Muskingum Welcomes Three New Members to the Board of Trustees

Henry S. Bullock '77 Henry Bullock is founding chairman and managing principal of Menlo Equities LLC, a leading real estate investment, development and management company with headquarters in Palo Alto, California.

Prior to starting Menlo in 1994, Bullock was a managing partner for The Shidler Group, where he was responsible for capital markets, underwriting and liability management, and also directed the underwriting and capital markets activities for the initial public offerings of realty trusts. Earlier in his career, he was a commercial mortgage executive with Security Pacific Corp. and assisted in the creation of Wells Fargo Bank's Silicon Valley construction lending office.

Bullock earned an M.B.A. from the Kellogg School of Management at Northwestern University. He served as a member of Muskingum's Alumni Council for six years, from 1992 until 1998. He and his wife Terri have two children.

Keith S. Campbell '77 Keith Campbell is chairman and CEO of Mannington Mills, a leading designer and manufacturer of commercial and residential flooring. Based in Salem, New Jersey since its 1915 incorporation, the award-winning firm is in its fourth generation of family ownership.

Campbell joined Mannington after college and has served in a wide variety of roles, including senior financial analyst, assistant director of manufacturing, vice president of worldwide sales and marketing and executive vice president. He joined the board in 1983 and became chairman in 1995.

Campbell's considerable service and leadership with Muskingum includes the National Executive Committee for the college's Design for Tomorrow campaign and three terms on the Alumni Council from 1981 until 1987. In Salem, he is chair of the boards of Memorial Hospital, Rowan University and Stand Up For Salem. He and his wife Shirley are parents of three children.

Walter R. Young '66 Walter Young came to national prominence as a distinguished business leader with his turnaround success of Champion Enterprises, Inc., now the world's largest homebuilder and the leading manufactured housing homebuilder.

Young was named 'Industry Person of the Year' three years in a row by the Manufactured Housing Institute and also served as the Institute's chairman. He received a Congressional appointment to the National Academies of Science Committee on Housing Technologies and served on its Blue Ribbon board evaluation committee.

Prior to Champion, Young was an executive with the Budd Company, a leading supplier to the Big 3 auto makers, and with the Henley Group, a merchant bank. He began his career with B.F. Goodrich after earning an M.B.A. from the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania.

Young delivered Muskingum's undergraduate commencement address in 2003 and received the Doctor of Public Service degree. His many years of dedicated service to the college include membership on the National Executive Committee of the Design for Tomorrow campaign and three terms on the Alumni Council. He and his wife Donna Higinbotham Young '66 have two grown children.

Dear Alumni & Friends:

With the completion of Muskingum's Communication Arts Complex (CAC), we welcome this extraordinary facility as our newest educational venue. The CAC not only provides much-needed curricular and co-curricular space but also adds great beauty and definition to our campus. Its existence is the fulfillment of a long-standing dream at Muskingum College.

While the College steadfastly pursues dreams like the new CAC, we have not lost sight of our continuing obligation to our existing buildings as well as to our overall infrastructure. Accordingly, even while we were building the CAC, the College was attending to many long-deferred maintenance needs on campus. For example, we have repaired and replaced the deteriorating masonry on the buildings throughout the academic quadrangle; we have renovated the stadium; we have added new water lines; we are replacing the roof of John Glenn Gymnasium; and finally, we have begun the process of bringing significant new electrical capacity to our campus. Each of these improvements ensures the long-term health of our facilities and creates new opportunities for tomorrow's students.

Over the next decade, Muskingum College will continue to move forward with our renovation and construction plan. Simultaneously, we will remain mindful of our challenge to update our infrastructure in a manner designed to better serve Muskingum students, today and tomorrow. These twin goals will require a delicate balancing act and a dedicated focus. Our efforts will help ensure that Muskingum College will remain an excellent educational institution for future generations.

As we pursue our dreams and remain mindful of our need to continually improve our physical infrastructure, we thank each of you for your commitment, loyalty and support. Together, we are building a stronger Muskingum!

