

HAPPY IN PROMISE WHAT SHE'LL SOON BE ABLE TO WALK

Child Paralysis Sufferer is Rescued From a Life of Invalidism.

Florence Madeline Palmer, eleven, the Maspegh girl to whom modern surgery has given the use of her limbs after being crippled from infantile paralysis since she was two years old, yesterday afternoon sat on the stoop of her home at 54 Jefferson avenue, watching the importunate movements of her brothers and sisters with a happy smile.

She knows that it will not be long before she will be able to join in their games. The doctors have promised her that, but she must wait for patience. It cannot be expected that after being paralyzed practically all her life she will be able to run and jump right away.

Florence, an unusually pretty girl with a lot of intelligence in her deep-set eyes, is taking the situation very philosophically, but she does not attempt to hide the happiness she feels at the wonderful movements she has received from her father's godmother, personified in her case by the Queensboro Lodge of Elks.

For more than a year now she has been undergoing treatment at the Orthopedic Hospital in Manhattan and the total expense has been borne by the funds of the Crippled Children's Committee of the Elks.

This fund was especially established by the Queensboro Elks for cases similar to that of Florence, and the committee, which ministers to it has a long and honorable record of saving children in Queens from what would otherwise have been a life-time of invalidism.

Although she can only as yet walk a little time each day until her legs are able to support the weight of her body, Florence is looking forward to all kinds of wonderful things. The power to play with the other children is only one of them. Her most important is the knowledge that she will be able soon to take her place in school and will gradually take up all the other activities of a happy childhood.

Balances Himself on Flagpole Atop Building on Second Avenue, Astoria, While Crowds Gape

"Daredevil" on Kindred Building Flagpole; Connecting Railroad Viaduct in Background.

Residents of the Ditmars section of Astoria got a thrill shortly after 5 o'clock last night when "Daredevil" Johnnie Reynolds of Brooklyn balanced himself on his abdomen on the top of the flag-pole on Second avenue, at the Ditmars avenue "L" terminal.

A few minutes before he had balanced himself on two legs of a chair which surmounted four tables on the edge of the roof.

"Daredevil Johnnie" performed his outdoor act to draw attention to the fact that he is appearing at the Astoria Grand Theater, a few doors away. Manager Harry Furst of that theater was on the roof with him while he was doing his "stuff."

Reynolds has been performing similar stunts for twenty-seven years, and says the "stunt" never failed. He has performed atop the Eiffel Tower, Paris (969 feet high), the 540-foot high tower of the City Hall at Philadelphia, and the P. L. Smith Building, forty-two stories high, in Seattle, Wash.

He claims to be the original "human fly" and took up "contouring" as a trade after working for some time as a stepladder. He is now awaiting a permit to do stunts on the top of the Woolworth Building, Manhattan.

He has been advertising his act in other Queens communities, appearing at the Victoria Theater, Elmhurst; Hyperion at Palace Theater, Corona, and the new Maspegh Theater.

WHITES MOLE CLUB HEARS PRAISES OF HYLAN, CONNOLLY

Commissioner Shugrue Tells of Mayor's Record on New Schools.

Two hundred members of the Whites Mole Club crowded into their meeting rooms at Seventh avenue and Eighteenth street last evening to hear an interesting address by Michael Shugrue, Commissioner of Public Works of Queens. The meeting was unusual, owing to the fact that as many women turned the party and speaker Hyman and Connolly to the utmost of their ability.

Commissioner Shugrue told of Mayor Hyman's record in building public schools and his present program for more schools. He told how the mayor was fighting for more buses for the communities like Whitehouse, where there is crying need of better transit facilities. He also glorified the work that President Connolly had done in Queens during the years he had been Borough President.

He cited examples of the work done by Hyman and Connolly.

The Commissioner went down the whole Hyman ticket and had something good to say in behalf of every name on it. He praised Aldermen Schmitt and Assemblyman Kennedy, who, he said, had done the work allotted to them so well that they had virtually overcome all opposition and their re-election would be practically unanimous.

A ringing vote of thanks was given to Mayor Hyman and Commissioner Shugrue at the finish of his address.

Mrs. L. Point of Fourth street, and Miss Margaret Flinn of South street, were the first to speak.

Assemblyman Alfred J. Kennedy, president of the Whites Mole Club, presided and introduced the speaker, Guy Schmitt, secretary, recorded, James Walsh, financial secretary, received dues from new members, which was given over to Treasurer John J. Jones.

