

NEW SUBWAY STATION NAME

"Manhattan Street" on Broadway
Line Becomes "125th Street."

Hereafter the Seventh Avenue subway station known as "Manhattan Street" will be called "125th Street," under permission granted to the Interborough yesterday by the Public Service Commission.

The movement for the change of name was sponsored by the Harlem Board of Commerce. The Interborough has until March 31 to make the necessary substitution of signs on the station.

The New York Times

Published: March 6, 1921

Copyright © The New York Times