Sincerely,

Anne C. Steele
President

Campus Infrastructure Renewal

Facility Integrity

Extensive repair of roofs and masonry has occurred for:

- Brown Chapel
- Cambridge Hall
- John Glenn Gymnasium
- Montgomery Hall

Drainage systems have been constructed for:

- Montgomery Hall
- Quadrangle
- McConagha Stadium

Thomas Hall tennis courts have been resurfaced.

Electricity

Significant new electrical capacity has been brought to the campus. The new infrastructure will meet the electrical needs of the College for the next quarter-century.

Heating and Cooling

A new steam line to service the library is now in place.

Air conditioning has been retrofitted in:

- Cambridge Hall
- Thomas Hall Dining
- Kelley Residence Hall
- Admissions and Advancement wings of Montgomery Hall

Water

Major new water lines were installed to serve:

- Quadrangle
- Montgomery Hall
- Library

A new system brought hot water to Paul Hall for the first time in its 130-year history.

Boyd Science Center's hot water system was converted from a nine-month to a year-round system.

Campus Safety and Security

Campus lighting has been expanded and upgraded for:

- Montgomery Hall and Brown Chapel
- Cambridge Hall parking corridor
- Recreation Center and Stadium
- Kelley Hall parking lot
- Memorial/Moore parking lot
- Western residential area

Additional emergency call boxes have been put in place.

New sidewalks have been laid throughout the campus.

The hydraulic cylinders in all campus elevators have been brought up to code.

On these and the following pages we present a photo tour of some of the most visible—and dramatic—improvements that have been undertaken on campus.

Johnson Family Track

Our state-of-the art, eight-lane, all-weather track has recently been repaired, upgraded, smoothed, re-sealed and re-lined, ensuring many more years of service to our student-athletes.

McConagha Stadium

A long overdue facelift of McConagha Stadium is now complete. The seats have been replaced. There is a new concession stand, a new north entrance, renovated restroom facilities, a new, wider walkway above the bleachers and extensive structural repair. The hillside north of the stadium was re-graded in order to prevent drainage damage.

Cambridge Hall

Cambridge Hall's ground floor is receiving a complete makeover in time for fall classes, and the English Department and the offices of the student publications—Black & Magenta, Muscoljuan and First Circle—will be housed here. The renovation will produce new offices, new production spaces and a new classroom.

Admissions Office

As the front door to Muskingum, the admissions office plays a vital role. Following careful assessment of facilities and function, the admissions office in Montgomery Hall was renovated. The transformation is a great success. Prospective students and their families enjoy a welcoming, comfortable and dignified environment during their interviews.

A separate, dedicated operations area is responsible for the mailing of the communications that are integral to the admissions process.

Wellness Center

Muskingum's first dedicated health and medical facility, the Wellness Center, was built in 2002 and is located near Lakeside Drive on the original site of the Mace House (South Street).

Parking

AFTER

Muskingum will always be a walking campus, but as the college has grown, so has the need to accommodate parking on its perimeters. There are expanded, upgraded parking areas on both residence hills. A large, tree-lined, terraced parking corridor was constructed concurrently with the Communication Arts Complex. This serves the western entrances to campus and, as a result, transforms and redefines the western border of campus to Comin Street.

Faculty Ideas

Many valuable ideas for improving facilities come from Muskingum's faculty. Thanks to the ingenuity of Dr. Raymond Rataiczak, chair of the chemistry department, Boyd Science Center is a model of multi-use space utilization. BSC Rooms 239 and 204, both fully-equipped geology labs, also serve as general-purpose classrooms, "smart" classrooms and are home to 25-station open computer labs.

Student Ideas

Much that has been accomplished on campus is due to the initiative and proposals of students.

Students worked with the administration to develop residence hall computer labs. Each standing residence—Finney, Patton/Kelley, Thomas, Moore/Memorial—has a fully-equipped computer lab and student computer manager who provides support.

The college fitness facilities serve both intercollegiate athletics teams and individual use, so resources are often stretched. Students identified under-used areas in John Glenn Gym and proposed that they be variously adapted for use as weight-training rooms and aerobics rooms dedicated to individual use.

The popular Kelley Coffee House was an idea that originated with students, who also worked with architects on budgeting, planning and overseeing its construction.