Modest Boy Heroes Rescue Child, 10, in Hell Gate Waters

Two Astoria boys who went swimming off the Astoria Park shore against their parents' wishes saved a much younger boy from drowning the other day. The heroes, however, in a letter to The Star telling of their bravery ask that their names be not mentioned.

Their letters follow:

"Sunday me and my friend did a noble act. We were swimming down Hell Gate and heard a cry for help. My friend swam with all efforts. He succeeded in getting to the one that yelled for help. It was a little boy about ten years of age.

"We do not want our names published for we are forbidden to go swimming.

"We do not know the child's name or where he lives."

BAYSIDE BUS NOW OPERATES TO SHORE ROAD

Operation of the Bayside bus line from its former terminus at Bell and Crochran avenues, to Shore road, Bayside, was inaugurated last evening providing transportation for a large number of people who heretofore have been forced to walk several blocks to the bus.

Joseph Rauchwerger, president of the Rauchwerger Bus Company, announced today that he has arranged the schedule for the Bayside line to provide at least one bus each hour for the Shore road residents. The regular service to Bell and Crochran avenues will be continued.

The idea for the extension of the bus route was made by John J. Doherty, well known civic worker of Bayside, who brought the matter before Borough President Connolly. The latter then held a conference with Rauchwerger, who a few days later announced that he had ordered additional equipment to provide for the new service.

LEGION SENDS OUT DOLLARS TO ATTRACT DOLLARS; IT WORKS

Officials at state headquarters of the American Legion in the Hall of Records at Albany, N. Y., today word to say for the inherent honesty of New Yorkers.

Recently fifty $1 bills were sent to fifty persons whose names were selected at random from the telephone book, as a means of calling attention to the Legion's $5,000,000 fund for the relief of blind, orphan and veteran, with the request that each dollar be returned with an additional dollar subscription.

The percentage of those who subscribed is not named, but it is significant that only four failed to return the dollars.

CALLS NEIGHBOR 'BULLY OF BAYSIDE'

"He's the bully of Bayside, your honor," Andrew Woel of Maurice avenue, Friday evening, had broken the record for disabled men that they would have one of the largest community celebrations ever held in Queens.

Betty Sippel was bridesmaid and Sunday afternoon the entertainment will consist of big time vaudeville numbers interspersed between the dance numbers. There will also be prize bowling for women and men.

The executive committee of the club will meet tonight to perfect the arrangements of the outing.

Woel, however, told Magistrate Thomas E. Doyle that he was most defending himself against an assault by Woel and had given the latter a light punch.

"Your honor, this man has a reputation for being in the Flushing town bully," Woel told the court. "He picks on men smaller than himself and is greatly feared. He is standing in front of my house when he was about to strike me and I gave him a little shove."

Woel testified that he was on the porch of his house when he was attacked from behind and thrown to the ground, receiving a heavy blow on the nose. He admitted that he did not see Woel strike him.

Magistrate Doyle dismissed the case and told both men that they should be on their best behavior if they intended to continue living in the same house.

Mrs. Mary F. Strever and daughter, Edna, of Jamaica, formerly of Long Island City, left today for a short stay with relatives in Richmond, Va.

Mrs. Anna Meyer, 427 Twelfth avenue, Astoria, has been named an executive member of the women's auxiliary of the First Assembly District. She returned home recently from Goshen, N. Y., where she spent her vacation.

MOVIES AND THEATERS

SOUTH SEA FILM AT LOEW'S ASTORIA

"Never the Twain Shall Meet" was presented on the screen at Loew's Astoria Theater yesterday. It will continue for two days.

The new film, presented by the Cosmopolitan Corporation, and released by Metro-Goldwyn, is a picture of Peter B. Krue's South Sea tale of the same name. It is one of the most exceptional and enchanting pictures of the year.

In the making of this picture, Maurice Tourneur, the director, took a notable company to Tahiti and Moorea for the filming of the scenes on the actual locale described by the author.

Anita Stewart in the leading feminine role of Tamea. Bert Lytell, as the young American son of wealth and social position, who gives up his ambitions, his mode of living and his wealth for the half-caste girl, has an unusual opportunity for displaying his powers of character delineation.

Other members of the cast are Justine Johnston, Huntly Gordon, Elizabeth Holding and Marion Orth, Emily Fitzroy, William Norris, Florence Turner and Princess Marie de Bourbon.

BERT LYTELL STAR IN CURWOOD PICTURE

There are only a few novelists whose stories seem to gain in effectiveness when transferred to the screen. Sabatini is one. "Captain Blood" in particular, proving much more effective on the screen than between the covers of the book. James Oliver Curwood is another.

