CHAPTER 1.

NUMBER OF INHABITANTS.

Introduction.—This chapter gives the population of Texas, by counties and minor civil divisions, as enumerated at the Thirteenth Census, taken as of April 15, 1910, with comparative statements of population where possible, and a statement and discussion for the state as a whole of the population living in urban and in rural territory. The statistics are given in detail in two general tables.

Table 1 (p. 576) shows the population of Texas, distributed according to counties and minor civil divisions, at the last three censuses, namely, those of 1910, 1900, and 1890. In this table the counties are arranged alphabetically, while the primary divisions in each county, except a few not returned by precincts, are given in numerical order. The figures for secondary divisions are printed in italics. The changes in boundaries, name, or form of organization that have taken place since 1900 are indicated in the footnotes to the table. For changes between 1890 and 1900 reference must be made to the census report of 1900.

It may be noticed that the county totals as given in Table 1 for 1900 and 1890 sometimes exceed the aggregate population of the minor civil divisions as shown in the table. This is for the most part due to the territorial changes that have been made in the minor civil divisions of certain counties since 1900. In a few cases, however, the population of certain divisions returned separately at one census was returned in combination with that of other divisions at another census.

Table 2 (p. 593) shows the cities and the incorporated towns and villages of Texas, alphabetically arranged, with their population in 1910, 1900, and 1890.

The population of Texas, by counties, at each of the last five censuses, from 1870 to 1910, inclusive;

the increase during the last two decades; the density of the total and the rural population at the census of 1910; and the distribution of the population at the last two censuses according to urban and rural districts, are given in Table I of Chapter 2.

The tables and text of the present chapter contain few technical expressions whose meaning is not apparent. The census usage in regard to certain terms is, however, explained below:

Density of population.—The density of population of a state or county is obtained by dividing its total population by the number of square miles in its land area. In calculating the density of rural population, the same divisor is used as it is not practicable to ascertain and deduct the exact area covered by the urban districts, and even if this could be done with accuracy the deduction of this area from the total land area would ordinarily make no appreciable difference in the resulting quotient.

Minor civil divisions.—The counties are divided generally into smaller political units which bear different designations in the different parts of the country, such as towns, townships, election precincts, justice precincts, etc. Of these minor civil divisions those which rank next to the county as geographic areas are termed primary divisions. In many instances, however, these primary divisions contain political units of still smaller area, such as cities, incorporated villages, towns, or boroughs. These smaller political units are referred to as secondary divisions.

Urban and rural population defined.—The Census Bureau, for purposes of discussion, has defined urban population as that residing in cities and other incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, and rural population as that residing outside of such incorporated places.

The comparisons of the urban and rural population in 1910 with that at earlier enumerations may be made either with respect to the varying proportions of the two classes at successive enumerations or with respect to the increase between enumerations. In order to contrast the proportion of the total population living in urban or rural territory at the census of 1910 with the proportion urban or rural at the preceding census, it is necessary to classify the territory according to the conditions as they existed at each census. In this comparison a place having less than 2,500 inhabitants in 1900

HISTORICAL NOTE.—Texas was named from the Tejas Indians, who once occupied part of the region now constituting this state. The meaning of the name is uncertain but it probably signifies "friends."

The first explorations of the area now constituting Texas were made by the Spaniards, Cabeza de Vaca, who wandered about in the southern part, 1528-1536, and Coronado, who crossed the northern part, 1540-1542. Other Spaniards visited the Texas country during the next hundred years, but the first attempt at settlement was made in 1685 by the French under La Salle. This attempt, though unsuccessful, incited the Spaniards to make settlements, the most important of which was begun at San Antonio in 1718. In 1728 the territory with vaguely defined limits was formed into a province of Spain.

The boundary between the Spanish possessions and the United States was in dispute during the early years of the nineteenth century, but in 1819, at the time of the Florida Purchase, the eastern and northern limits of the Spanish possessions were agreed upon and defined.

In 1821 Mexico, by revolution, became an independent nation, and three years later Texas and Coahuila were united into a single Mexican state.

Many settlers came to Texas from the United States, and their discontent with Mexican rule resulted in a successful revolution in 1835-36. In March of the latter year a constitution was adopted for the republic of Texas, which continued an independent existence until 1845, when it was annexed to the United States. Mexico's refusal to recognize the independence of Texas, together with a boundary dispute, led to war with the United States, which began early in 1846 and was brought to a close in 1848, when Mexico formally relinquished its claims to Texas, and to all lands north of the present southern boundary of California, the river Gila, and a line a little north of the thirty-second parallel.

