ABOUT PRAJA

Praja is a non-partisan organisation working towards enabling accountable governance since 1999. Praja empowers citizens to participate in governance by providing knowledge and perspective so that they can become politically active and involved beyond the ballot box. It undertakes extensive research and highlights civic issues to build the awareness of, and mobilize action by the government and elected representatives (Ers).

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The National Consultation on Urban Governance by Praja Foundation was held on 22nd and 23rd January in New Delhi. The consultation was attended by mayors, councillors, member of legislative assembly (MLAs), municipal corporation officials, civil society organisations, academicians and practitioners from 20 States and NCT. The consultation was a platform to disseminate the key findings of the Urban Governance Reforms Study conducted by Praja Foundation in 21 states. The study was focussed on understanding urban governance systems in India and aimed to build necessary reform agenda. Participants were engaged through panel wise discussions focussing on four themes of Praja's framework on urban governance for empowerment of city government – (i) Control and execution of functions and functionaries; (ii) Empowered and accountable elected representatives; (iii) Fiscal decentralisation and (iv) Active citizen participation and citizen grievance redressal mechanism. The summary of discussions held over these themes, which highlighted the issues and brought out key suggestions pertaining to the current system of urban governance in the country by multiple stakeholders is shared below.

Control and Execution of Functions and Functionaries

The theme centrally involved discussions on the lack of empowerment of City Governments in the country. Many expressed that City Governments do not function with autonomy as they lack complete control over primary urban functions. A common issue raised was the existence of multiple agencies operating in the city leading to coordination issues. Moreover, stakeholders stressed on the lack of accountability of these multiple agencies towards the City Governments. These agencies are constituted by the State Governments to execute specific functions in the city. Praja's study showed that of all the 21 cities studied, it experienced involvement of multiple agencies in 7 functions out of the 18 functions (as specified in Twelfth Schedule of the 74th Constitutional Amendment Act) at the least. Participants also put forth that City Governments are lacking the capacity to implement urban schemes and/or handle large scale projects due to acute shortage of resources. City Governments facing shortage of adequate revenue to fund projects and lacking necessary human resources to perform functions was also among the crucial highlights of Praja's Study.

Key suggestions

- Create constitutionally mandated local list of functions specific for City Governments in line with the central and state lists.
- Institutionalise capacity building programmes for the City Governments to improve the legislative and administrative functioning.
- Find systemic changes necessary in existing coordination systems between the State Government and the City Government where control over functions and corresponding powers are transferred to the cities, while monitoring and holding cities accountable, rests with the state.
- City Governments need to hold complete control over all the 18 functions specified in the Twelfth Schedule, 74th CAA and other vital urban functions that need to be planned and executed at city level.
- City Government needs to be authorised to act as a nodal agency exercising regulatory control over multiple agencies executing projects in the city to eliminate the issue of coordination between multiple agencies in the city.

Empowered and accountable elected representatives

The limited powers with the legislative wings of the City Governments formed the main subject of discussion in the session. Poor capacity and challenges faced by newly elected councillors, low remuneration and ward development funds allotted to councillors in general and the limited powers held by Mayors were the main issues highlighted collectively by the participants. Stakeholders vouched for Mayor's post to hold powers such as suspension of officials and filing of Annual Confidential Report of the Commissioner.

Some participants also raised concerns that Commissioners and Collectors are subjected to implement the orders of the State Government to achieve its own interests, often with limited assistance to councillors for solving their concerned issues or work. On the other hand, it was discussed that councillors are more accessible to citizens than an MLA or MP. Specialised agencies or Special Purpose Vehicles do not have any legislative platform to be answerable to the citizen and hence, City Governments are the only accessible entity to citizens to raise complaints.

Key suggestions

- Councillors should leave their partisan interests to unite and demand their right for powers to effectively practice responsibilities for bringing positive changes to the constituencies they represent.
- Elected representatives should be trained mandatorily on the functioning of municipal governance with specific focus on budgeting, concerned roles and responsibilities, and bye-laws of council and committee proceedings.
- Create mechanisms to bring young leaders who are ambitious to alter the current municipal governance system, apart from the structural changes required to empower City Government as a whole.

Fiscal Decentralisation

Initial round of discussions on this theme revolved around issues associated with the State Finance Commissions (SFCs) in the country. The issue of most SFCs not following any predictable rule-based formula to transfer funds to City Government and not adhering to the recommendations strictly was highlighted. Another challenge mentioned was the fact that SFC grants are mostly tied grants, having conditions specified that are not in lines with City Government's action plans, ultimately proving difficult for City Governments to access the said grants.

The need for increasing tax collections and coverage by the City Government was also discussed. It was stressed that mechanisms need to be developed to bring new citizens of the city who may have migrated from other villages or cities under the tax collection coverage.

Also, discussions pointing to heavy dependency of the City Governments on the State Government for revision of tax rates and for final approval of budget took place. Praja's study revealed that only 1 out of the 21 states have City Governments holding independent control over setting tax rates and that 10 States have City Governments dependent on the State Government for final approval of its budget.

Key suggestions

- SFCs need to be formed by having relevant stakeholders and members who have a knack and are experienced on the subject matter.
- Bring out a constitutional mandate on taxes that can be levied by the City Governments to achieve self-sufficiency.
- Follow the example of Indore Municipal Corporation for tapping grants through CSR funding after having faced fiscal issues.
- State Governments need to allot grants to municipalities in the State's budget provisions, thereby, ensuring fixed grants to be transferred to City Governments.
- City Governments need to receive grants from the Central and State Governments in a predictable rule-based manner and must be authorised with powers to raise their own resources.

Active citizen participation and citizen grievance redressal mechanism

Most citizens having low interest in municipal elections, unaware of the duties and responsibilities of their ward councillor and bearing the issue of accountability due to the division of functions between City Governments and State Governments were highlighted as main issues. Hence, firstly, citizens need to be aware of their councillors and the platforms that are available for raising their concerns or issues such as ward committees etc. Participants put forth that platforms such as ward committees or RWAs are not only for the purpose of monitoring but also allow bringing in of new constructive suggestions which the councillors can adopt. These platforms for citizen engagement need to be constituted in the cities as participants remarked that citizens have a right to participate rather than just vote in elections.

Another main concern raised was that there is no price to pay if ward committees or citizen charters are not constituted. Hence, there were suggestions that one way to ensure accountability is to upload the minutes of the ward committee meetings for public access. This opened the discussions on the need for data transparency for the public such as availability of information on ward wise budgets, activities, projects, complaints registered and closed, minutes of council and ward committee meetings etc. An interesting comment was made on galvanising citizen's participation on local issues through activities in the public realm such as community spaces, recreational spaces, cultural spaces etc.

Key suggestions

- Important and relevant public data present in an easy and accessible form can help citizens be aware and provide suggestions, solutions or feedback.
- Actively enforce the constitutional mandate of Public Service Guarantee Act to strengthen transparency on delivery of services.
- Examples quoted include:
 - Integrated and influential role of RWAs in Delhi.
 - Andhra Pradesh's scheme that compensated citizens with money in case of non-adherence of Service Level Agreements (SLAs) and an effective complaint tracking management system being used to strengthen accountability.
 - Initiatives such as transparency days by the Pune Municipal Corporation wherein citizens can directly meet officials and access relevant records etc. and holding of Corporator Awards in cities promotes healthy competition leading to improvement of performance among the corporators of the city.

Overall Conclusions

There was a common understanding that emerged from the thematic discussions that cities are the centres for economic change, hence creating strong political leadership coupled with strengthening of the City Governments was proposed as the way forward to bring positive developmental changes in cities. Citizens, on the other hand, need to create a bottom – up pressure to push demands and accountability to the front. Enabling City Governments to have complete control over functions and holding them accountable was also one of the important comments that came out. Stakeholders agreed on an overall note that structural reforms are required as far as 74th CAA is concerned.

Key suggestions

- Making it mandatory for to-be political leaders to have a stint in City Governance.
- Harnessing the potential of private sector for implementation of schemes and projects with overall control in the hands of the City Governments.
- Formulating comprehensive long-term vision city plans that are well-integrated and have mandatory provisions for political parties to strictly adhere to, irrespective of change in governments.

The overall message that came across was that new reforms need to focus on delegation of powers, devolution of functions, effective coordination mechanisms between the State Governments and City Governments to bring about boost in revenues and augmenting of resources enabling active decentralised city governance.

PRAJA'S URBAN GOVERNANCE STUDY AND METHODOLOGY

1.1 URBAN GOVERNANCE –CURRENT CONTEXT

The process of urbanisation is taking place rapidly in India. The Pace at which Indian cities are expanding poses significant challenges in urban governance. India's urban population has expanded from 26% of the total population in 1991 to 31% in 2011. It is estimated that by 2030, more than 40% of the Indian population will be living in cities. The primary question in this context is whether the existing urban governance structures in India would be capable enough to respond to the needs of rising urban population and enable our cities to tackle future problems. At present, the governance system lacks democratic accountability, is unresponsive to the needs of its citizens, and is certainly not well positioned to deal with future challenges. Thus, there is an urgent need to completely transform the way Indian cities are governed and managed, to make them more democratic, transparent, accountable and responsive to the needs of its citizens.

Praja Foundation initiated a project in order to understand the implementation of 74th constitutional amendment, challenges faced by city governments and then to advocate policy changes that will change the way Indian cities are governed. It is multiyear project in nature, with research being the bedrock to form a network and influence change.