LOVE'S LABOUR'S FOUND

for Shakespeare professor
Dr. Al Chaffee

DR. ALAN J. CHAFFEE IS KNOWN among his peers and by hundreds of Muskingum students and alumni as a gifted educator and Shakespearean scholar. Less known is that, for over twenty years, he has been engaged, nearly single-handedly, in the preservation of a pristine piece of Ohio's pioneer history. Professor Chaffee's "stone house project" is a remarkable story that continues to unfold.

A large two-story stone house sits at the bottom of the lane, looking as though it has always been there. Its golden tan exterior is complemented by a nearby frame barn, and both merge into the pastoral setting a few miles outside New Concord.

In the beginning there was no house, lane or property. Chaffee simply wanted to purchase some antique doors for his hobby of collecting architectural artifacts.

When he went to collect the doors, he found that they were still on their hinges in an abandoned farmhouse in Adamsville. The two-story slate-roofed sandstone block house had been built in 1825 by pioneers and remained intact. Its present-day owner intended to tear it down and sell the components. Chaffee thought, "What a shame, to tear apart and sell off this great house!" And so he bought it.

A Fulbright Scholar and recipient of a fellowship from the National Endowment for the Humanities, Dr. Chaffee joined Muskingum's faculty in 1970. He has twice received faculty excellence awards: William Oxley Thompson Award for Excellence in Teaching and the Cora I. Orr Service Award. He has served the college with distinction as Coordinator of the Arts and Humanities Division, chair of the English department and Executive Secretary of the Faculty and has been faculty advisor to the Stag Club for 18 years.

Chaffee needed not only to move the house but also to find a destination for it. It took several years to find and purchase the perfect rural setting. It took an additional six years to find the right person to help him move the house twenty miles.

The house had to be dismantled, stone by stone, and reassembled in its new location. Each of the hundreds of stones was given a letter, a number, and a color code to ensure accurate reconstruction. An architect provided blueprints and scores of photographs of the original layout. Thanks to the invaluable assistance of local contractors John Powers and Gerald Hayes, not a stone was lost or a plank misplaced.

Chaffee himself dismantled and is rebuilding the interior. He has enlarged the house with a 'shoot back' addition that is faithful to the period and style of the house and has purchased two period barns. The restoration will remain true to its nineteenth-century era with modern conveniences present only in the addition.

Reflecting on his motivation for such an extended pursuit, Chaffee responds, "Coming to Muskingum—that was the thing. I was born, raised and educated in cities. My first sense of what the history of buildings means comes from the college and its rich history. An appreciation of places like Paul Hall began to grow on me."

Chaffee's dedication to enduring classics informs everything he does, transcending categories such as 'personal' or 'professional.' Like Shakespeare, stone is a "long-lasting kind of thing," he says. The essence of Shakespeare appeals to each generation and stone, too, has the essential strength and stability to survive the ages."

The stone house even becomes a metaphor for his teaching. "At first the house was encased in stucco, which had to

HALL OF EXCELLENCE

OFIC Honoree William T. Dentzer, Jr. '51

DISTINGUISHED TRUSTEE

William T. Dentzer, Jr. was inducted into the Hall of Excellence of the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges in March. He is the retired founding chairman and chief executive officer of The Depository Trust Company, the world's largest securities depository.

Dentzer graduated from Muskingum with honors in political science. After a term as president of the National Student Association, he began a career in government service.

During the 1960s, he held key positions in international economic development for the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. In 1963, Dentzer served as executive secretary of the President's Commission on the Security of the Free World. He then joined the Agency for International Development (AID), and was the agency's director in Peru. Ultimately, he was Deputy U.S. Ambassador to the Organization of American States (OAS) and the Inter-American Committee on the Alliance for Progress.

Upon leaving the federal government, Dentzer became a top economic advisor to Governor of New York Nelson Rockefeller, which led to appointments as Superintendent of Banks in New York and chair of the Central Certificate Service—the arm of the New York Stock Exchange that, for the first time, electronically facilitated the transfer of all securities. Under his leadership, the CCS was succeeded by the modern Depository Trust Corporation.

Chair of the finance and management committee of Muskingum's Board of Trustees, Dentzer has been a board member since 1972. He has received the Distinguished Service Award, the Doctor of Humane Letters degree and was Distinguished Visiting Professor of American Studies.