From 1836 to 1850 Texas claimed as its southwestern and western boundaries the Rio Grande and a line drawn north from the source of that river to latitude 42°, the eastern and northern boundaries were formed by the limits of the Louisiana Purchase as defined in the Florida Purchase treaty of 1819. Texas thus included during this period, in addition to its present area, territory now constituting parts of New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, and a small part of southern Wyoming. In 1850 the state sold to the Federal Government for $10,000,000 that part lying outside its present limits.

and over 2,500 in 1910 is classed with the rural population for 1900 and with the urban for 1910. On the other hand, in order to present fairly the contrast between urban and rural communities, as regards their rate of growth, it is necessary to consider the changes in population for the same territory which have occurred from one decennial census to another. For this purpose the territory which in 1910 was urban or rural, as the case may be, is taken as the basis, and the population in 1900 for the same territory (so far as separately reported at that census) is presented, even though part of the territory may, on the basis of its population at the earlier census, have then been in a different class. This avoids the disturbing effect on comparisons which would arise from the passage, for example, of communities formerly classed as rural into the urban group. These two distinct forms of comparison are made in Table I of Chapter 2 for the state as a whole and for each county separately for the last two censuses.

TOTAL POPULATION, INCREASE, AND DISTRIBUTION.

Population of the state.—The population of Texas is 3,896,542. Compared with a population of 3,048,710 in 1900, this represents an increase during the last decade of 847,832, or 27.8 per cent. During the same period the total population of the United States increased 21 per cent. The growth of the state was somewhat slower than during the preceding decade, 1890–1900, when the rate was 36.4 per cent.

The following table shows the population of Texas at each census from 1850 to 1910, inclusive, together with the increase and per cent of increase during each decade, in comparison with the per cent of increase for the United States as a whole.

CENSUS YEAR.	Population.	INCREASE OVER PRECEDING CENSUS.		Per cent of Increase for the United States.

1860.....	604,215	391,623	184.2	35.6
1850.....	212,592

Texas was admitted as a state in 1845 and appears in the Federal census reports for the first time in 1850. Since that time Texas has grown rapidly, its population nearly trebling during the first decade, 1850–1860, more than doubling during the 20 years, 1860–1880, and nearly doubling again in the 20 years from 1880 to 1900.

A comparison of the rates of increase for the state with those for the United States, as given in the preceding table, shows that during each decade since 1850 the rate of increase for the state has been higher than the rate for the United States, the greatest difference between the two rates being for the decade 1850–1860 and the smallest difference for the last decade. The population of the state in 1910 was more than eighteen times its population in 1850, while the population of the United States in 1910 was not quite four times that in 1850.

Principal cities.—Texas has 132 cities. San Antonio, the largest, has a population of 96,614, and Dallas, the second city, a population of 92,104. Houston and Fort Worth, with 78,800 and 73,312 inhabitants, respectively, are the other cities in the state having over 50,000 inhabitants. There are also 4 cities having from 25,000 to 50,000, 12 having from 10,000 to 25,000, 18 having from 5,000 to 10,000, 32 having from 2,500 to 5,000, and 62 having less than 2,500 inhabitants.

Table 2 shows the population in 1910 of all the cities of the state with comparative figures, where possible, for 1900 and 1890. The table on page 569 shows the population of the 8 cities having in 1910 over 25,000 inhabitants, as reported at each census since their incorporation either as cities or towns, so far as figures are available, together with the increase during each decade.

Of the cities included in this table, five—Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Houston, and San Antonio—show a rate of increase for the last decade of more than 75 per cent. Fort Worth shows the highest rate of increase during the last decade, namely, 174.7 per cent, and Waco the lowest, 27.7 per cent. Aside from Galveston, which shows a decrease of 2.1 per cent during the last decade, Austin and Waco are the only cities showing a slower growth during the last than during the preceding decade.

Counties.—Texas has 245 counties, of which 6 are unorganized. The population of these counties ranges from 65 in Cochran County to 135,748 in Dallas County.

The following territorial changes have been made in the counties of Texas since 1900: Part of Tom Green County was taken in 1903 to form Reagan County and part of Pecos County was taken in 1905 to form Terrell County.