By March'2020 we will be conducting an Urban Governance Reforms Study to capture status of urban reforms in all the states, identify levers and barriers and identify a set of recommendations.

Our study will create a 'urban governance index' and map urban governance status in all the states of the country.

As part of the study we will map and meet various stakeholders in all the states across the country and build a network which will be leveraged as a platform for, knowledge sharing, equipping stakeholders, mobilising stakeholders, and advocating for policy changes.

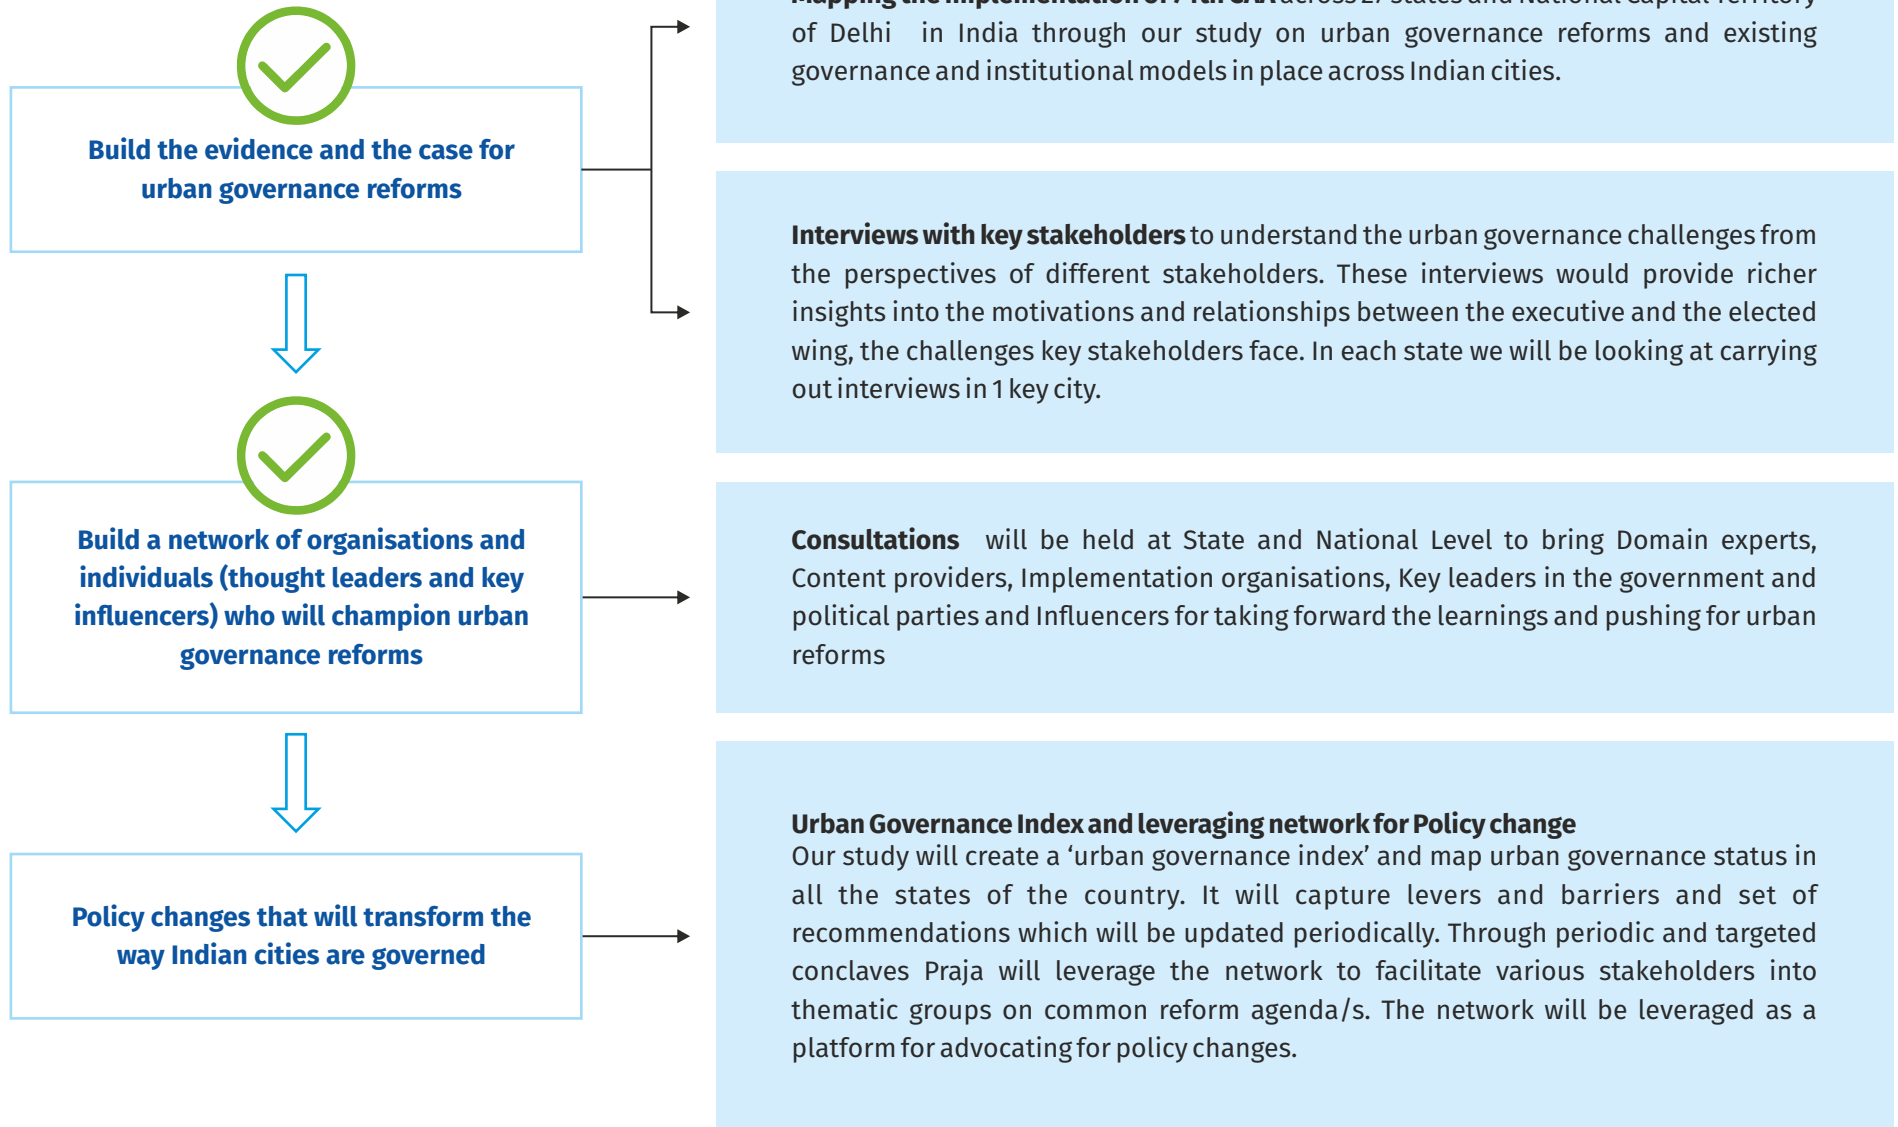

In a nutshell the project will enable urban governance to transform a 'smart city' into a 'smartly governed city' by influencing policy change at a structural and systemic level to democratise city governments and improve delivery of services.'

Why mapping the implementation of 74 CAA Is needed?

The 74th Constitutional Amendment Act (CAA) was passed in 1992 to give constitutional status to municipal corporations across India. 74th amendment seeks to devolve powers and functions to Urban Local Governments to enable them to act as effective democratic units of local self-government. It has been more than 25 years since 74th amendment came into force, however, devolution of powers and the capacities of city governments are not completely mapped. There is need to create knowledge repository to understand gap between what has been legislated (de jure) and what is happening on the ground (de facto).

1.2 METHODOLOGY (1/3)

1.2 METHODOLOGY (2/3)

Objective: Mapping of the implementation of 74th CAA and municipal functions

1. Identify the prevalent institutional structures in different municipalities
2. Identify the roles and responsibilities of various departments and officials (elected as well as administrative) within a municipality
3. Map the 18 functions and the role of city governments and parastatals in performing them
4. Identify key informants in the administrative and deliberative wings

The research for the state reports on 74th CAA was undertaken in three stages.

- First, a detailed study of existing literature and relevant municipal acts was undertaken to understand the context.
- Second, discussions and interviews were undertaken with multiple stakeholders across states. Nagrika team visited cities to understand the experience of decentralization in cities in India.
- Finally, the field insights were corroborated with secondary research to develop the report.

Objective: Interviews with Elected Representatives and City Executive

The interviews aim to gather evidence on understanding urban governance and development from the view of elected representatives, the city executive and citizens. It explores the relationships between these different groups and identifies the challenges facing Indian cities.

The interviews explore the following themes

1. City Government: Composition and Function;
2. Municipal Finance
3. Citizen participation and Grievance redressal mechanism.

The interviews conducted with councillors, executives of municipal corporations and MLAs which come under jurisdiction of municipal corporations.

- First, interviews with stakeholders were conducted.
- Second, Transcribing of interviews was done followed by Identification of main themes and sub themes
- Finally, Thematic analysis was done and findings from Nagrika reports were incorporated to create urban governance reports

The analysis in the report is based on a sample of participants.