"Mr. Dentzer has demonstrated his unwavering commitment to the College throughout thirty-four years of service," said President Steele in announcing the induction. "We are indebted to him for the vision, wisdom and values which he shares so generously."

Mr. Dentzer and his wife Celia Hill Dentzer '52 have five grown children and live in Larchmont, New York.

be removed in order to reveal the sandstone underneath. In the classroom one helps students bring to light their own unique way of thinking, and then cultivate that perspective so that it can support them wherever they go." He explains that this is an ongoing quest, just as his study of Shakespeare takes him and his students on endless quests for understanding.

This same vision, constancy and love of process are revealed in the two decades and more that he has dedicated to his house. It is a symbol of the timeless truth that labour, when endowed by love, finds fruition.

Muskingum is proud that seven of its distinguished alumni are now in the Hall of Excellence, the most number from any OFIC member college.

opportunities that we now have to strengthen and enrich our academic program.”

According to the actress' records, the Moorehead property was originally granted to her great-grandparents, who came from England. Deeds to the land were signed, respectively, by Presidents James Monroe and John Tyler. As a child, Miss Moorehead spent many summers on the farm of her grandparents, and in 1969 built a second house as a retreat for herself and her family.

Miss Moorehead received 3 honorary doctorates during her career, including a doctorate in literature from Muskingum. She was proud to have served as vice president of Muskingum's development campaign from 1953 to 1962 and served her alma mater again as a member of the Board of Trustees for one year until the illness which led to her death in 1974.

Emmy Award-winning actress Agnes Moorehead achieved international stardom on stage, screen, radio and television over the course of her fifty-year career. She was a popular figure during the golden days of radio, from comedy with Jack Benny, Bob Hope and others, to drama, including legendary performances of the suspense classic Sorry, Wrong Number and, for Orson Welles' Mercury Theater, the famed War of the Worlds. Miss Moorehead made her Hollywood debut in Welles' Citizen Kane and, for her performance in Welles' The Magnificent Ambersons, received the first of four Academy Award nominations. Miss Moorehead ultimately made 100 films and appeared in well over 100 television productions. Far and away her most popular role was Endora, the witch mother of Samantha on the classic television series Bewitched.

After graduating from Muskingum, the actress earned a master's degree in English and public speaking at the University of Wisconsin. She taught dramatics at The Dalton School in New York during the early days of her performing career, and also pursued post-graduate studies at the distinguished American Academy of Dramatic Arts, where she was an honors student.

Earlier bequests to Muskingum from Miss Moorehead's estate included the establishment of the Agnes Moorehead Scholarship Fund and half of the actress' manuscripts and theatrical library (the University of Wisconsin received the other half).

THE RIX MILLS FARM of legendary actress Agnes Moorehead '23 was conveyed to Muskingum College in 2004, as provided for in her 1974 will. The 275-acre property, home to five generations of the Moorehead family, stands a few miles southeast of New Concord in the rolling hills that span Union and Rich Hill Townships.

“We are honored to be entrusted with this property that was so close to the heart of this distinguished alumna,” said President Anne Steele. “This is an asset which expands the borders of our campus, both literally and figuratively. The farmland, together with the houses and buildings which stand on it, will be a source of inspiration to our learning community as we explore the many new

Nik Deogun '91 addresses incoming Muskies

Nikhil 'Nik' Deogun has been made deputy chief of the Washington bureau of the The Wall Street Journal. In his remarkable decade-long career with the Journal, Deogun began as a reporter covering a variety of beats, and received early recognition for his innovative coverage of Coca-Cola and Pepsico at the Atlanta bureau. He further distinguished himself as the mergers and acquisitions reporter in New York, and was appointed media and marketing editor in 2001, a position he left to accept the Washington bureau post.

A summa cum laude graduate of Muskingum with a double major in English and economics, and former editor-in-chief of the Black & Magenta, Deogun delivered the convocation address for the 2003-04 academic year. In reflecting on the importance of his Muskingum experience, he said, "I simply would not have achieved what I have without the experience and teaching I received here. Find your passion and, during your years here, figure out how to nudge the world."