Owing to the organization since 1900 of two new counties from parts of other counties as shown above, the increase or decrease in population is calculated for only 241 counties and for two combinations of counties. The combinations of counties are Reagan with Tom Green, and Terrell with Pecos. In order to determine the actual rate of increase for these counties, it is necessary to add the population of the new county to that of the old county from which it was formed. Two hundred and seven counties and the two combinations of counties increased in population during the last decade. Of the 207 counties that show increases, 12 show rates of increase over 1,000 per cent. These high percentages are for the counties which in 1900 were practically uninhabited, but which since that time have become more or less settled. Of the remaining counties showing increases, 74 show percentages of increase over 100. Brazos County shows the smallest rate of increase, namely, three-tenths of 1 per cent.

The largest absolute increase in any county, 56,196, representing a percentage of 107.3, was shown by Tarrant. The combined counties of Reagan and Tom Green increased 168.6 per cent, while Terrell and Pecos increased 48.3 per cent. Thirty-four counties decreased in population during the last decade, the rates of decrease ranging from 1.1 per cent in Madison County to 22.4 per cent in Washington County. The aggregate increase of population from 1900 to 1910 in the two combinations of counties and in the 207 counties that showed increases was 913,002; the aggregate decrease of population in the 34 counties that showed decreases was 65,170. The difference, 847,832, is, of course, the total increase of population in the state.

The maps on pages 572 and 573 show the increase or decrease in the total and the rural population, respectively, of each county of Texas during the last decade. In the counties shown in white the population decreased; for the other counties the different rates of increase are indicated by differences in shading.

Density of population.—The total land area of the state is 262,398 square miles. The average number of persons to the square mile in 1910 was 14.8; in 1900 and 1890 it was 11.6 and 8.5, respectively. The average number per square mile for the United States as a whole in 1910 was 30.9.

The density of population is given by counties in Table I of Chapter 2 and in the maps on pages 574 and 575, both for the entire population and for that living in rural territory, excluding in the latter case the population of places of 2,500 or more, but not excluding the land area of such places.

El Paso County, with 9,331 square miles, has the largest area, and Rockwall County, with 149 square miles, has the smallest area. Dallas County, containing Dallas city, has the highest density of any county, namely, 158 persons per square mile, while Cochran County has the lowest density, namely, 0.1.

Minor civil divisions.—The political divisions into which counties are subdivided are collectively termed "Minor civil divisions." In Texas, of the 239 organized counties, 236 are divided into 1,484 primary divisions, comprising 1,456 justices' precincts and 28 commissioners' precincts. There are also 320 secondary divisions, comprising 132 cities, 180 incorporated towns, and 8 incorporated villages. These secondary divisions usually form parts of the precincts in which they are wholly or partly located, but 2 cities are coextensive with precincts.

Urban and rural population compared.—The following table presents the population of Texas at the censuses of 1910, 1900, and 1890, respectively, distributed among cities, towns, and villages, grouped according to specified limits of population, together with the percentage of the total population contained in each group at each of the censuses named. The classification is based upon the population of each place as it existed at each census. For the purposes of this table Texarkana city is included in the group of urban places having from 10,000 to 25,000 inhabitants, although it had a population of only 9,790 in 1910, 5,256 in 1900, and 2,852 in 1890. This is due to the fact that Texarkana city, Tex., and Texarkana city, Ark., each separately incorporated, are together commonly known as Texarkana city, with a joint population of 15,445 in 1910, 10,170 in 1900, and 6,380 in 1890.

As shown by the above table, the urban territory of the state in 1910—that is, the cities and incorporated towns of 2,500 inhabitants or more—contained 938,104 inhabitants, or 24.1 per cent of the total population, while 2,958,438 inhabitants, or 75.9 per cent, lived in rural territory. The urban territory as it existed in 1900—that is, the cities and incorporated towns then having 2,500 inhabitants or more—contained 520,759 inhabitants, or 17.1 per cent of the total population, while 2,527,951 inhabitants, or 82.9 per cent, lived in rural territory. There has thus been since 1900 a considerable increase in the proportion of urban population. The change in the preceding decade was in the same direction but less marked. For the United States as a whole the urban population constituted 46.3 per cent of the total population in 1910 and 40.5 per cent of the total population in 1900.