- The interviews were qualitative and the figures indicate the number of people who highlighted a particular issue.
- The solutions capture the reflections of different respondents, and are not indicative of Praja Foundation's views.

1.2 METHODOLOGY (3/3)

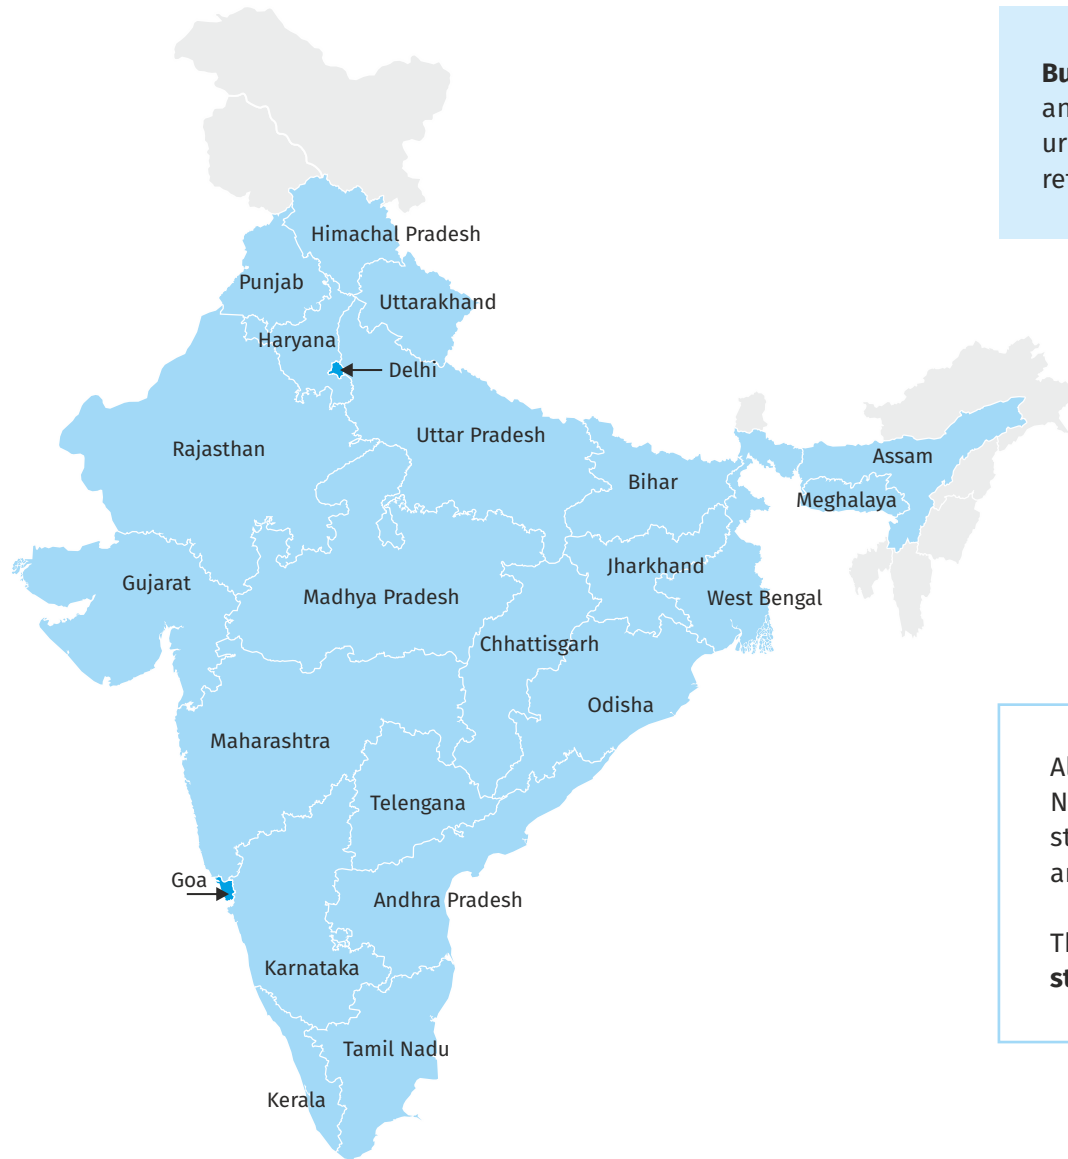

Sample calculation method

- A sample size of 10% of the total number of MLAs in the city or minimum 2 MLA's whichever is greater was considered for the study. Similarly, 10% of the Councillors or a minimum of 3 Councillors per MLA approached, whichever is greater. Table provides an illustrative example for Ahmedabad and Coimbatore.
- The stratified random sampling method was used to select Councillors and MLAs. The sample is representative of the gender and party mix.
- Councillors in key positions are approached if they are not covered in the sample – Mayor/Deputy Mayor, Ward Committee Chair, Standing Committee Chair, Members of Mayor-in-Council, Chairs of important statutory committees.
- All Municipal Commissioners are invited to participate + a sample of senior and junior municipal officials selected at random

Elected Representative	Calculation	E.g. Ahmedabad	E.g. Coimbatore
No. of MLAs		16	2
No. of councillors		192	100
MLA	10% of total MLAs in the city or a minimum of 2 (whichever is greater)	2	2
Councillor	10% of the Councillors (or a minimum of 3 Councillors per MLA approached whichever is greater)	19	10
	3 Councillors per MLA approached (or 10% of Councillors whichever is greater)	2 x 3 = 6	2 x 3 = 6
Executives	1 Executive per 3 Councillors or Minimum 3	3	3
	Total sample	24	15

Table provides an illustrative example for Ahmedabad and Coimbatore.

1.3 STATUS OF URBAN GOVERNANCE STUDY

Build the evidence and the case for urban governance
reforms

As a part of the study, total 1,314 interviews were carried out from November 2017 till December 2019 with key stakeholders including elected representatives, government officials, civil society experts from 22 states and 1 National Capital Territory

Consultation and Network building

Praja conducted state level consultations for 20 states and 1 National Capital Territory of Delhi in India by December 2019.

Although urban governance study is completed in 22 states and National Capital Territory of Delhi, consultations are completed for 20 states and National Capital Territory of Delhi, which excludes Assam and Meghalaya.

Thus, analysis in this report is based on 21 geographies including 20 states and National Capital Territory of Delhi.

FRAMEWORK OF URBAN GOVERNANCE STUDY

2.1 Principle of Subsidiarity

2.2 Praja's Framework for Empowerment of City Government :

- Control and Execution of Functions and Functionaries
- Empowered and Accountable Elected Representatives
- Fiscal Decentralisation
- Active Citizen Participation and Citizen Grievance Redressal Mechanism

2.1 THE PRINCIPLE OF SUBSIDIARITY

The main idea behind the principle is that a larger or greater body should not carry out activities which can be efficiently done at local level by smaller body.

The principle of subsidiarity emphasises that central authority should have a subsidiary function, performing only those tasks which can not be performed at immediate or local level.

Further, it means that the policies should always be made at lowest possible level and state should legislate when uniform regulation is necessary

Its relevance

City governments should exercise functions which can be carried out efficiently as a democratic unit of local governance.

This means that the 18 functions listed in 74th constitutional amendment which are of local importance should be carried out by city governments and central/state governments should not get involved in them.

2.2 PRAJA'S FRAMEWORK FOR EMPOWERMENT OF CITY GOVERNMENT

The framework of urban governance is directive in nature and throws light on the broad areas of reforms which are essential in order to make city governments function as democratic units of local self-governance.

The Praja foundation believes that empowerment of city governments across the country can be achieved through strengthening the following themes:

- 1. Control and Execution of Functions and Functionaries: The city government should have complete control over list of 18 functions plus functions of local importance and their execution through direct control over agencies working in the jurisdiction of the city.
- 2. Empowered and Accountable Elected Representatives: The mayor and councillors being elected representatives of people need to be empowered. They should be given ownership and held accountable for the development of the city.
- 3. Fiscal Decentralisation: Along with devolution of functions, control over finances is essential to carry out functions efficiently. Thus, control over sources of revenue needs to be completely shifted to city governments.
- 4. Active Citizen Participation and Citizen Grievance Redressal Mechanism: Citizen participation in governance process plays vital role to ensure accountability, transparency and make governments responsive to the needs of people. In addition, robust grievance redressal mechanism is a must to resolve issues of people and improve delivery of services.

3.3 FUNCTIONS CONTROLLED BY CITY GOVERNMENTS

The Directive Principle: Transfer of 18 functions as per 74th CAA to city governments

- The 74th constitutional amendment act (CAA), 1992 gave constitutional status to urban local governments in India. As per 74th CAA, 18 functions listed under article 243-W should be devolved to the city governments across states in India.
- The city government is known as third tier of government in Indian governance system. As a democratic unit of self-governance, city government should have complete authority to carry out all 18 functions plus functions of local importance which are related to day-to-day life of citizens. Thus, the local functions which are currently under control of state government/parastatal bodies should be transferred to city government.

Highlights

- Not a single city government among 21 cities has control over all 18 functions listed under 74th constitutional amendment act.
- Mumbai is leading in terms of control over functions as 9 functions are independently controlled by Municipal Corporation of Greater Mumbai followed by Kochi Municipal Corporation which has control over 8 functions.
- Out of 21 cities, 8 cities have independent control over more than 5 functions, whereas there are 13 cities who have independent control over 5 or less than 5 functions.

