “John Q.”, starring Academy Award winners Denzel Washington and Robert Duvall. In its ten-year history, Evolution has grown into a mid-sized talent and literary management company handling writers, directors and actors. The company is also active in television, with Koules serving as executive producer of “Two and a Half Men.” In 2004, Mr. Koules produced “Saw”, an immediate cultural sensation and one of the year’s most profitable films; the film’s success led to distribution deal with Lionsgate and the subsequent formation of Twisted Pictures.

Koules and Burg produced “Saw II”, which opened at #1 on Halloween weekend in 2005 and became the year’s top-grossing horror movie, “Saw III”, which opened at #1 in North America, the U.K. and Australia the weekend of October 27, 2006, and “Dead Silence” by “Saw” creators James Wan and Leigh Whannell. Other Twisted Picture releases include the horror/thriller “Catacombs”, which premiered in Japan in October 2007, and “Saw IV”, which opened # 1 at the box-office on October 26, 2007. In addition, Twisted Pictures is in post-production on “Repo! The Genetic Opera”, set for release in Summer 2008 and is in production for the Fall 2008 release, “Saw V”.

A native of Chicago, Mr. Koules played minor hockey as a youth and eventually made the leap to professional hockey, playing in the minor leagues for four years. After retiring from pro hockey, he launched a successful, eight-year career as a commodities trader, leaving the Chicago Mercantile exchange as a member in good standing in 1992.

LEN BARRIE

After retiring from the Florida Panthers and a 14-year career in professional hockey, Len Barrie is now CEO and President of Bear Mountain Resort in Victoria, B.C. In his current role, Mr. Barrie is the resort's majority shareholder responsible for the planning and build out construction of the 1,300-acre residential, resort, and commercial construction project.

Under Mr. Barrie's leadership, Bear Mountain Resort has sold over $500 million in real estate sales. The resort includes a 19-hole Jack and Steve Nicklaus co-designed golf course, a five star $50 million Westin branded hotel and spa and a village centre. Over the next 10 to 12 years, the resort will have more than 6,000 residences. Mr. Barrie is currently overseeing the completion of the second golf course at Bear Mountain, making it Canada's first and only 36-hole Nicklaus designed golf offering including a Nicklaus Golf Academy. The total build-out value of Bear Mountain Resort is estimated at $4 billion.

Prior to Bear Mountain, Mr. Barrie owned a number of businesses including six British Columbia-based Nevada Bob franchises, which he sold in 2003. He also partnered with several successful restaurants in Vancouver and Victoria.

In 2006, Mr. Barrie purchased and took over the management of a Junior A hockey team, and in 2007 helped win the bid for Victoria and the Victoria Grizzlies to host the 2009 RBC Royal Bank Cup, Canada's national Junior A hockey championship. He has helped develop Victoria's reputation as one of the top training centres for amateur and professional hockey players in the country. In 2007, Mr. Barrie hosted the Vancouver Canucks and Canadian women's hockey team training camps at Bear Mountain Arena.

Mr. Barrie actively supports non-profit and sports organizations in the Victoria community. He recently donated land worth more than $1 million for the development of the first Ronald McDonald Family Retreat in North America. He is a regular supporter of sports and youth initiatives throughout the region.

In 2008, Mr. Barrie began managing of a new development on Vancouver Island. It will be home to an 80-slip marina and 70-unit town home development. The project has already broken ground and is targeted for completion in 2009.

MARK BURG

Mark Burg is the co-founder, with Oren Koules, of the production company Twisted Pictures, formed in 2004, and the management/production company Evolution Entertainment, formed in 1998. As partners, Messrs. Burg and Koules have compiled an impressive track record of hits, including the powerhouse horror franchise “Saw” and the Emmy Award-nominated CBS series “Two and a Half Men,” the top-rated sitcom on television.

A filmmaker with a 20-year track record, Mr. Burg has shepherded an impressive range of films to the screen. His early producing credits include Ron Shelton’s award-winning “Bull Durham”, starring Kevin Costner, Susan Sarandon and Tim Robbins, and “Can’t Buy Me Love”, starring Patrick Dempsey. Burg served several years as President of Island Pictures, where he produced or executive produced films including “Toy Soldiers”, starring Sean Astin and Louis Gossett, Jr.; “Airheads”, starring Adam Sandler, Brendan Fraser and Steve Buscemi; “The Cure”, starring Brad Renfro; “Don’t Be A Menace...”, starring Shawn and Marlon Wayans; “B*A*P*S”, starring Halle Berry and Bernie Mac; and “The Gingerbread Man”, directed by Robert Altman and starring Kenneth Branagh and Robert Downey, Jr.

Since launching Evolution with Koules in 1998, Mr. Burg’s producing credits include the dramatic thriller “John Q.”, starring Academy Award winners Denzel Washington and Robert Duvall. In its ten-year history, Evolution has grown into a mid-sized talent and literary management company handling writers, directors and actors. The company is also active in television, with Burg serving as executive producer of “Two and a Half Men.” In 2004, Mr. Burg produced “Saw”, an immediate cultural sensation and one of the year’s most profitable films; the film’s success led to distribution deal with Lionsgate and the subsequent formation of Twisted Pictures.

As described in Mr. Koules’ biography, Mr. Burg produced “Saw II”, “Saw III”, “Dead Silence”, “Catacombs”, and “Saw IV.” In addition, Twisted Pictures is in post-production on “Repo! The Genetic Opera”, set for release in Summer 2008 and is in production for the Fall 2008 release, “Saw V”.