In 1910 the combined population of the cities of 25,000 inhabitants or more constituted 12.1 per cent of the total population of the state; the corresponding percentage in 1900 and 1890 was 6.7 and 5.9, respectively. The urban places having less than 25,000 inhabitants at the censuses of 1910, 1900, and 1890 contributed 11.9, 10.4, and 9.7 per cent, respectively, of the total population of the state.

The urban population of the state is contained in 70 cities and 21 towns, while the rural population is in 229 incorporated places of less than 2,500 inhabitants each and in the unincorporated territory. The 229 places of less than 2,500 inhabitants each have an aggregate population of 256,305, representing 6.6 per cent of the total population of the state. These places comprise 123 having from 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 189,500; 77 having from 500 to 1,000 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 56,475; and 29 having less than 500 inhabitants each, with a combined population of 10,330. The population living in unincorporated territory represents 69.3 per cent of the total.

The above table shows further that in all incorporated places, including those of less than 2,500 inhabitants, there was in 1910 a population of 1,194,409, or 30.7 per cent of the population of the state. The population of all incorporated places, as they existed in 1900, was 680,967, or 22.3 per cent of the population of the state.

Table I of Chapter 2 shows that 39 counties had a larger proportion and 11 counties a smaller proportion of urban population in 1910 than in 1900. Thirty-two counties and one combination of counties, which were wholly rural in 1900, were partly urban in 1910, while 159 counties and one combination of counties were wholly rural at both censuses.

In order to compare the rate of growth in urban and rural communities it is necessary in each case, as previously explained, to consider the changes in population which have occurred in the same territory from one decennial census to another. With this end in view places classed as urban or rural according to their population in 1910 are taken as a basis and the aggregate population in 1910 and in 1900 of the same places is then compared. Thus, as shown in the table on page 571, the total population in 1910 of those places which at that time had 2,500 inhabitants or more was 938,104; in 1900 the total population of these same places (so far as separately reported) was 559,872. It may be noted that the latter figure exceeds the total population in 1900 of those places which at that time had over 2,500 inhabitants each, 520,759 (see table above) by 39,113. The difference is the net result of the passage, since 1900, of certain communities from the rural to the urban class and vice versa.

A comparison of the total population in 1910 of places having a population of not less than 2,500 each with the total population of the same places in 1900, as given in the table in the next column, shows an increase of 67.6 per cent. This represents the rate of growth of urban communities as thus defined. During the same period the rural population, comprising that of the remainder of the state, increased 18.9 per cent. The population of urban areas thus increased more than three and one-half times as fast as rural. For the United States as a whole urban population increased 34.9 per cent in the last decade and rural population 11.2 per cent. As shown by Table I of Chapter 2, there are 42 counties in Texas in which rural population decreased and 11 counties in which there was a decrease in the urban population during the last decade, there being 6 counties that decreased in population in both rural and urban districts.

In the following table the population for the state as a whole is distributed so as to show, for 1910 and 1900, the combined population of the places having in 1910 over 25,000, and from 2,500 to 25,000 inhabitants, respectively, and the population of the remainder of the state.

CLASS OF PLACES.	POPULATION.		INCREASE: 1900-1910
	1910	1900	Number.	Per cent.
The state	3,896,542	3,048,710	847,832	27.8
Urban territory in 1910	938,104	559,872	378,232	67.6
Cities and towns of 25,000 or more in 1910	478,375	267,549	208,826	76.9
Cities and towns of 2,500 to 25,000 in 1910	464,729	292,323	172,406	59.0
Remainder of the state	2,958,438	2,488,838	469,600	18.9

From this table it appears that the group of urban places having over 25,000 inhabitants increased in population during the last decade more than two and three-fourths times as rapidly as the state as a whole, and the group of places having from 2,500 to 25,000 inhabitants more than twice as rapidly. The rate of increase for rural territory was only about two-thirds that for the state as a whole.

CHAPTER 2.

COMPOSITION AND CHARACTERISTICS OF THE POPULATION.

Introduction.—The first chapter having given the number of inhabitants of Texas by counties and minor civil divisions, the decennial increase and the density of population, and the proportions urban and rural, the present chapter deals with the composition and characteristics of the population. The two chapters cover all the principal topics of the population census except occupations and ownership of homes.