3.4 PRESENCE OF MULTIPLE AGENCIES

The Directive Principle : City governments should have control over execution of all functions in the city

- The present of multiple agencies creates coordination related problems, leads to duplication of work and poor service delivery. Thus, it is essential to have one agency who has control over delivery of all functions. Being urban local government, municipal corporations should have complete control over execution of all functions in the city area.
- All the agencies/parastatal bodies working in the jurisdiction of a city, should report to municipal corporation and work under its direction. Therefore, the permission for implementation of projects related to 18 functions should be taken from the city government by state government/ parastatal bodies.

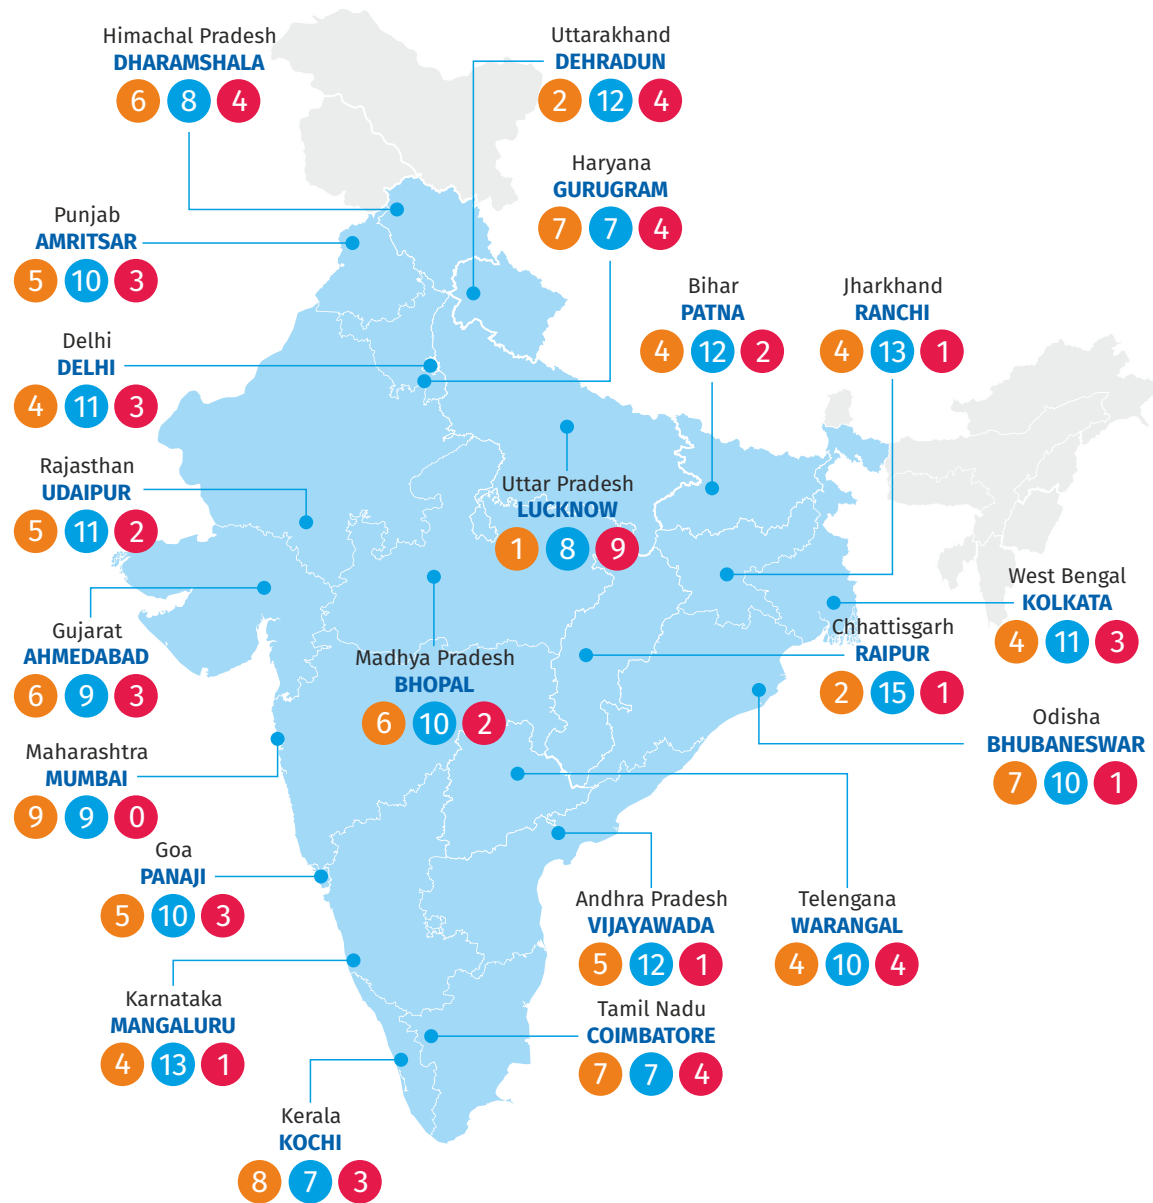

Functions under Multiple agencies

Highlights

- Out of 21 cities, 9 cities experience involvement of multiple agencies in more than 10 functions out of 18 functions and currently, there is no nodal agency to coordinate among agencies leading to issues in delivery of services.
- In Raipur, out of 18 functions, 15 functions have involvement of multiple agencies leading to issues in coordination and resulting in poor service delivery.
- Ranchi and Mangaluru have involvement of multiple agencies in 13 functions.
- 12 functions are carried out by multiple agencies in Vijayawada, Patna and Dehradun.
- Udaipur, Delhi and Kolkata have involvement of multiple agencies in 11 functions.

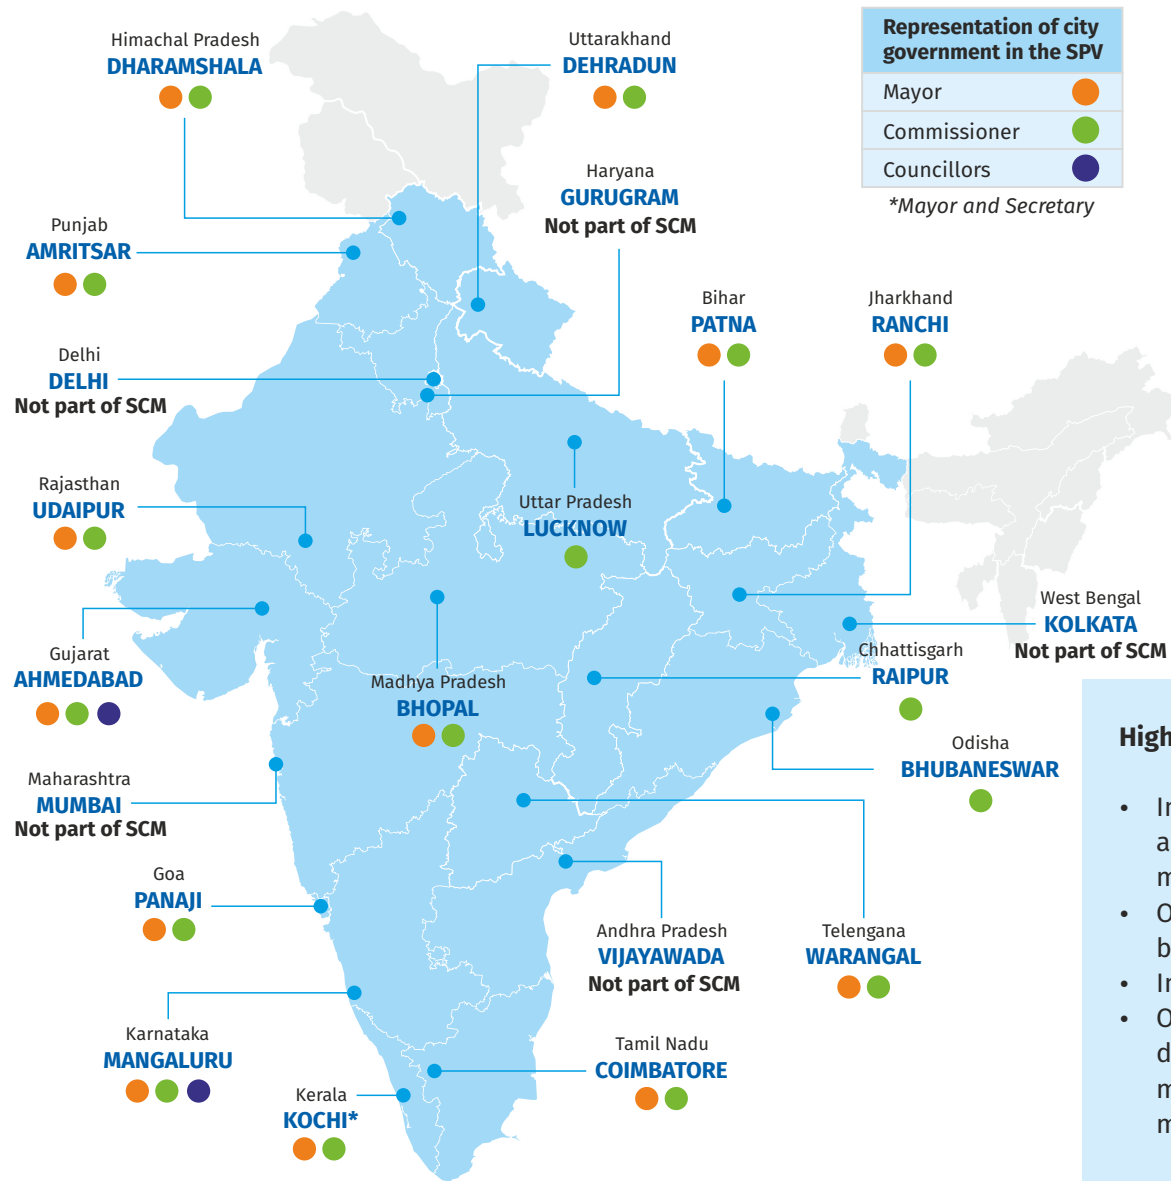

3.5 FACTOID- DISTRIBUTION OF 18 FUNCTIONS IN TERMS OF CONTROL

Status of Devolution of 18 functions

- Functions under City government
- Functions under Multiple agencies
- Functions under State government

3.6 REPRESENTATION OF CITY GOVERNMENT IN SMART CITY MISSION (SCM)

The Directive Principle : City governments should have control over execution of all functions in the city

- The Special Purpose Vehicle (SPV) has been created for implementation of smart city mission in all cities that are a part of the mission. SCM focuses on projects related to urban renewal, infrastructure development and they are implemented in the jurisdiction of municipal corporation. However, SPVs are acting as independent body and are not accountable to municipal corporations.
- Since city government has equal shareholding along with the State government in SPVs, there should be equal representation of city government in SPV's board of directors. Moreover, SPVs should report to municipal corporations for implementation of any project.

