Eject Helmet Removal System

The setup is comprised of a thin, two-inch square air bladder that is situated inside the top of your helmet. It can be fitted between the inner liner and shell toward the center of the helmet. The bladder connects to an air tube that's routed inside the liner and down through the bottom of the right-hand side of the helmet. The intake air connector can then be fastened to the base of the helmet via its Velcro fastener. A yellow 'Eject equipped' sticker is then placed next to the intake to signal to medical personnel that the system is installed.