Deogun was born in Assam, India, grew up in Calcutta and is a graduate of the Doon School. He received a master's degree in journalism from the University of Missouri-Columbia and has worked or interned at a number of papers, including the Atlanta Business Chronicle, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the Minneapolis Star-Tribune.

Deogun and his wife, Allison Kimmich '91, are parents of two children.

Queen Bonnie Taylor '05 and King Jason Goodloe '05

Queen Bonnie and King Jason reigned over homecoming and alumni reunion festivities last fall. A biology major and speech communication minor, Taylor is a member of honoraries Beta Beta Beta (biology) and Lambda Sigma (sophomore). She is president-elect of Student Senate, was junior class president and Homecoming co-chair. She is a student athletic trainer, a 3-year resident associate, cheerleader and member of the dance team. Goodloe, a business major, is a sprinter for varsity track and served on the Homecoming committee. He is a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and Kappa Sigma Fraternity

Faculty Awards

Three members of Muskingum's distinguished faculty were recognized during Convocation. Assistant Professor of English Jane Varley was awarded the William Oxley Thompson Award for Excellence in Teaching, Associate Professor of Philosophy Todd Lekan was granted the William Rainey Harper Award for Outstanding Scholarship. The Cora I. Orr Faculty Service Award was given to Professor of Spanish Russell V. Brown.

The distinguished patent attorney Chuck (Charles) Hauff lectured and held career dialogues with dozens of interested students from a variety of disciplines during a two-day campus visit. Sharing his experience in establishing and leading a prominent intellectual property group for his Phoenix-based law firm, Snell and Wilmer, Hauff urged students to be ready to take risks and to follow their dreams.

Hauff graduated summa cum laude from both the University of Akron Law School and from Muskingum, where he majored in chemistry and political science. The American Chemical Society gave him a leadership award in 2002 for his work as co-chair of an ACS subcommittee that was instrumental in effecting the most sweeping changes to patent law by the U.S. Congress since its codification in 1952.

Alumni-student exchanges on campus are an important feature of Muskingum's ongoing Alumni Leadership Initiative, which co-hosted Hauff's visit with the Science Division and the Political Science Department.

Christina Wampler '04
named to USA TODAY's 2004
All-USA College Academic Team

Christina Wampler is one of just sixty undergraduates in the country to be included in USA TODAY's fifteenth annual salute to students who make a difference. Candidates must distinguish themselves from their peers in four significant areas—leadership, academic excellence, community service and intellectual achievement.

As a student intern, Wampler secured more than $700,000 in funding for the cities of Zanesville and Cambridge. This included a major community and economic development grant for one of the most impoverished areas of the region. As a sophomore, she received one of only two annual Ohio Campus Compact Charles J. Ping Community Service Awards.

Wampler, a conservation science and political science major, is also a senior airman in the United States Air Force National Guard, and has served in Turkey, Afghanistan and at Rickenbacker Air Force Base in Columbus.

Heather Nees '06 earns
1st place at OSU's prestigious
Evans Lecture

Sophomore Heather Nees was awarded first place in inorganic chemistry at the prestigious Evans Lecture held annually by the Ohio State University Chemistry Department. The Evans Lecture is a significant event, and includes seventeen Nobel Prize winners in its history. The event includes a prestigious research poster contest whose entries are primarily from graduate students, not from undergraduates. A molecular biology and chemistry major, Nees presented research that she had conducted as a 2003 Muskie Fellow in association with assistant professor of chemistry Paul Szalay, Jr. Nees had previously presented this research at an American Chemical Society Conference in October, attended by more than 1,000 scientists, researchers and engineers from around the world.

Federal District Judge Edmund Sargus— “New Developments in the Law: How Colleges Might Best Provide Services to Learning Disabled Students”

CAMPUS VISIT HOSTED BY THE CENTER FOR ADVANCEMENT OF LEARNING.

The Muskingum community was privileged to hear Judge Edmund A. Sargus, Jr. speak about the Americans with Disabilities Act and its implications for colleges. He discussed the Act within its historical and Constitutional framework and presented the complexities of its application in court decisions. He then presented recommendations for educational institutions that wish not only to operate in compliance with the law but also to better serve their disabled constituencies.