Highlights

- In many cities, SPVs are headed by state government officials and city governments do not have much role in the decision making process of SCM projects.
- Out of 21 cities, only Udaipur Mayor is vice-chairperson of SPV's board of directors.
- In 19 cities, Councillors are not part of SPV's board of directors.
- Only in Mangaluru and Ahmedabad, councillors are involved in decision making of SPV board. In Mangaluru, 4 councillors are members of SPV board whereas in Ahmedabad, 1 councillor is a member of SPV board apart from Mayor.

3.7 STATUS OF HUMAN RESOURCES IN CITY GOVERNMENTS (1/2)

The Directive Principle: There is need to build the capacity of city governments in terms of adequate and skilled human resources

- At present, parastatal bodies have skills set and capacity to carry out functions such as urban planning, housing, construction of roads & bridges and water supply etc. and municipal corporations lack such skillsets. Thus, there is a need to build capacity of urban local governments through regular training. The state government departments/parastatal bodies should work as specialised agencies under the direction and control of municipal governments. In addition, municipal government should have authority to decide whether to carry out delivery of a function through parastatal body or outsource it to any other organisation having required expertise.
- Moreover, the municipal corporations should have adequate human resources to carry out service delivery and have control over recruitment of human resources.

No of employees per 1000 population

Note: Permanent and Contractual employees data is used for the analysis. However, contractual data is not available for Coimbatore, Dehradun, Gurugram and Patna.

Highlights

- City governments lack capacity to carry out functions as they do not have adequate qualified and skilled staff.
- Municipal corporations from Mumbai and Kolkata have 8 employees per 1000 population to carry out delivery of service.
- The Gurugram and Patna municipal corporation have around 1 employee to deliver services in the city area.
- Panaji municipal corporation has 19 employees per 1000 population to deliver services in the city

3.8 RECRUITMENT OF HUMAN RESOURCES IN CITY GOVERNMENTS

The Directive Principle: City governments should have the authority to conduct recruitment process

- At present, the city governments lack authority to recruit human resources and they are dependent upon state government for approval. Thus it leads to lot of vacancies. Being urban local government, cities should have the authority to recruit human resources whenever required to deliver services efficiently.

Highlights

- Not a single municipal corporations has control over recruitment process. Although Mumbai, Ahmedabad, Raipur, Bhopal and Coimbatore corporations can conduct recruitment process, state government is the final sanction authority.
- In Kolkata, there is a dedicated Municipal Service Commission to conduct recruitment process for municipal corporation.
- However, municipal service commission is not under control of municipal corporation and it reports to state government.

The Directive Principles mentioned in the upcoming themes are points for deliberation and consideration as basic principles for building Urban Agenda at the National Consultation on 22nd and 23rd January 2020

4.1 EMPOWERMENT OF MAYOR (1/2)

Directive Principle: There is need to empower the position of the Mayor

- Municipal Corporations across states are headed by municipal commissioners who act as chief executive officers. The municipal commissioner is appointed by the state government. At present, the urban governance model in India gives executive powers in the hands of municipal commissioners and elected representatives are left with advisory role. The Mayor being elected representative and first citizen, people expect Mayor to solve existing issues in the city. However, Mayors only have a ceremonial role in the functioning of municipal corporation and lack administrative powers.
- Thus, there is need to empower the position of Mayor. The Mayor should have authority to prepare annual confidential report (ACR) of municipal commissioner which will make the position of municipal commissioner accountable to the Mayor. Moreover, the position of Mayor should have a tenure which is co-terminus with term of office of municipal corporation. This will provide stability to the position of Mayor to take decisions for long term. In addition, Mayor should be empowered to hold administrative officials accountable and suspend them if required. Further, the Mayor should appoint the Municipal Commissioner and the State government can play an advisory role in the selection process.

Highlights

- Mayors from Municipal Corporations of Kerala are most empowered amongst all Mayors from 21 states. Mayors from Kerala have tenure of 5 years, authority to prepare ACR of commissioner, suspend officials from corporation and possess administrative control over the functioning of municipal corporations.
- Mayors from Rajasthan, West Bengal are also empowered to some extent and have control over administration of municipal corporations.
- Mayors from 16 states are ceremonial head of municipal corporations and lack administrative powers.
- 6 cities have directly elected Mayors by citizens, whereas in 15 cities Mayors are indirectly elected by councillors.
- Mayors from only 6 cities namely Kochi, Udaipur, Dehradun, Lucknow, Kolkata, Dharamshala have authority to prepare ACR of municipal commissioner.
- Mayors from 6 states do not have stable tenure of 5 years.

4.2 EMPOWERMENT OF COUNCILLORS

Directive Principle: Councillors should be part of key deliberative committees

- Councillors being elected representatives of people, mainly have an advisory role in the governance processes. There is need to ensure that councillors are involved in the decision making process of the municipal corporation.
- All Councillors should be part of at least one key deliberative body like standing committees, subject committees etc. so that they can participate in decision making process, initiate proposals for development of wards and discuss issues faced by people from their respective wards.
- Councillors should be entitled to honorarium, sitting allowances and should get office and staff.

Highlights

- Councillors are part of at least one deliberative committee only in 6 cities of Vijayawada, Raipur, Dharamshala, Kochi, Bhubaneswar and Udaipur out of 21
- Councillors do not get honorarium in Delhi, Bhubaneswar, Lucknow, Dehradun, Coimbatore.

