A uniquely creative and colourful project in a prominent, newly refurbished, city-centre building.

The eclectic, “non-office”, studio space is furnished with bespoke workstations designed to enable user personalisation for “home-from-home” comfort. A perfect organic layout enhances communication and collaboration and is easily adapted to accommodate the ebbs and flows of working processes. Passionate employees live their work during unusual hours and are handsomely provided with a spacious, well-appointed catering facility and recreation area. Power and cooling systems deal with the huge demand from processors and acoustically excellent recording studios sit behind the scenes.