Judge Sargus has served on the United States District Court for the Southern District of Ohio since 1996, after nomination by President Clinton and confirmation by the U.S. Senate. Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist of the U.S. Supreme Court appointed him to the Judicial Conference Committee on Security and Facilities in 2002. Prior to taking the bench, he served as Special Counsel to the Ohio Attorney General and as the U.S. Attorney for the Southern District of Ohio. He graduated from Brown University in 1975 and from Case Western Reserve School of Law in 1978.

Award-winning poet Beth Ann Fennelly appears at Muskingum

In a fascinating and inspiring evening, the distinguished poet Beth Ann Fennelly spoke about her craft and read from her work during a February lecture-reading. The appearance was sponsored by the Ohio Poetry Circuit and presented by Muskingum’s English Department. The publication of Fennelly’s first book, Open House, won important awards—the Kenyon Review Prize in Poetry for a First Book and the New Writers Award for Poetry from the Great Lake Colleges Association. Her second book, Tender Hooks, will be published this year by W.W. Norton. Widely published in major journals and anthologies, Fennelly is the recipient of numerous grants and awards from prestigious organizations including the National Endowment for the Arts, the American Academy of Poets and the MacDowell Colony.

Criminal Justice Program is Muskingum’s newest interdisciplinary major

Students can now declare a major in criminal justice, the newest of Muskingum’s many interdisciplinary majors. Majors will have a choice of two concentrations: Criminology and the Judicial Process or Economic and Social Justice. Muskingum’s criminal justice program is formulated within a solid liberal arts framework, drawing from the departments of sociology, psychology, political science, economics, philosophy, religion, history and economics.

President Steele addresses new U.S. citizens, including a Muskie

President Steele was the guest speaker for the naturalization ceremony held at Ohio’s Statehouse in Columbus in April. Unknown to her or to the organizers of the ceremony, a Muskingum student was among the group of new citizens and introduced herself to President Steele following the ceremony.

The Immigrant Cocoon captures the experiences of the thousands of Central and Eastern Europeans who migrated to rural Ohio to work the coal fields between 1880 and 1920. In a seminal work of social history that ends with World War II, Porter chronicles the conditions the immigrants left behind and how they established roots in their new country while preserving the essence of their past through their religious life.

The Western Leatherwood Valley takes the reader to an earlier time—eighteenth century American frontier life. Scotch-Irish, German, and Irish pioneers first came to the “Wild West” in search of land to farm. Porter details the challenges and opportunities of these settlements, Ohio’s statehood, the Civil War, the rise of the coal fields, and the onset of the Great Depression. With this work, the forces that shaped eastern Guernsey County are revealed.

This grass-roots movement grew in scope and contributed to the creation of the National Historic Preservation Act of 1966. Today, the Ohio & Erie Canal is one of 25 National Heritage Corridors, and more than 65 of 110 miles of the Towpath Trail are complete. This book is a compilation of Simpson's columns that were published in the Canton Repository between 1964 and 1970. His words inspired and sustained the public interest that proved vital to the creation of the Towpath Trail for future generations to enjoy.

Fifty Major Documents of the 20th Century 1950-2000

Dr. Taylor Stults

PROFESSOR EMERITUS OF HISTORY. KRIEGER PUBLISHING CO., ANVIL SERIES: MELBOURNE, 2004. ISBN 1-57524-204-4. WWW.KRIEGER-PUBLISHING.COM

Opening with A Western View of the Soviet Union in 1950 and ending with the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union in 2000, Stults deftly portrays the history of the last half of the 20th century through its most important documents. These gems range from the technical language of nuclear treaties to Boris Yeltsin's impassioned resignation speech. Readers will more fully grasp the decisions of government leaders, the background of international events and gain insight into today's political landscape.

American Politics: Transformation and Change.