4.5 ACCOUNTABLE ELECTED REPRESENTATIVES (1/3)

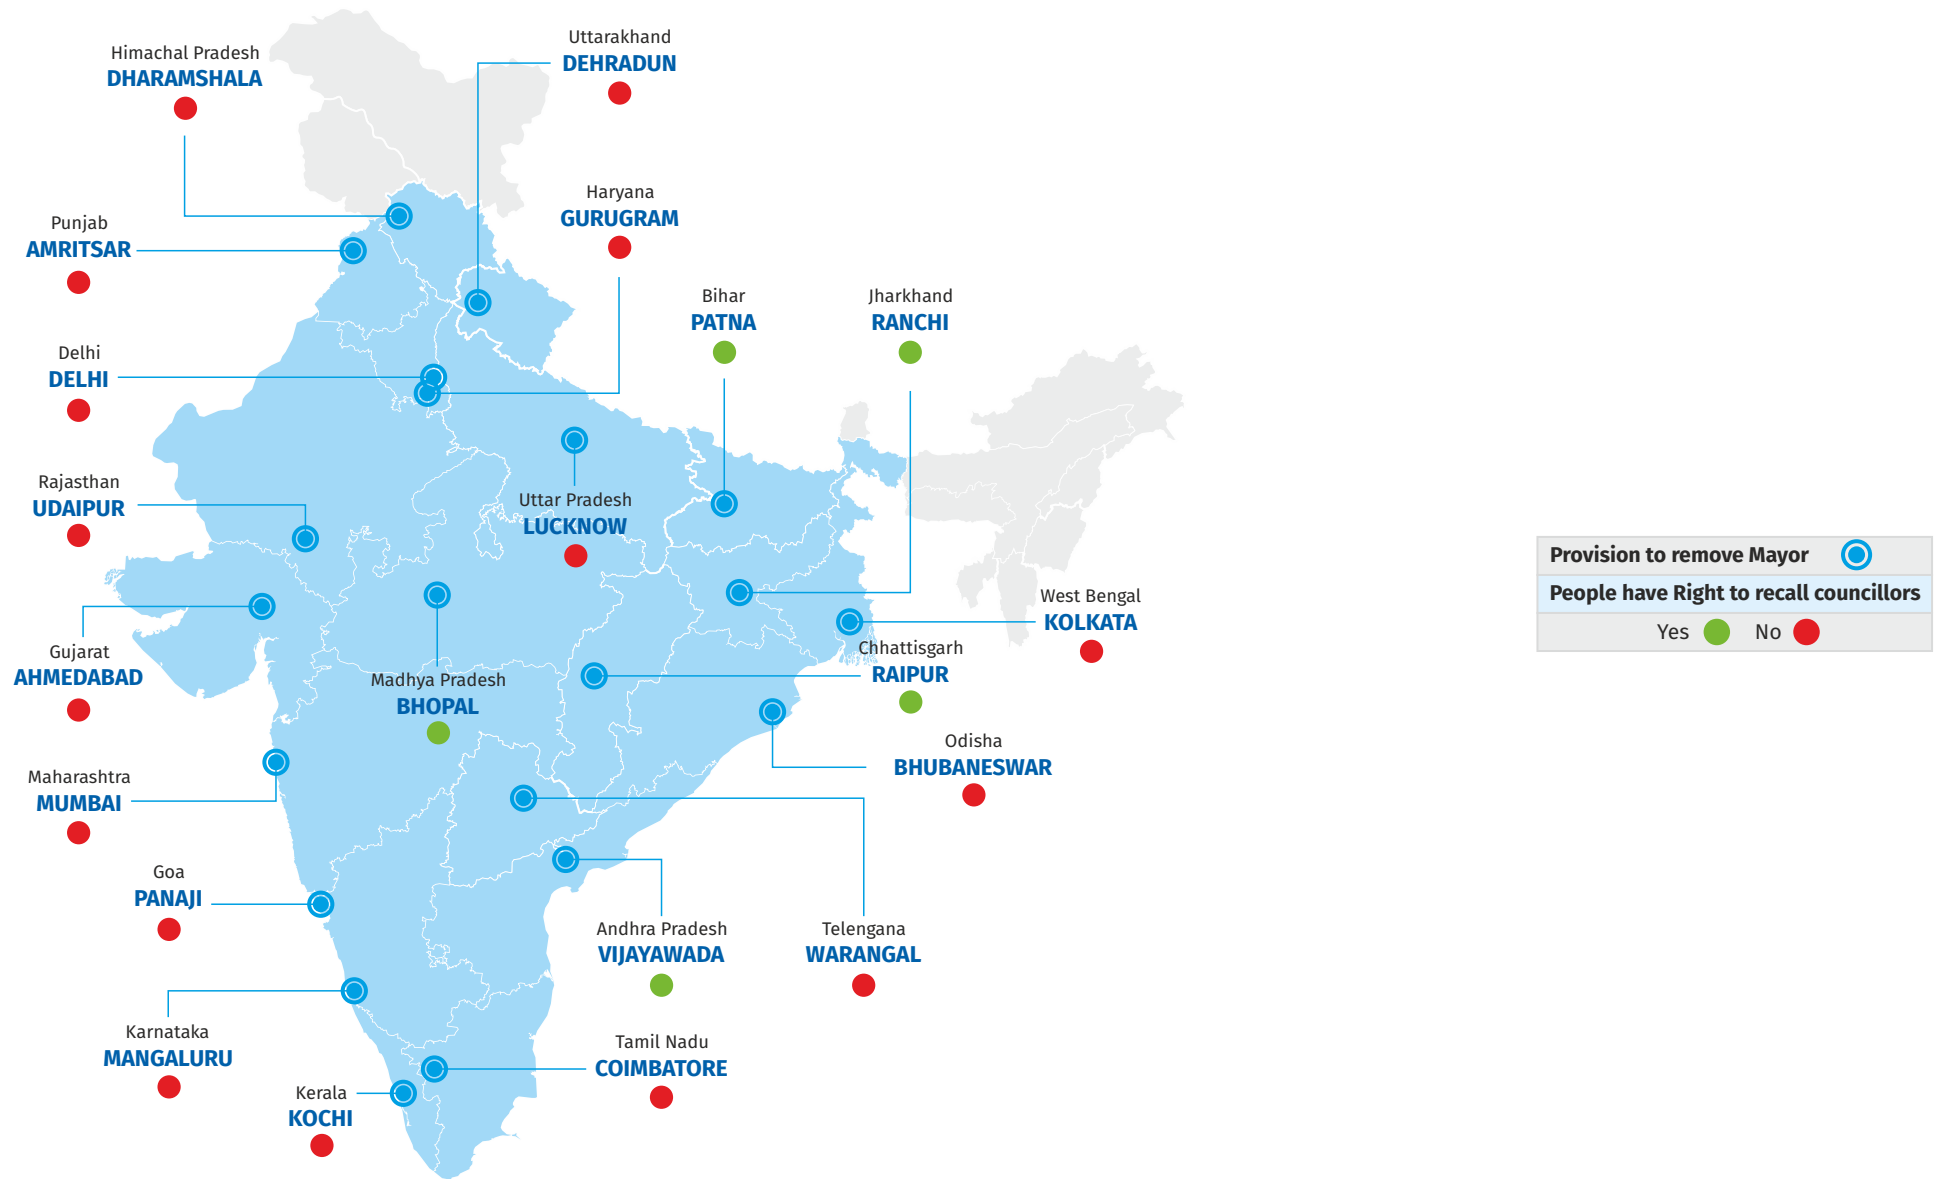

Directive Principle: Mayor and Councillors should be accountable to people and held responsible for the development of the city

- As we know, state governments are headed by chief ministers who have the ownership and adequate authority to run the state. So if something goes wrong with the state, CM is held accountable. Similarly, the Mayor being the head of city government, should have complete ownership to run the city and Mayor should be held accountable for development of the city. Similarly, councillors should be held responsible for the development of the wards.
- Municipal Houses/council, standing/subject committee meetings should be conducted on regular basis as per bye-laws. It is essential that appropriate bye-laws or corporation procedure rules should be in place for effective functioning of municipal corporations, on the lines of parliamentary/legislative procedure rules.
- Mayor and Councillors should attend the meetings regularly and if councillors remain absent for 3 consecutive council meetings or committee meetings, then council should suspend councillor's membership of council and committee.
- People should have right to recall Mayor and councillors, if their performance is not up to the mark.