Description of the tables.—The greater part of this chapter consists of five general tables, which present statistics of color, nativity, parentage, sex, citizenship, illiteracy, school attendance, and dwellings and families, as follows: Table I for the state and counties; Table II for cities of more than 25,000 inhabitants; Table III for cities of 10,000 to 25,000; Table IV for places of 2,500 to 10,000; and Table V for wards of cities of more than 50,000.

A series of summary tables (numbered 1 to 15) reproduces from the general tables the more important state and city totals, and presents also certain additional data relative to state of birth, age, and marital condition.

On account of the wide differences in characteristics among the different classes of the population, the statistics on each subject are shown according to race, and for the whites according to nativity and parentage. Classification according to nativity and parentage is scarcely necessary for the other races, since nearly all negroes and Indians are native born of native parentage, and nearly all Chinese and Japanese either foreign born or of foreign parentage.

The white population is divided into four groups: (1) Native, native parentage—that is, having both parents born in the United States; (2) native, foreign parentage—having both parents born abroad; (3) native, mixed parentage—having one parent native and the other foreign born; (4) foreign born. As the second and third classes do not differ greatly in characteristics, they are combined in some of the tables; in a few cases all three native white classes are combined.

Since marked differences often exist between urban and rural communities with respect to the composition and characteristics of the population, the two classes are distinguished in connection with several of the subjects. Urban population, as defined by the Bureau of the Census, includes that of all incorporated places of 2,500 inhabitants or more, the remainder being classified as rural.

The census inquiry as to school attendance was merely as to whether the person enumerated had attended any kind of school at any time between September 1, 1909, and the date of enumeration, April 15, 1910.

The Census Bureau classifies as illiterate any person 10 years of age or over who is unable to write, regardless of ability to read.

Color and nativity (Table 1).—Of the total population of Texas, 3,204,848, or 82.2 per cent, are whites, and 690,049, or 17.7 per cent, negroes. The corresponding percentages in 1900 were 79.6 and 20.4, respectively. Twenty-eight of the 245 counties report no negroes; in 137 other counties the percentage of negroes is less than 12.5; in 30 it is between 12.5 and 25; in 42, between 25 and 50, and in 8 the proportion exceeds one-half. (See map on page 659.)

Native whites of native parentage constitute 66.8 per cent of the total population of the state, and 81.2 per cent of the white population. Native whites of foreign or mixed parentage constitute only 9.3 per cent of the total population, and foreign-born whites only 6.2 per cent.

Of the urban population, 59.5 per cent are native whites of native parentage; of the rural, 69.1 per cent. The corresponding proportions for native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, are 12.2 and 8.4 per cent, respectively. The percentage of foreign-born whites is 9.2 in the urban population and 5.2 in the rural; the percentage of negroes is 19.1 in the urban and 17.3 in the rural.

Sex (Tables 2 and 12).—In the total population of the state there are 2,017,626 males and 1,878,916 females, or 107.4 males to 100 females, the ratio being the same in 1910 as it was in 1900. Among the whites there are 109 males to 100 females; among the negroes the population is about equally divided between the sexes. Among native whites the ratio is 107.3 to 100, as compared with 132.6 to 100 for the foreign-born whites. In the urban population there are 101.7 males to 100 females, and in the rural, 109.3.

State of birth (Tables 3 and 4).—Of the total native population—that is, population born in the United States—74.7 per cent were born in Texas and 25.3 per cent outside the state; of the native white population, 28.2 per cent were born outside the state, and of the native negro, 12.5 per cent. Persons born outside the state constitute a larger proportion of the native population in urban than in rural communities.

Foreign nationalities (Table 5).—Of the foreign-born white population of Texas, persons born in Mexico represent 51.8 per cent; Germany, 18.7; Austria, 8.6; England, 3.5; Italy, 3; Russia, 2.4; Ireland, 2.2; Sweden, 2; all other countries, 7.7 per cent. Of the total white stock of foreign origin, which includes persons born abroad and also natives having one or both parents born abroad, Mexico contributed 38.7 per cent; Germany, 28.5; Austria, 8.8; England, 4.4; Ireland, 3.8; Italy, 2.3; Sweden, 1.9; Russia, 1.8; Canada, 1.6 per cent.