Three Muskingum faculty members and three alumni have contributed one-third of the articles found in this new text. Dr. Walter Huber, assistant professor of political science, contributed two articles. The Challenge to Separation of Powers juxtaposes the founding fathers' precepts of separation of power with the administrative state theory of American government put forth by President Woodrow Wilson. Urban Sprawl, the American Dream Reconsidered defines the development of urban sprawl and discusses its costs and benefits for individuals, the city and the nation. Charles Ellis, visiting Muskingum College will publish brief announcements of books published by and about alumni and faculty. Please send an autographed copy of the book and if available, the press release, to the Office of the President. Books will be donated to the Muskingum College Library.

instructor of political science, published Subcommittees in the U.S. House of Representatives, which examines how the legislative process has been affected by the growth in the number and influence of subcommittees. Brian King, instructor in political science, published Do Presidents Learn? Presidential Crisis Management and Organizational Learning. The article examines how those in the Oval Office have handled crises, and discusses which management styles facilitate learning and which discourage adaptation. Jewel Maxwell '03, James Hockaday '03, Thomas Petropoulos '03 published The Electoral College and the 2000 Presidential Election, which examines the true role of the Electoral College in national elections and then considers whether that system failed in the controversial presidential election in 2000.

Senior Spotlight Cheryl Davies, Soccer Midfielder

Cheryl Davies made history in 2003 when she became the first ever All-American from the women's soccer team. Moreover, she was named to the First Team Academic All-Americans, the prestigious program of the College Sports Information Directors Association (CoSIDA).

Davies' student-athletic honors also include All-Ohio, Academic All-Ohio, 1st Team Academic All-District IV and Muskingum's 2004 Clyde A. Lamb Award for exceptional scholar-athletes. A two-time team captain, Davies was twice named Academic All-Ohio

Athletic Conference and All-OAC.

"Cheryl's exceptional play, conduct and grades have helped her team earn—three years in a row—the Ethics Award and the Academic Award from the National Soccer Coaches Association," said Head Coach Mary Beth Caudill. "She is a fierce competitor who wants to win every time she steps on the field or into the classroom."

Davies is as superb academically as she is athletically. She has been in the top 5% of her class each year, and received Muskingum's prestigious Fourth Year Award for Superior Scholarship at graduation. A business and public accounting major, Davies has accepted a position with a C.P.A. firm in the Columbus, Ohio area.

Head Football Coach Jeff Heacock '76 wins 100th career game

Jeff Heacock won his 100th career victory* in 2003, leading his players to their best season finish since 1998. Capping the year was a record number of post-season awards—eight players were named All-Ohio Athletic Conference and Academic All-OAC.

For 23 years Heacock has guided Muskingum's football program with an unwavering commitment to excellence. Twenty of his players have earned All-American status, including two Academic All-Americans, and 123 players have received All-OAC and Academic All-OAC honors.

Heacock earned All-American First Team at Muskingum and, as the OAC's top defensive back, received the Critchfield Award. As a coach, he has created a football legacy, with hundreds of alumni who trace their accomplishments to his influence. He is also a member of an unusual Muskie legacy family: his two brothers, also defensive backs, and their father (Clint '38) are former Fighting Muskies, and all three brothers are active Ohio college football coaches (Jim '70 is assistant head coach, the Ohio State Buckeyes, and Jon '83 is head coach, Youngstown State Penguins). Two-time OAC Coach of the Year, Heacock served on the NCAA All-America Selection Committee for Division III and was president of the OAC Coaches' Association. Heacock is assistant professor of physical and health education, was Muskingum's athletic director, and received his master's degree from the University of Dayton.

He and his wife, Colleen Hawkins Heacock '82, have two children.

Head Volleyball Coach Bea Zicha Wins 500th

With the 500th victory of her career, Dr. Elizabeth Zicha stands firmly in the rank of elite volleyball coaches. Zicha has a remarkable .710 winning percentage and is 10th in the nation in Division III for her number of career wins.

Zicha has been named Coach of the Year seven times by her peers—three times by the Great Lakes Region and four times by the Ohio Athletic Conference. The Ohio High School Volleyball Coaches Association inducted her into its Hall of Fame and made her a lifetime member. Zicha frequently speaks at clinics and conventions and is an outstanding volleyball official.

During her nineteen years at Muskingum, Zicha has coached her teams to 6 OAC championships and 7 NCAA appearances, including a 3rd

2004 Athletic Hall of Fame Nominations

A highlight of each homecoming weekend is the induction of new members to the Muskingum College Athletic Hall of Fame.