The latest Curwood picture, "Steele of the Royal Mounted," is now showing at the Astoria Grand and Steinway Theaters. It is a typical Curwood story—gay, swift with action, vivid characterization, and the glamor of romantic adventure.

Bert Lytell, in the role of Steele, dashes through peril with a fascinating reckless that sets the blood tingling. Playing opposite him is the lovely Charlotte Merram, who makes an adorable heroine. Stuart Holmes gives another of his memorable "villain" performances.

Miss Juliette Scott, who has emerged from a long retirement, makes her return an event to be welcomed by picture-goers. A woman whose love affair causes a lot of trouble. And Sydney De Grey and John Toughy, as a pair of cadlocks, complete the principals in an excellent cast.

The picture was produced by David Smith for Vitaphone, and he has made a stirring, joyous, photoplay of it, one of the season's best.

'PRICE OF PLEASURE' AT NEW MERIDEN

"The Price of Pleasure," written especially for screen production by Elizabeth Holding and Marion Orth, who have written some outstanding screen successes, is Virginia Vall and Norman Kerry's next vehicle. It has its first local showing in the New Meriden Theater, Astoria Square, tomorrow, and Thursday.

Miss Vall has the part of a shop girl whose greatest desire is for "Just one good time for a full week." Several scenes of the picture are devoted to making realistic the life of those thousands of young women, who, without family ties, struggle to maintain themselves in decency as shop girls in big department stores in big cities, finding their sole social pleasures in the restricted activities of a tenement boarding house.

Into the life of this wishful young woman came romance in the form of a man clad as a mechanic, but who turned out to be the son of a rich aristocratic woman. For a time the young woman's desire for a good time is realized and then comes the awakening.

SCREEN PLAY PAINTS NEW ENGLAND TYPES

"Welcome Stranger," the screen version of the great Broadway play by Aaron Hoffman, which comes to the Broadway Theater for a three day run beginning this afternoon, is a vivid picture of the prejudice of a small town. The author has made a study of New England rural folk and all the personages in his play are as distinctive as a type. It is a real story of American life, adventure and romance.

The central character is Isidore Solomon, a poor clothing merchant, who wanders into the town of Valley Falls, N. H., one New Year Eve, when the mercury is away below zero and the north wind shrieking like a chorus of fiends. Cold as the weather is, he finds the inhabitants of the town far more frigid and unkind. With wonderful optimism he pursues his own course, befriends a couple of unfortunate ones and finally rises to a position of prominence and respect.

OPERATIC QUARTET AT JACKSON THEATER

The musical feature at the Jackson Theater for today is the International Operatic Quartet, composed of these well-known soloists: Marguerita White, soprano; Lois Adelaide, contralto; Lucia Coccia, tenor; Clay Inman, baritone.

Their performances on Sunday and Monday evenings were very well received. The first number was a duet by Messrs. Coccia and Inman; the next offering "Oh, Night of Love," by Misses White and Adelaide. The finale was an offering chosen from the opera "Lucia" and won tremendous applause for the entire quartet.

TRIBORO PROJECT WON'T BE DROPPED, DECLARE OFFICIALS

The population of at least a million within ten years. Practically its sole means of access at the present time is the Queensboro Bridge.

Even now the bridge is grossly inadequate to carry the traffic, it is claimed that the situation can only be met by early action.

The Board of Estimate has just appropriated $50,000 for the study of the proposed comprehensive plan. There should be no delay in its adoption and execution.

The surveys which are being made by experts will determine where the first bridge and successive bridges will be built.

"That is a matter for scientific determination based upon the use of the bridge as a whole," said the subject. "I can only say now that if I am Mayor I shall expedite the matter to the utmost."

Frank D. Watanabe and John J. Lyons, Republican primary candidates for the Mayoralty, favor the bridge project, while Alderman George C. Harvey of Flushing, who is the Republican candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, favors a tunnel. He believes that the proper location for a bridge or tunnel is south of the present Queensboro Bridge, with the Manhattan end at Thirty-eighth street.

Invitations have been extended to neighboring clubs and local politicians to participate in the event, John Hull, president of the Elks Club, heads the reception committee, and E. Straffens heads the committee of arrangements.

Will you kindly let me know through your paper if there is any change in the widening of Queens boulevard, between Old Mill road and Forest Hills?

A DAILY READER.
Answer: There has been no change in the width, which is 200 feet. There will be a change, however, in the paving plan, as sixty feet will be reserved for a subway. Instead of four roadways, therefore, there will be only two. The sidewalk widths have been reduced from twenty to fifteen feet.—Editor.