Voting and militia ages (Table 6).—The total number of males 21 years of age and over is 1,003,357, representing 25.7 per cent of the population. Of such males, 83.3 per cent are whites and 16.6 per cent negroes. Native whites represent 72.1 per cent of the total number and foreign-born whites 11.2 per cent. Of the 112,152 foreign-born white males of voting age, 43,381, or 38.7 per cent, are naturalized. Males of militia age—18 to 44—number 804,980.

Age (Tables 7, 8, and 13).—Of the total population, 13.8 per cent are under 5 years of age, 24.8 per cent from 5 to 14, inclusive, 20.9 per cent from 15 to 24, 25.9 per cent from 25 to 44, and 14.4 per cent 45 and over. The foreign-born white population comprises comparatively few children, only 11.5 per cent of this class being under 15, while 72.4 per cent are 25 years of age and over. Of the native whites of native parentage and of the negroes, only 38.6 per cent are 25 and over. The negro population comprises a somewhat smaller proportion of children under 5 than the native white population of native parentage.

The urban population shows a smaller proportion of children than the rural, and a larger proportion of persons in the prime of life. Migration to the city explains this at least in part. Of the urban population, 32.7 per cent are from 25 to 44 years of age, inclusive, and of the rural, 23.7 per cent.

School attendance (Table 9).—The total number of persons of school age—that is, from 6 to 20 years, inclusive—is 1,363,713, of whom 790,736, or 58 per cent, attended school. In addition to these, 6,740 children under 6 and 12,601 persons 21 and over attended school. For boys from 6 to 20 years, inclusive, the percentage attending school was 57.7; for girls, 58.3. For children from 6 to 14 years, inclusive, the percentage attending school was 70.2. The percentage for children of this age among native whites of native parentage was 74.3; among native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 60.3; among foreign-born whites, 38.4; among negroes, 64.5. (See Table I.) In urban communities the percentage of children of that age attending school was 74.3, and in rural, 69.2.

Illiteracy (Table 10).—There are 282,904 illiterates in the state, representing 9.9 per cent of the total population 10 years of age and over, as compared with 14.5 per cent in 1900. The percentage of illiteracy is 30 among foreign-born whites, 24.6 among negroes, and 4.3 among native whites. It is 3.3 for native whites of native parentage, and 11.6 for native whites of foreign or mixed parentage.

For all classes combined, the percentage of illiterates is 7.1 in the urban population and 10.9 in the rural. For each class separately, also, the percentage of illiterates in the rural population greatly exceeds that in the urban.

For persons from 10 to 20 years of age, inclusive, whose literacy depends largely upon present school facilities and school attendance, the percentage of illiteracy is 6.7. (See Table I.)

Marital condition (Tables 11 and 14).—In the population 15 years of age and over, 37.2 per cent of the males are single and 26 per cent of the females. The percentage married is 57.2 for males and 62.7 for females; and the percentage widowed 4.6 and 10.2, respectively. The percentages of those reported as divorced, 0.5 and 0.8, respectively, are believed to be too small, because of the probability that many divorced persons class themselves as single or widowed.

That the percentage single is so much smaller for women than for men is due largely to the fact that women marry younger. Thus 17.9 per cent of the females from 15 to 19 years of age are married, as compared with 1.9 per cent of the males, and 61 per cent of the females from 20 to 24 years are married, as compared with 31.6 per cent of the males. In the next age group, 25 to 34 years, the difference in the percentages is less marked, and in the age group 35 to 44 it is very slight, while among those 45 and over the percentage married is higher for the males. That there is a larger proportion of widows than of widowers may indicate that men more often remarry than women, but, since husbands are generally older than their wives, the marriage relationship is more often broken by death of the husband than by death of the wife.

For the main elements of the population the percentages of married persons among those 15 years of age and over are as follows: Foreign-born whites, 62.8 for males, 67.5 for females; native whites of native parentage, 57.5 and 64.2, respectively; native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 49.3 and 57.1; negroes, 57 and 57.8.

These percentages by no means indicate the relative tendency of the several classes as regards marriage. To determine that, the comparison should be made by age periods, since the proportion married in any class is determined largely by the proportion who have reached the marrying age. Similarly, the proportion widowed depends largely on the proportion past middle life. The percentage married, both for males and for females, is higher in rural than in urban communities.

Dwellings and families.—The total number of dwellings in Texas is 779,177, and the total number of families 798,426, indicating that in comparatively few cases does more than one family occupy a dwelling. (See Table I.) The average number of persons per dwelling is 5, and the average number per family, 4.9.