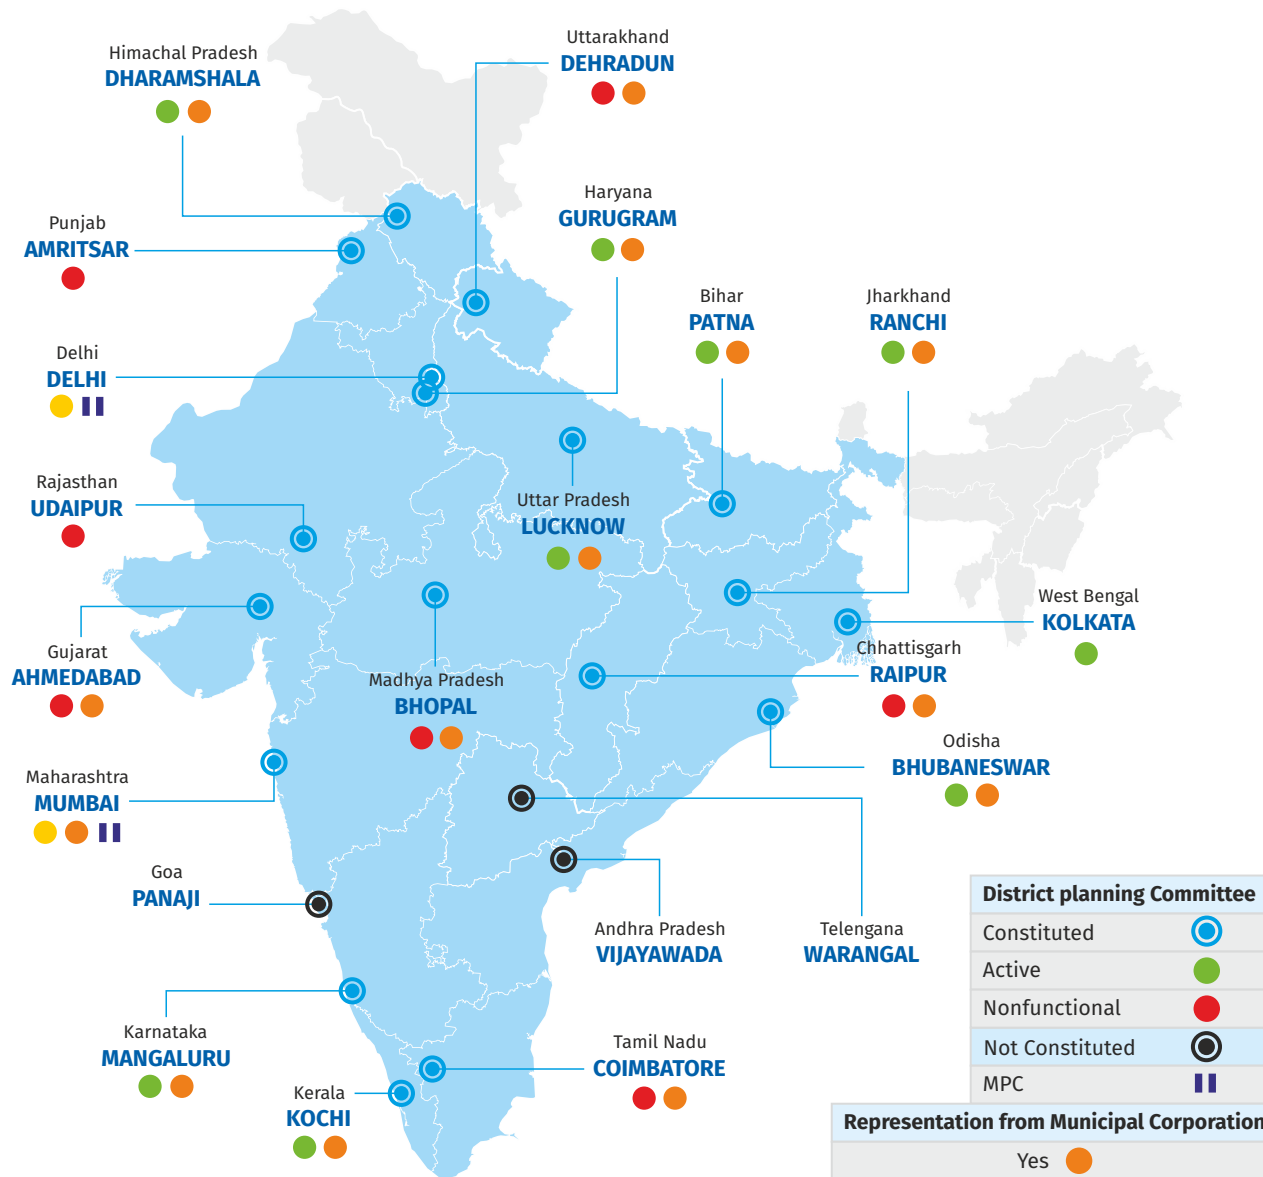

Highlights

- Patna, Ranchi, Coimbatore and Warangal have bye-laws only for limited subjects.
- 5 cities namely Panaji, Gurugram, Dharamshala, Mangaluru and Dehradun do not have corporation procedure rules in place.
- In all 21 cities, Mayor can be removed from position depending upon the mode of election. If Mayor is elected by councillors, then councillors can pass a motion of no confidence in municipal house.
- In Bhopal, people have right to recall Mayor after 2 years of election since Mayor is directly elected by people.
- 5 Cities among 21 cities have provision to recall councillors if their performance is not satisfactory.

4.5 ACCOUNTABLE ELECTED REPRESENTATIVES (2/3)

4.6 DISTRICT PLANNING COMMITTEE

- The District Planning Committee (DPC) and Metropolitan Planning Committee (MPC) are essential platforms for unified planning of the District and Metropolitan areas respectively. The Plans made at city level are to be consolidated at DPC and MPC.

- Active Citizen Participation
- Citizen Charter
- Grievance Redressal Mechanism

The Directive Principles mentioned in the upcoming themes are points for deliberation and consideration as basic principles for building Urban Agenda at the National Consultation on 22nd and 23rd January 2020

6.1 STATUS OF WARD COMMITTEE

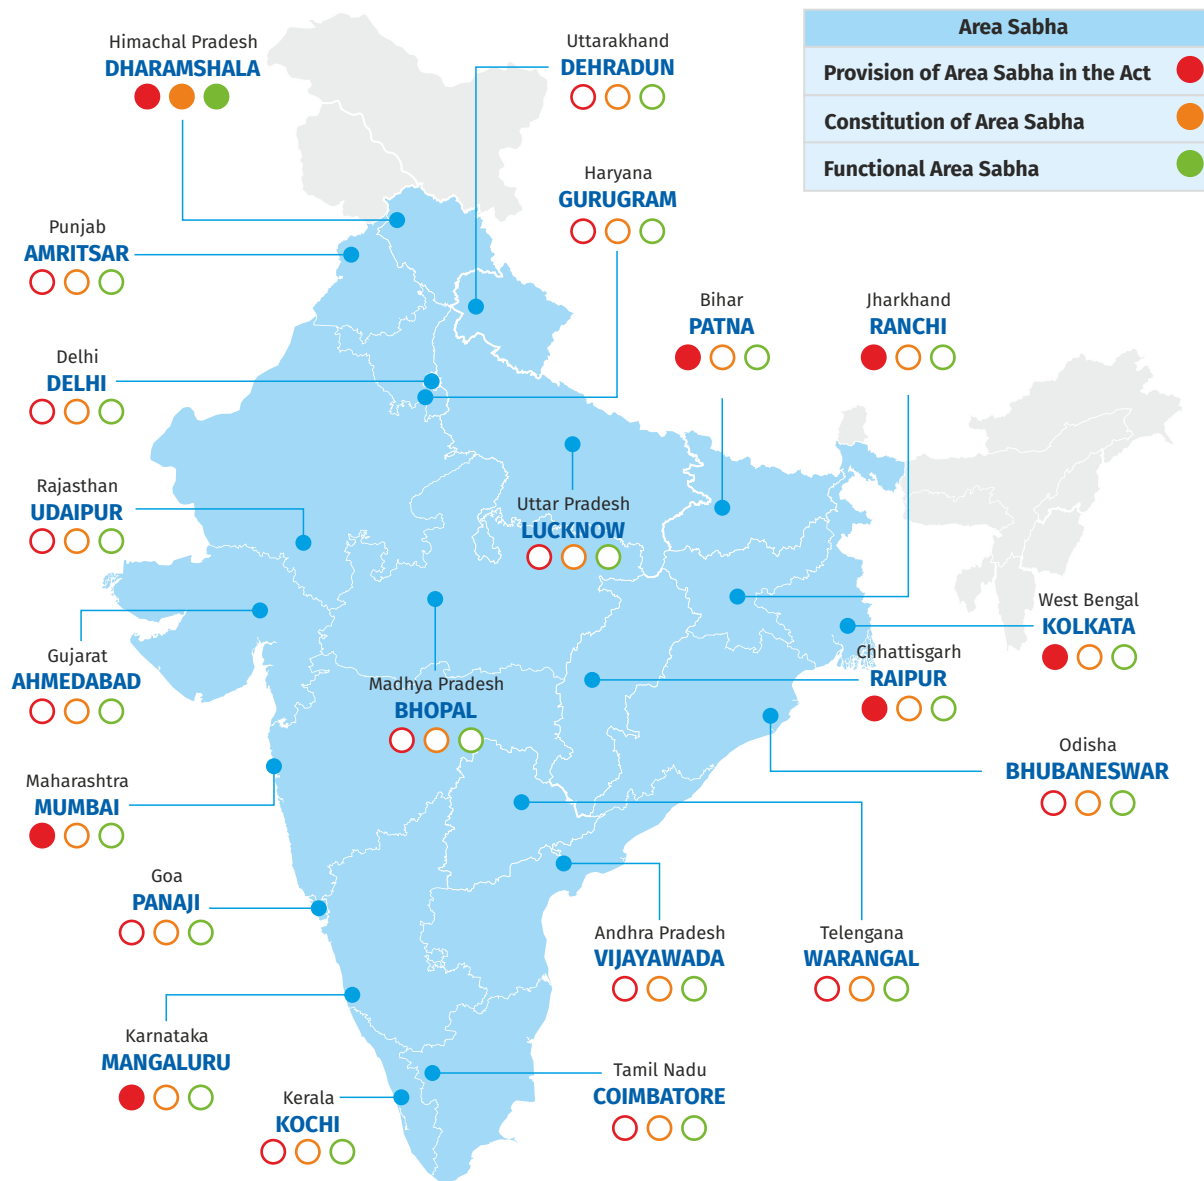

Directive Principle – Ward Committee should serve as a deliberative platform at ward constituency level.

- The ward committee should facilitate discussion.
- Suggestions from the area sabhas are consolidated and discussed for holistic ward development.

Highlights

- There is provision of ward committees in the Municipal Corporation Act of all the States.
- However, the ward committees are constituted only in Dharamshala, Delhi, Udaipur, Ahmedabad, Mangaluru, Mumbai, Kochi and Bhubaneswar
- Of the ward committees constituted, they are active only in Dharamshala, Delhi, Ahmedabad, Mumbai, Kochi and Bhubaneswar.
- These ward committees are at zonal level in cities like Delhi, Mumbai, Panaji, Coimbatore, Vijayawada and Raipur. In all other cities, the ward committees are at ward constituency level.