To qualify: Former Muskie athletes must have earned at least two letters in one sport or one letter in two sports. If a female athlete competed before letters were awarded, her outstanding accomplishments or record in athletics will be considered. Candidates must have graduated at least five years prior to selection. A coach or athletic administrator nominee must have lettered in a sport while a student or have been a member of Muskingum's staff for at least ten years. Candidates must be retired or no longer employed by Muskingum. Deceased alumni, coaches or administrators may be nominated according to the preceding standards. Those nominated, but not selected last year, will automatically be reconsidered this year. There is no limit to the number of times an individual may be nominated.

WWII REMEMBERED

A number of alums responded to the story of Howell M. Forgy '32 that appeared in Muskingum's Magazine for Alumni and Friends (Spring '03) with stories of alums who served after the attack on Pearl Harbor. With the following two stories, we honor all those Muskies who served so courageously in our armed forces in World War II.

A Christmas Miracle

Chaplain Dr. Lee Edwin Walker '35 conducted a combat worship service on Christmas Eve, 1944, for more than 1,000 men of the 511th Parachute Infantry on the Island of Leyte in the Philippines at a very special place known as "Hard Rock Hill," adjacent to the area where fallen comrades were being buried. The troops had been in combat for weeks and had gone days "with empty stomachs and no food re-supply" because clouds had covered the mountainous jungle terrain and supplies could not be dropped in. Knowing that they could not survive unless the weather cleared, the regimental commander asked the young seminary graduate to hold a service of prayer and supplication. In the words of Chappie Walker, "What followed was no doubt one of the most authentic and unadulterated prayers for deliverance possible to put into words. I read from the opening verses of the 107th Psalm, we shared Communion in the most primitive form anyone could imagine, and closed with a song we all knew and were thinking about during the long days and longer nights we spent in our shallow foxholes, I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas."

When the soldiers awakened on Christmas Day, their prayers had been answered. The clouds disappeared and friendly planes parachuted in life-saving supplies. As a result, they were able to out-fight and out-last the enemy. Among the soldiers was Rod Serling, who commemorated the event in his story Combat Christmas.

Chappie Walker achieved the rank of major and was awarded numerous medals, including the Silver Star, the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart. He died at his home in Pennsylvania in 1997.

This information was submitted by members of the class of 1950 Rev. Arthur L. Stanley, Ann Colvin Dechard and Robert Carroll, who was a member of the 11th Airborne Division and was present at Walker's service.

The Ultimate Friendly Fire

Although the term 'friendly fire' became popularized during the Vietnam War, it is an unhappy circumstance of all wars, none more so than World War II.

In 1945 Joseph Dubinsky '42 was an Army Air Corps pilot in command of a B-24 bomber in Okinawa. His half-brother Branko Stupar '47 was also on the island as a Navy ensign, commanding an LCT craft. Joe had persuaded Branko to join him on a six-ship bombing mission over Hiroshima on July 28, but Branko was closed out due to a last-minute conflict. Two planes, including Joe's, were shot down on this mission. The War Department reported that Joe had been killed. Eight days later, on August 6, the U.S. dropped its atomic bomb on Hiroshima. It took another forty years, and the reports of three Japanese survivors meeting with the surviving pilot of the second downed ship, for the full story of Joseph Dubinsky to be told.

Retired Air Force Lieutenant Colonel T. C. Cartwright survived being shot down on that mission and survived the war, but never forgot about his downed comrades, and ultimately corresponded with Japanese researchers. Historian Shigeaki Mori was 8 years old that August. He had known there were eleven American airmen in captivity at the Chugoku Police Barracks in Hiroshima at that time, and in the early 1980s was able to verify a list of their names, which included that of one "Josef Ensign Dubinsky." Kazushi Higashida, former police cadet, was the only survivor of the Chugoku barracks. He told of the American airman who had been found, nearly dead, hanging by his chute from a tree. During an interrogation by sive research on Americans shot down over Japan, was able to verify that Josef Ensign Dubinsky was, in reality, Joseph Dubinsky, half-brother of Branko Stupar.

Thus Joseph Dubinsky and ten other American POWs greeted August 6 and its tragedy along with the citizens of Hiroshima.
