HIGHLIGHTS

- Hubert is the new Boss: the only competitor to date to have won in both the motorbike (81-83) and car categories (92), Hubert Auriol takes over at the reins of the Dakar. The "African" is the new acclaimed organiser.
- The staff of the Dakar: the rally organisation counts 140 officials including 20 commissioners and 29 doctors, and boasts 32 vehicles, 10 helicopters, and 22 airplanes.
- Otto in the motorcycle category: At 23, Austria's Otto Lindenau is the youngest competitor in the rally. He is competing in the motorbike category.
- Schek is not the oldest: at the other end of the scale, the oldest competitors include Marcel Hugueny (car category) who is 81 and Herbert Schek (motorcycle), who, at 62, is, for once, not the oldest competitor.
- Old faithful: record for the most rallies ran goes to Raymond Loizeaux who has taken part in fourteen Dakars.

1995

GRANADA - DAKAR

- 8 women at the starting line: 6 in the car category, 1 in the truck category and 1 in the motorcycle category.
- F1 goes bike: F1 racers Laffite and Alliot return to the Dakar, trading in their racing cars for motorcycles.
- Pre-start soaking: Prior to the official start in Grenada, the competitors warm up under the rain in Brussels, Paris, Venice and Barcelona.

THE RACE

- 1st stage: Grenada - Motril (275 km including special stage of 170 km)

Rain greets the prologue in Spain. On a slippery special stage, the Finns have plenty to be happy about because Salonen leads Vatanen. In the motorbike category, Kinigadner wins the first stage racing against Peterhansel.

- 2nd stage: Nador - Er Rachidia (619 km including special stage of 226 km)

Mitsubishi sounds the charge. On a very stony track and in a foggy Atlas, Saby scatters the Citroëns, despite a puncture. The fog even forces the organisers to neutralise part of the special stage. In the overall standings, Salonen leads Lartigue. The American driver records a symbolic victory driving a Yamaha for a Russian stable.

- 3rd stage: Er Rachidia - Ouarzazate (574 km including 405 km of special stage)

Vatanen goes on the offensive. Among the stones and the first lines of dunes, the Finn snatches over eight minutes from Saby. In the overall standings, Vatanen, winner of the special stage, climbs to first place in the rally. Second victory for Kinigadner while Peterhansel limits the damage after puncturing his casing on a stone and is forced to pull out.

- 4th stage: Ouarzazate - Goulimine (646 km including 380 km of special)

Saby angrily accuses Fréquelin of informing his drivers at each CP. Fontenay, for his part, concentrates on winning the special stage. There is no stopping the Austrian who wins his third special stage in a row, and his fourth since the start of the rally. In terms of overall standings, he has a lead of over a quarter of an hour on his heir apparent Arcarons.

- 5th stage: Goulimine - Es Smara (486 km including 408 km of special)

Third Mitsubishi victory thanks to Saby who therefore climbs in the standings. Vatanen's ZX, having suffered three punctures, sees its lead melt away. Kinigadner continues to forge ahead, widening the gap between himself and his pursuers a bit more.

- 6th stage: Es Smara - Aswerd (585 km including 577 km of special)

In a hard blow for Citroën, Salonen finishes on two drive wheels after his transmission is broken while repairs are prohibited. Vatanen ploughs ahead and takes back the lead he had lost. Arcarons nudges ahead, wins the special stage and takes the lead in the overall standings. Top performance of the day is that of Peterhansel who snatches back fourteen minutes from Kinigadner.

- 7th stage: Aswerd - Zouerat (628 km including 625 special stage)

Vatanen and Lartigue forge ahead for Citroën to come in first and second. Salonen struggles to get over the dunes on two drive wheels and loses over five hours. Arcarons and Peterhansel finish first and second, as in the previous day's stage.

- 8th stage: Zouerat - Chinguetti (514 km including 504 km of special stage)

Lartigue forges ahead, while Vatanen falters. Victim of a faulty acceptance of his ZX, Vatanen is forced to wait for assistance and drops to 61st place in the overall standings. Lartigue doubles up by both winning the stage and going into the lead in the overall standings. Spain's Gallardo wins the special stage. Peterhansel, in second place, threatens Arcarons in the standings.

- 9th stage: Chinguetti - Tidjikja (348 km including 347 km of special)

Second stage victory for Fontenay ahead of Vatanen, who, in a make-or-break performance, overtakes over seventy competitors. The duel between Lartigue and Saby continues. In the motorcycle category, Dutchman Jimmink takes everyone by surprise by riding his Cagiva to victory.

- 10th stage: Tidjikja - Ayoun El Atrous (429 km including 375 km of special)

Fontenay blazes a trail through the Nega pass and Lartigue takes advantage. Saby's proto blows a hose but still finishes third. Vatanen has more problems, this time with his radiator. Rough day for Peterhansel, who, having been the victim of a fall, is penalised following a complaint by Arcarons, who accuses him of receiving help to repair his wheel.

- 11th stage: Ayoun El Atrous - Bakel

This eleventh stage is a special navigation one. Not only is there a lot of navigation, it is also a difficult stage with a lot of traps and alternating sandy and grassy terrain. Saby's proto accumulates suspension problems. All hope of victory slips away from him. The ZXs monopolise the first four places of the special stage with Servia, Vatanen, Salonen and Lartigue in that order.

1995 GRANADA - DAKAR

• 12th stage: Bakel - Labé (632 km including 626 km of special)

In Guinea, Fontenay breaks his suspension to lose his second place in the overall standings. Citroën takes 1st, 2nd and 3rd place with Lartigue at the head. Annoyed by the penalty inflicted on him, Peterhansel strikes back in Guinea. He gains twenty minutes on Arcarons and takes back the lead in the overall standings.

• 13th stage: Labé - Tambacounda (820 km including 600 km of special)

Fontenay saves face by winning his third stage. Vatanen's and Picard's ZX causes consternation when it summersaults in a fast portion and is badly damaged. The entire rally reels under the shock but, in the heel of the hunt things are not as bad as they look. The team are unscathed. Peterhansel wins the special stage and hammers home the nail a bit.

• 14th stage: Tambacounda-Dakar

In a gripping struggle, Saby moves ahead of Shinozuka. In the motorbike category, Peterhansel hogs the limelight and records his fourth Dakar victory, once again on Yamaha, their sixth such victory. Lartigue wins for the second time in a row, this handing Citroën their third win. Loprais's Tatra wins for the third time (88-94-95).