6.2 STATUS OF AREA SABHA

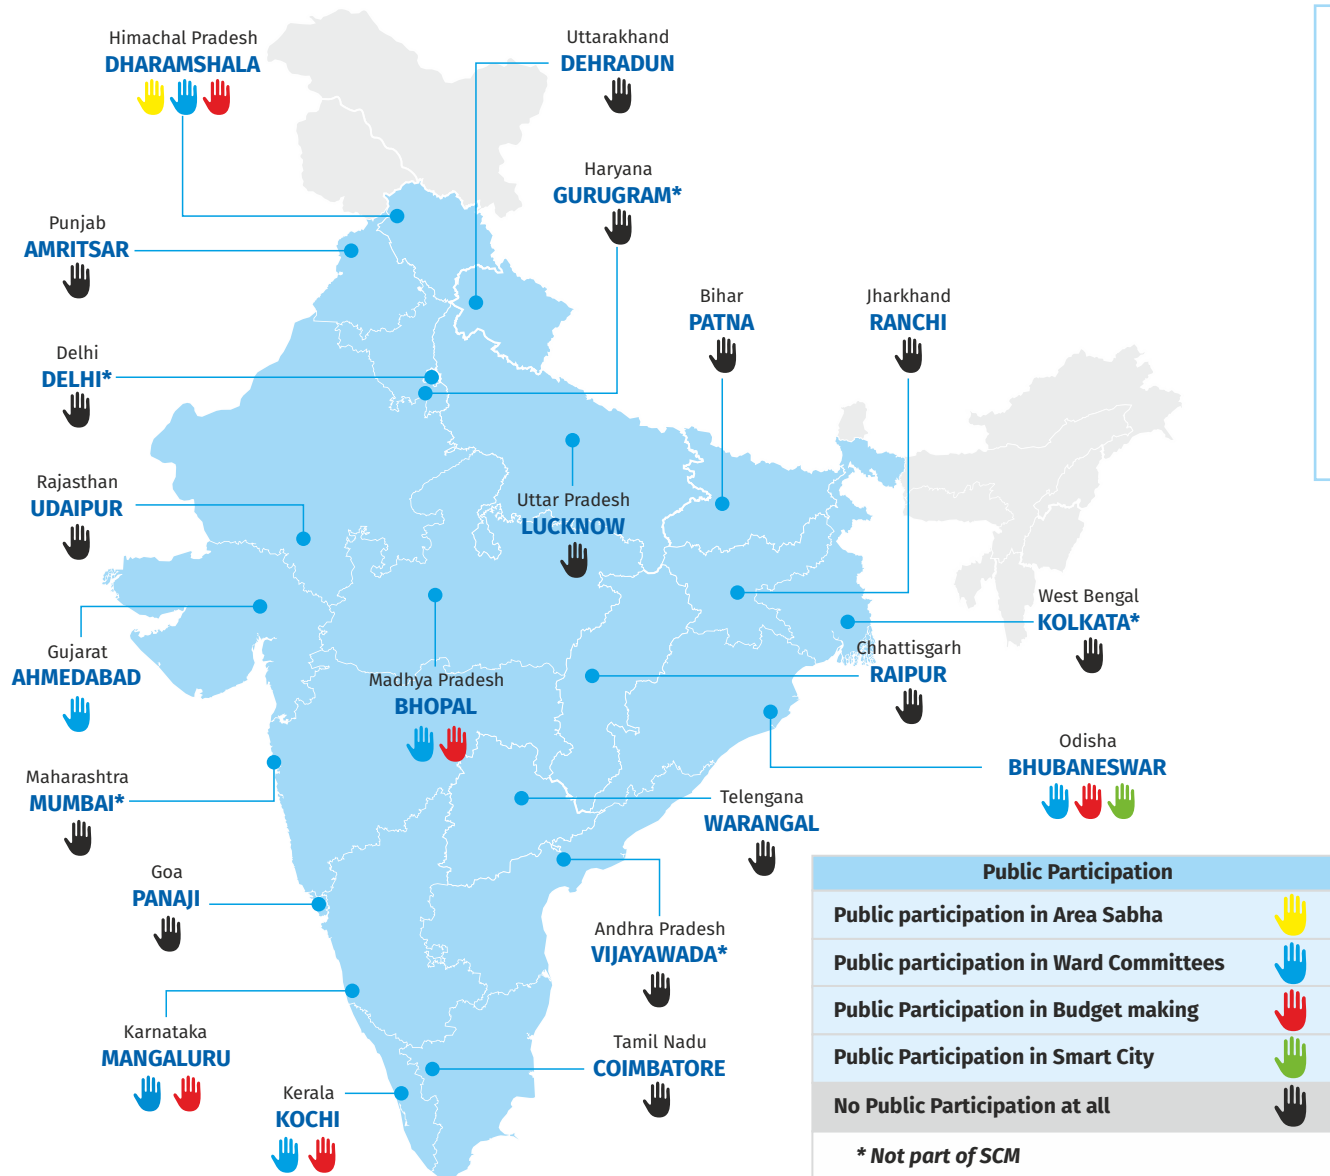

Directive Principle – City governments should facilitate deliberation through citizen participation at area sabha level.

- Model Nagar Raj bill and JNNURM stressed on the formation of area sabhas. The composition of area sabha should be inclusive of the gender and marginalised section of the society. The area sabha should facilitate citizen participation in planning and budget making process.
- There should be provision for area sabha, it should be constituted and functional as well.

Highlights

- There is provision for area sabha in the Municipal Corporation Act of Himachal Pradesh, Maharashtra, Karnataka, Chhattisgarh, Kolkata, Jharkhand and Bihar.
- However, out of these, the area sabha is constituted and functional only in Dharamshala.

6.3 ACTIVE CITIZEN PARTICIPATION

Directive Principle – There should be active citizen participation to ensure transparency and accountability in governance process

6.4 CITIZEN CHARTER

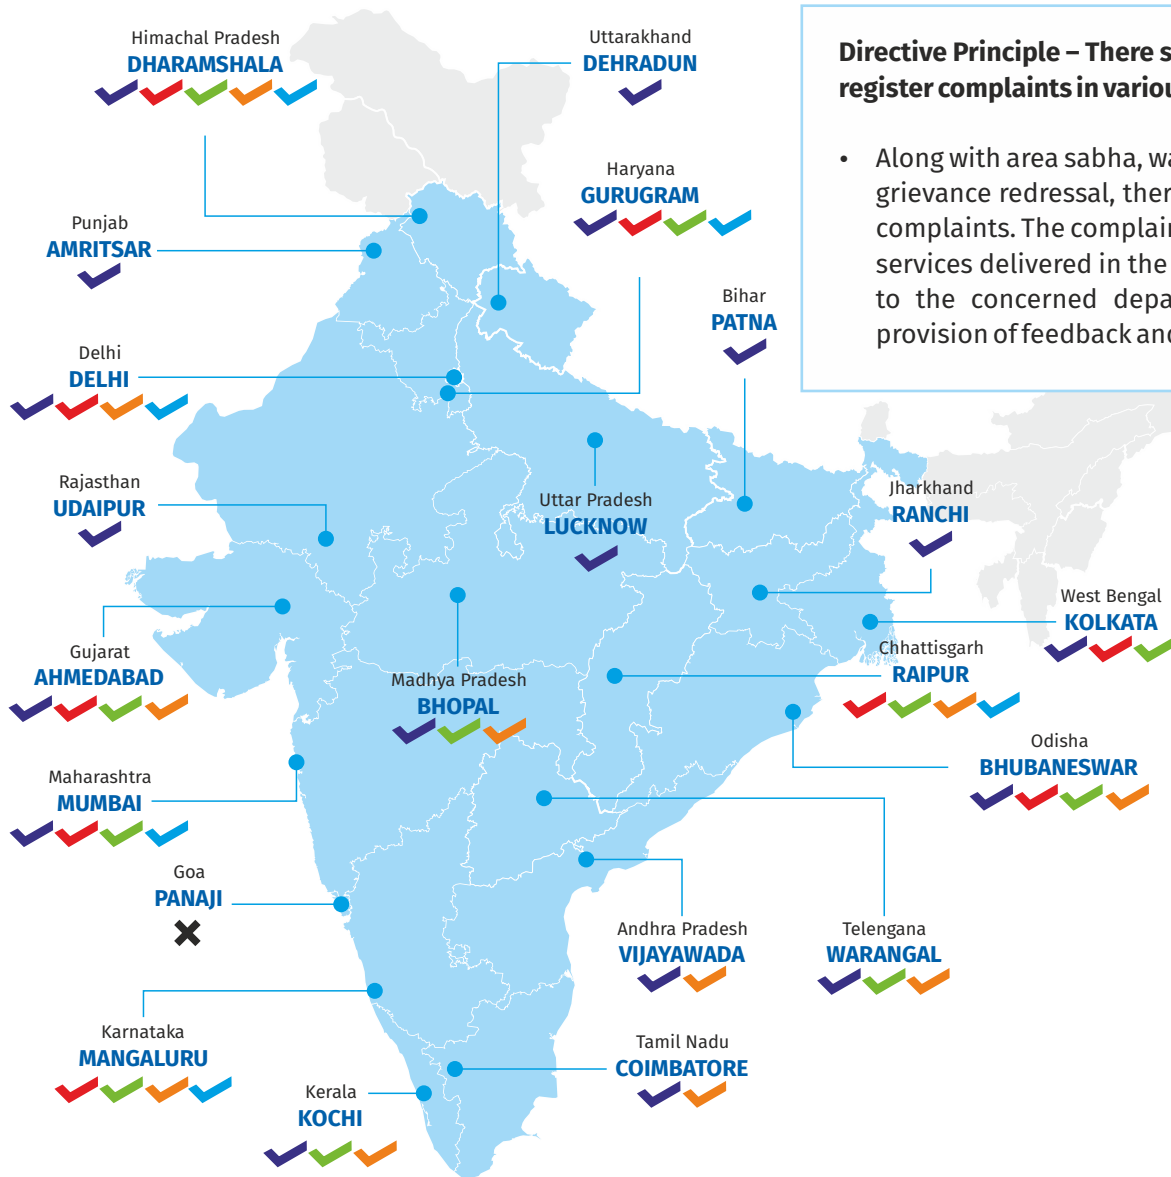

Directive Principle – Citizen charter is essential for city governments to ensure effective service delivery and be responsive to needs of citizens

- The city government is a service delivery institution. Thus, it is important for the city government to have a citizen charter to make administration accountable, ensure transparency and to ensure accessibility of the city government to the citizens.

Highlights

- Out of the cities studied, all cities have a citizen charter except Patna and Dehradun.

6.5 CITIZEN GRIEVANCE REDRESSAL MECHANISM

Directive Principle – There should be a formal technology enabled platform for citizens to register complaints in various modes.

- Along with area sabha, ward councillor, committees and council, as platforms for citizen grievance redressal, there should be a formal technology enabled platform to register complaints. The complaint redressal mechanism should be centralised for all the public services delivered in the city (through any agency city/state/central) and then directed to the concerned department. The complaint redressal mechanism should have provision of feedback and the closing of complaint should be done by the citizens.

Highlights

- All the States have a citizen complaint and grievance redressal mechanism.
- Cities like Raipur and Mangaluru do not have a citizen grievance mechanism at the city government level but the State redressal mechanism can be used.
- Dharamshala has a grievance redressal mechanism at city government level, integrating different modes, use of technology, feedback mechanism and action taken report is generated.
